Thomas Evans.

THOMAS EVANS died suddenly at his residence, near Monck's Corner, S. C., December, 1874.

Brother Evans was one of the many who hailed with grateful thanksgiving to God the long-prayed-for blessings of freedom. These blessings were prized by him, not so much in view of his temporal interests, as in his greater opportunities to serve God, and preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. His first Church connection, after emancipation, was with the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Here he labored with good success for the Master; but when he found an opportunity to connect himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church he gladly came within its fold, feeling that in it all of the rights of his manhood would be duly respected, and all the blessings of Christian fellowship and labor would be freely extended without invidious distinction on account of race or previous condition. The fields of his labor to which he was assigned by this Conference, and to which he cheerfully went to do the work of the Church, was upon the rice lands of the Cooper River. Here he found a large class to whom his ministrations were as refreshing as water to the thirsty, or bread to the hungry and starving. But he did not escape the effects of the malaria of that unhealthful region. Repeated attacks of fever broke down his constitution, yet he would not abandon his work. His wife first fell a victim to disease; and so impaired was his physical system that he soon after sank under this his last fatal attack. He went, seemingly in his usual health, from the supper-table to his room, to which attention was soon after called by an unusual noise. When his son went to the room our brother was found insensible, and soon after fell quietly asleep in death. His friends and brethren have the record of his life to afford them the comforting assurance that for him to die was gain.

Brother Evans was a good man, a faithful minister, and a valuable worker for the cause of Christ, and, although dead, yet speaketh.

Zachariah T. Barton.

ZACHARIAH T. BARTON was born in Clarke County, Va., in 1846. He was converted in the eighteenth year of his age, and entered the traveling connection in the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1872. His first appointment was to Hillsborough Circuit, where he labored with great acceptability, and so endeared himself to that people as to cause a spirit of mourning and sadness on account of his death. His second appointment was to the city of Portsmouth, where he was much beloved, and under his pastoral care the Church there prospered. At our last Conference he was returned to Portsmouth. During the summer his health was discovered to be failing, when he was advised to cease from his labors and seek a change of air. He returned to his native place in order, if possible, to recuperate his health; but consumption had already marked him for its victim. He lingered but a short time, and on the 21st day of November, 1874, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. We have thus been bereft of one of our young brethren who, when we consider all the circumstances, was of more than ordinary promise to the Church. But we bow in submission to this providence, and say, "Not our will, but thine, O Lord, be done!"

E. S. Havens.

E. S. HAVENS.—Another moral hero has fallen; another saint has entered into rest. Death, the unwelcome messenger, has again entered our ranks; he has dealt the hapless blow, and we are left to mourn the loss of one who, though recently joined to our number, we had learned to love, and of whom we had expected much.

Brother Havens departed this life, in the full triumph of the Christian faith, in the town of Girard, Kansas, whither he had gone temporarily, by the advice of his physician, to recruit his health. This sad event occurred during the first year of his labor in the South, he having been transferred from the West Wisconsin to this Conference in 1874, and stationed on the Waco Mission Charge.

Brother Havens was of a simple, child-like, but mighty faith. He believed and practiced the Gospel precept, "First pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy." In his spirit and manner there was developed the mildness and gentleness of the lamb; in integrity and fidelity to the Church of his choice he faltered not. As a preacher, he was earnest and pathetic; literally, he went forth weeping, and returned bearing precious sheaves. None knew him intimately but to love him. He has gone. He has passed away from active labor in Christ's vineyard and from our midst suddenly, and the sad news startled the Church. How strange are the ways of Providence! but how true it is that God knows best; and though the watchmen and the builders fall, the walls of Zion must be built. We bow to the Providence in confidence, knowing that our heavenly Father "doeth all things well."

James Peck, Alexander Posey, Joseph Gross—3.

1. JAMES PECK was one of the four who constituted the Washington Conference, organized by Bishop Scott October 27, 1864, and was appointed to Asbury Church in Washington, D. C. After six months he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Potomac District, in which capacity he served until he was appointed to Sharp-street, Baltimore; but after eight months he was re-appointed Presiding Elder of Potomac District. He was elected delegate to the General Conference held in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1872. He was next sent to Asbury Church, Baltimore, where he died in peace on the 6th day of March, 1874.

2. ALEXANDER POSEY came to our Church from the African Methodist Episcopal Church March 20, 1869, at which time the conference was sitting in Winchester, Va. He was received into full connection, and the same year, 1869, was appointed to Johnmann-st. Chapel, Winchester, Va. He was re-appointed in 1870 to Winchester, Va.; in 1871 to Harrisonburgh, Va., and in 1872–73 to Lexington, Va. In 1874 he was appointed to Abingdon, Va., but did not reach his work, he being sick at the time when he received his appointment. He never recovered, but died August 1, 1874, in the sixtieth year of his age.

3. JOSEPH GROSS was born in Charles County, Md., in the year 1820. He was converted when young; licensed to exhort in the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1848; was recommended to the Washington Conference by the Asbury Quarterly Conf., although he was at this time a slave. His master, Benjamin Williams, said that Joseph Gross was too good a man to be a slave, therefore he would give him an opportunity to buy himself, which he did. He closed his work December 6, 1874, in the fifty-fourth year of his age.

Henry Furlong, Henry Slicer, T. M. Eddy, R. C. Haslup, M. E. Hysore, George W. Johnson—6.

1. HENRY FURLONG was born in Baltimore, Md., March 21, 1797. "The early religious instruction," he says, "which I received from my mother had a very salutary effect on my mind. As far back as I can remember I was deeply impressed with the necessity and excellency of true religion. The fear of God was before my eyes; I was fond of attending meeting, was serious and solemn, had a particular feeling of respect and regard for religious people, and especially for ministers of the Gospel." Near the fifteenth year of his age he was brought to see and feel deeply the necessity of a change of heart. In his own words he says: "I do not recollect any particular circumstance which gave rise to these exercises of mind. The Holy Spirit strove with me, and I yielded. I was drawn gradually and powerfully toward God. I betook myself to reading the Bible and praying in good earnest, and was sincerely seeking the way of salvation, frequently with strong cries and tears. I was drawn strongly toward the Methodists, believing that they enjoyed the power and life of religion. On Sunday morning, while in class in Wilk-street Church, it pleased the Lord to remove the oppressive burden from my mind and give me a sense of his pardoning mercy. It was a happy morning to my soul, such a one as I had never seen before, and one which I can never forget."

In the spring of 1814 his father died, and he obtained the consent of his mother to join the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was received on probation by Rev. Alfred Griffith, the stationed minister on Fall's Point. In the spring of 1815 he received license to exhort, and in the following year he was licensed to preach. He was now under the pastoral oversight of Rev. Joshua Wells, and he could never forget his indebtedness to this distinguished minister of Christ for his private and public instruction. In 1816 a vacancy occurred on Montgomery Circuit, and he was appointed by Rev. Nelson Reed, the presiding elder, to fill it. Accordingly he made all necessary arrangements, and on the 14th of September took leave of his mother and entered on his itinerant career. He was admitted on trial, in the spring of 1817, into the Baltimore Conference, and appointed to Berkeley Circuit. In 1819 he was received into full membership in the conference. He filled many appointments in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania; was presiding elder of the Huntingdon District four years; was appointed to Baltimore City Station in 1830 and 1831; was in East Baltimore Station in 1855 and 1856. In 1860 and 1861 he was chaplain to the Union Seamen's Bethel. He was in the effective work forty-five years; was a delegate to the General Conference of 1828 and 1832, and was fifty-seven years a member of the Baltimore Conference. He was intimate with Bishops M'Kendree, Roberts, Soule, Waugh, and Bascom. He was present every day at the last session of our conference, held in Fayette-street Methodist Episcopal Church, and took a deep interest in its deliberations. He made this entry in his diary: "How greatly I desire before going hence to witness a glorious, fresh baptism of the Holy Spirit both among preachers and people . . . thus helping on the coming of Messiah's universal reign among men!"

Forty years ago Brother Furlong was one of the leading and most prominent preachers in the Baltimore Conference. Neat and precise in his personal appearance, clear, strong, and spiritual in his ministry, he impressed his hearers and commanded the respect of every community in which he lived and labored. His sermons were models of Gospel preaching.

They were adapted to the occasion and well delivered. He was a man of sound judgment in the interpretation of the canons of the Church, and judicious in the administration of the discipline. He possessed great purity of character, was exceedingly modest, and of a peculiarly sensitive spirit—almost too tender for this world. He did not, however, lack courage when duty called for its exercise. He was a Christian patriot, a lover of his country, and clearly comprehended the duty of citizens and their obligations to the Government. He was a man we could trust, "a good minister of Jesus Christ." A constant serenity reigned in his countenance, the visible sign of the calm in his breast, "the peace of God that passeth all understanding." His life was without a blemish, and he has left the inheritance of a good name to his brethren and the loved ones who survive him. He is almost the last of a noble, heroic, self-sacrificing class of ministers in our conference who have transmitted Methodism from the fathers to these times. His memory is precious and blessed among his brethren. The last days and closing hours of this man of God will never be forgotten. For some time his health had been declining; heart disease, complicated with dropsy and rheumatism, was developed. His suffering at times was great, but his patience endured to the end. His heart was gladdened by the presence of his brethren, for he loved them, and warm and emphatic were his responses to their supplications. Among the many sayings that fell from the lips of this dying saint were, "I am constantly enjoying solid peace." "My children, aim at high attainments in religion; let your characters shine through your lives." "Give my love to my brethren, and tell them I am on the Rock. Living or dying I go, trusting wholly in the merits of the atonement."

Saturday, August 29, 1874, was life's last day with him. In the morning he prayed earnestly and touchingly for the companion of his early toils. Among the many utterances of the day was: "When the Master says, 'Come,' I say, 'Here am I.'" As the day began to decline it seemed difficult for him to speak, and as evening approached speech failed almost entirely, although his mind was clear to the end. No mist nor shadow of a cloud lingered about his setting sun, and the radiance still lingers to cheer all left behind. His natural vision failed him about an hour before his death, as if yielding to another sight in the soul that was looking out upon the crossing. It was remarkable. It was what God in his mercy vouchsafed to our sensitive friend. No struggle. It was all we could have wished. A little after seven o'clock in the evening, at the residence of his son-in-law, Philip Darby, Esq., in Baltimore, with his loved ones around his couch, just as the week was closing, the blessed Sabbath approaching, the eternal Sabbath dawning, calm, undisturbed, he came down to the Jordan. It was truly a sublime scene.

How sweet the hour of closing day
When all is peaceful and serene,
And when the sun, with cloudless ray,
Sheds mellow luster o'er the scene!
Such was our brother's parting hour—
So peacefully he went to rest.

2. HENRY SLICER.—In the spring of 1824 the Baltimore Conference met in Winchester, Va. A young itinerant, received on trial two years before, came from Red Stone Circuit, west of the Alleghany Mountains, to be examined for ordination as deacon. This second year of his trial he had braved the toils of a circuit three hundred miles in extent, and had been preaching twenty-six times a month. The settlements were remote. He preached in cabins and log-huts. The journeys were perilous. The homes were humble, but the hospitality was generous. His early ministry was thus nurtured by trials which Methodist preachers love to recount when honors and age give occasion for innocent boasting, or opportunity for useful lessons to junior contemporaries. He was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon. A half century afterward, full of years and ripe in experience, having been an effective preacher fifty-two years, he died.

Henry Slicer was born in Annapolis, Maryland, March 27, 1801. His father was a native of Frederick, Md., of Scotch descent, and came to Annapolis when a boy, and died in Baltimore in his ninety-second year. His mother was born in Anne Arundel County, Md., and died in Annapolis in her eighty-fifth year. Both were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the faith of which they trained their children. Henry was the second son, and in his sixteenth year was sent to Baltimore to learn chair painting. The year after his arrival in Baltimore, under a sermon in Exeter-street Church by Rev. Gerard Morgan, he was awakened, left his seat in the gallery, knelt at the altar, and was converted. He joined the Exeter-street Church. Two years afterward, in his nineteenth year, he returned home. During these two years his activity and success in the Church had developed traits of character which indicated the Christian ministry as his life-work. The opinion of the excellent man to whom he was apprenticed, and of the Church of which he was a member, was confirmed by his own experience. The call of the Holy Ghost was distinct and imperative. He was licensed to preach in his twentieth year, and employed on the Baltimore Circuit by Rev. Stephen George Roszell, Presiding Elder of the Baltimore District. At the ensuing session of the Conference, in 1822, he was received on trial, and appointed to the Harford Circuit. We can imagine the feelings of this ardent young man when he came to the conference held in the good town of Winchester fifty-one years ago. His appointments (from 1822 to 1874) may be classified as follows: Seven years on circuits; twenty years on stations: Baltimore, Washington, Carlisle, Frederick, Georgetown; two years agent of the Metropolitan Church, Washington, D. C.; eight years chaplain of the Seamen's Union Bethel, Baltimore, and fifteen years on districts. When the Baltimore Conference was divided, the district of which he was presiding elder was assigned to the East Baltimore Conference, and he continued in that conference until its territory in Maryland was, at the General Conference of 1868, once more included in the Baltimore Conference, and the Central Pennsylvania Conference was formed. At the close of these fifty-two years of effective service, from his sick-room, he addressed to the Baltimore Conference (1874) a letter in which he said: "I had fondly hoped to be present at this session of the conference and enjoy its varied services. But that hope now is gone, and I am compelled by the state of my health to ask a supernumerary relation." This was his third absence in fifty-two years. Though he was not willing to admit himself quite superannuated, yet his health was worse. But the old fire within him was not easily subdued. When he wrote his sad letter, and invoked "the best blessings of Heaven upon the old Baltimore Conference," we could not criticise his request to be made supernumerary. His request was granted. He was supernumerary forty-three days, the only vacation in a long and active ministry. His wife, who was the daughter of Rev. George Roberts, and to whom he was married in 1827, died the previous year. Four children, two sons and two daughters, survive the parents.

Brother H. Slicer's last sickness dates from September, 1872. He suffered eighteen months' confinement to his house. The pain was sharp. There were sleepless nights, and many weary hours of inactivity tried his faith and patience. Recent bereavement had removed his wife. He had whispered to himself recovery, at least enough to preach once more. His manuscripts were brought to him, and he selected a sermon which he would like to preach. He felt his way, with gentler arts than in the olden days, to our sympathy and love. He talked of the sublimity of death. The end was coming, and as it approached he grew more communicative and resigned. For some time his words had shown the grand trust and the growing disclosure. Here are some of them: "He has led me all my life long." "I am willing to preach no more, if need be; I have, perhaps, preached long enough." "My ministry counts for nothing now." "My trust is only in the Mediator." Suddenly, while he was preparing, if possible, to reach his daughter's home in Georgetown, D. C., he grew worse. Unconsciousness supervened. Thursday afternoon, April 23, 1874, his spirit returned to God. His body was buried in Greenmount, by the side of his wife, as the sun went down, Sunday, April 26, 1874, and the darkness of evening was gathering when his friends turned away from his last resting-place.

The ministry of Henry Slicer extended over an interesting period of our Church history. In the early part of it he was under the tutorship of the fathers, and participated in our first great Church contest, namely, the Methodist Protestant controversy. During the sharpest part of this controversy he was in charge of the Great Falls and Baltimore Circuit. In defending the polity of the Church he learned to practice skillfully the arts of attack and defense. His next appointment, the Potomac District, tested his training. Here occurred his memorable controversy with the Baptists. This part of his ministry was extremely laborious, and in effectiveness is not exceeded by any other part of it. The later ministry of our brother included the time of Church difficulties following the division of the Church in 1844, similar difficulties during our civil war, and with the investigation of the affairs of the Book Concern.

In all the divisions of the Church he adhered to her through every vicissitude. Her polity and doctrine and preaching first drew him to Christ, created his earliest claims to public consideration, and gave him his best opportunities for doing good. And in the darkest hour his grateful affection clung to her. Above his political affiliations, above every temptation of partisanship and the intimacies of private life, and in the company of legislators and statesmen, presidents and senators and soldiers, Henry Slicer held high, distinctive, and defiant his love of the Master and his allegiance to his Church. He was a man of the people, but he was not misled by their admiration. He insisted upon the claims of the ministry to public respect, as well as private courtesy. Yet no public servant of the Church more promptly obeyed every demand for ministerial service. The sick and the poor, childhood and age, Churches, benevolent and reformatory institutions, received from him to the last hour of his active ministry the most hearty and abundant attention. He possessed an accurate and available knowledge of Methodist economy and doctrine. His administration as pastor and presiding elder was careful, orderly, and punctual. In preaching and in debate he was incisive and controversial. In his prime the power of his discourses was extraordinary. His sermons were plain, and usually hortatory. The manner was earnest and impressive. With little imagination or fancy he possessed a quaint, half humorous, abruptness of style which lured attention to the great truths spoken out of the deep convictions of his heart. The sinner was given no quarter. Gentle wooings of delaying moralists formed no part of his public appeals. His words rang out fearlessly the demand for repentance and its fruits. Sin was not compounded with; guilt received no apology for its exposure. These characteristics were strikingly illustrated during his ministry on the Potomac District. He preached with wonderful power and success. Multitudes were converted. The Church was built up all over the district which he traveled, mostly on horseback, from the upper parts of Loudon County to the mouth of the Rappahannock. We are, perhaps, not prepared at this day to estimate the overwhelming force of his exhortations when an entire assembly of thousands were so moved that hundreds fell to the earth, while others ran to hide themselves from the presence and appeal of the speaker. He was an advocate of total abstinence, and a successful temperance speaker. He made more addresses on this subject for twenty years of his life than any preacher in the country. He was a popular platform speaker. He was welcomed at anniversaries and other special occasions, and preached constantly every Sabbath, and frequently during the week.

Henry Slicer was a member of eight General Conferences, namely, 1832, 1840, 1844, 1852, 1856, 1860, 1868, 1872. In 1860 and 1868 he represented the East Baltimore Conference; in the others the Baltimore. Of his fifteen colleagues in the General Conference of 1832 but two survive, Norval Wilson and John Baer. In all of these Conferences, except this first, he took an active part in the deliberations and was influential. In some there were exciting topics of debate and wide differences of opinion. He was sometimes in the minority, and he was sometimes censured for his course. Nevertheless his opponents conceded to him strict conscientiousness of opinion and unquestioned loyalty to the Church. The regard and deference which his venerable appearance and sturdy activity, in the last General Conference, received from delegates of every section, must have been to him a grateful close to his public labors.

Henry Slicer was a man of vigorous intellect and of moderate education. He was self-reliant and indefatigable. By his earnest piety, the culture of considerable study in his early ministry, abundant use of social helps, and unfaltering devotion to his work as a Methodist preacher, he rose to a high rank among his brethren, and held during his life a prominent position in the Church and community. Simple in dress, and frank in the expression of his opinions; he was courtly in manner, and a welcome guest in cultivated circles. Stern reformer, he had the confidence of the multitude, and sat down in the poorest homes with the most lowly. Exacting in duty, and blunt in denouncing evil of every sort; he was gentle to women, tender to childhood, kind to the young itinerant, and hospitable to a fault. Amid the engagements of a long and busy life he never allowed the demands of home, friendship, or party to weaken the claims of God upon his time and services. His ministry is an instructive example of devotion to primitive Methodist usage, of sympathy with judicious changes, and of punctilious discharge of official duties. His religious experience from its dawn was positive and full of comfort. His death, reached by a slow decline, which subdued the severe traits of his energetic character, invests the name of this Christian warrior with the mellow memories of charity and peace.

3. Thomas Mears Eddy was born September 7, 1823, in Newtown, Hamilton County, Ohio, and died October 7, 1874, in the city of New York. How few the items which indicate the periods of a marked life! How few, and yet how full of interest, when we love the life, or revere the character!

Dr. Eddy came of Methodist stock. His honored father, for many years a noted preacher in Ohio and in Indiana, preceded his son by only a few years into the rewards of faithfulness. In very early life he gave his heart to the Saviour with a complete consecration, and ever after he was found in earnest sympathy with Christ, and in kindliest fellowship with all the members of Christ's Church. In the fall of 1842, being only nineteen years of age, he was called into the traveling ministry of the Church within the bounds of the Indiana Conference, and thenceforward received the following appointments: Manchester Circuit, Canaan Cir., Lexington, Rising Sun Station, Vevay Cir., Jeffersonville Station, Third-street, Indianapolis, Madison, Brookville; and in this ministry, as well as in the spheres appointed by the authorities of the Church, he labored unremittingly to the end, so that when told that he must die he could say, "I have no regret to utter for such devotion as I have been able to give to the ministry of the Lord Jesus. It is the one work which brings sweet personal content."

In the brief record he has left of the earlier years of his ministry there are indications that he was distrustful of his own abilities, and very confident in God's grace and of his help. A wonderful answer to prayer, which was given by the almost instantaneous ceasing of a violent storm when he was on Vevay Circuit, impressed him most profoundly. His health in those early years was delicate, and there were times when his voice seemed to be entirely gone, but he records that "help always came." His faithfulness and devotion attracted attention; some articles written for the press in defense of the Methodist practice of using men of "gifts, grace, and fruit" in our ministry, who might not possess a knowledge of the Greek tongue, gave promise of his future editorial career. But while thus defending Methodism he never plead for or justified in himself or others a lack of such culture as was within reach, and the notes of his course of study plainly show that he pursued them with great diligence.

He was soon called to more conspicuous fields. The American Bible Society had his services one year, 1854; and the presiding eldership enrolled him in 1855 among its most efficient administrators. As a preacher he was known to us as clear and logical in his analysis and statement, scriptural in his forms of expression, wonderfully pathetic in his personal appeals, and fiery and impetuous in his exhortations. In many remarkable respects he is to be remembered as a model of the distinctive type of American Methodist preachers.

Dr. Eddy was a man of genial temperament, warm in his personal friendships, and generous in his sympathies. His spirit was eminently catholic, and in consequence he was not only widely known, but well-beloved in all the Churches. He longed and labored for union in all Christian work, but was pre-eminently a Methodist, maintaining her doctrines, sustaining her Discipline, and falling a martyr in his zeal for her extension.

In November, 1856, the editorial chair of the "North-Western Christian Advocate was vacated by the death of Rev. James B. Watson, and the consenting voice of the Church called the young presiding elder to the important position. A sketch in a volume entitled "Biographies of Leading Men in Chicago," says: "Appreciating the promise and width of his field, desiring the advancement of the Church, knowing the power of the press, alive to all public issues in Church and State, ever regarding the amenities of the profession, earnest for the right, with an eye quick to perceive the critical essential points of a crisis, a natural tactician, with a dash of love for the radical and unusual, yet preserving his equilibrium in propriety and sagacity, he soon made his mark upon the paper, and in the regions where it was circulated or quoted his influence was felt. The subscription list ran up from eleven thousand to thirty thousand."

During the fourteen years of his editorship he was always prompt and reliable. In these years the great national issues were debated and fought out. In all that tempest of passion his voice rang out like a clarion, and always for freedom and the Union. Full of hope for the future of the Church, he entered with earnestness into its progressive movements. He gave himself to the cultivation of the enlarged sphere which his position commanded.

In these years of editorial life he was constantly employed in pulpit ministrations. Probably no living man has assisted at the dedication of so many churches. On all the lines of railroad leading to Chicago stand the houses of God associated with his efforts, and it is safe to say that at his appeals the Church has placed upon God's altar millions of dollars for church buildings.

Transferred to this conference soon after his retirement from the "Advocate," he entered upon his pastoral labors in Charles-street, Baltimore, and the congregation which now worship in Mount Vernon Place are glad to honor him with a large share of credit in the plan, the completion, and the success of that most beautiful edifice. It is in some true sense his monument.

At the session of this conference in 1872 he was elected a delegate to the General Conference, an honor he had three times previously received from other conferences. By that body he was taken from the pastoral charge of our Metropolitan, in Washington, and made one of the General Missionary Secretaries of the Church.

In the labors of that office he was over abundant, having wonderful facility in office work; and, besides, in visiting the conferences he traveled over all the country this side the Rocky Mountains. The work absorbed him so that even in the sleep he secured after his illness rested upon him fatally his thoughts were of the needs of the world and of the duty of the Church, and out of his dreams his voice would come, ringing and clear, "We must, we can, we will, with God's help, conquer." While in his waking moments he said, "Forward! is the word, no falling back; we must take the world for Christ—say so to our people. God calls us. Louder than thunder on the dome of the sky the Lord strikes the hour. We must throw down our gold in the presence of God."

Exhausted with the fatigue of travel and the labor of his love, he returned from the West to his home in New York to die. When made aware of this he said, "Dying is a fact which will take care of itself. Faith in Christ is my strength;" and for the hours that remained his chamber was privileged beyond the common walks of virtuous life, quite on the verge heaven. Although the members of his family were widely scattered, he was spared to see and know them all. He left messages of love for all his associates, arranged his worldly affairs, partook of the Lord's Supper, and awaited triumphantly the coming messenger. In holy ecstacy he joined in song, and clapped his hands and shouted "Halleluia!" After it was supposed he had ceased to breathe, he revived and pronounced the Apostolic benediction, stretching his hands over the bowed heads of his weeping loved ones, and at three o'clock on the morning of October 7 spoke his last words, saying, "Now sing and pray; eternity dawns.

Dr. Eddy was married in October, 1845, to Miss Anna White, of Cincinnati, Ohio. He had an unusually happy home, and was admirably adapted to enjoy domestic life. When he died his aged mother sat by him, sustained by the same spiritual Comforter that cheered him; his devoted wife received his last caress, his sons and daughters ministered to his comfort, and his brother and sister joined in the songs and the prayers which marked the hours of that night of triumph, all on the way to join him in "the rest that remaineth."

4. Rezin C. Haslup was born in Baltimore, September 30, 1840. The son of pious parents, his father being a local preacher, he was early impressed with a consciousness of his responsibility to God, and in 1857 professed saving faith in Christ. He united with the Exeter-street Methodist Episcopal Church, and consecrated his talents to the instruction of the children of the poor. He pursued a course of study in public and private schools, and afterward graduated at the Baltimore City College. About this period he gave his evenings to the instruction of his father's colored employes, one of whom, Rev. J. H. Burley, was a delegate to the last General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. When but eighteen years of age he was licensed to exhort, and a year later he accepted authority to preach the Gospel. In March, 1859, he was received on trial into the East Baltimore Conference. His subsequent appointments were: Alleghany, West Harford, East Harford, Emmittsburgh, North Baltimore Circuit, Piedmont, Govanstown, and East Baltimore Station. In 1864 he was married to Miss Mary J. Sadler, of Pennsylvania, who mourns, with her three interesting children, the early decease of one who was a devoted husband and an affectionate father. In January, 1847, when approaching the end of his second year in his last charge, alarming symptoms of bronchial disease became manifest. By the advice of his physicians he determined on a voyage to Brazil, hoping to be benefited by the balmy atmosphere of a tropical sea, leaving Baltimore on the 8th of February. He recorded in a neatly-written diary the incidents of the trip. These journals contain frequent references to stormy skies, fearful sea-sickness, the loneliness of ocean to an invalid, his despondency as to recovery, with alternate convictions of final restoration to health, and, above all else, his spiritual serenity and absolute resignation to the will of God. On Sunday, April 12, he arrived at Rio. Amid charming surroundings he wrote: "Through the abounding goodness of God we have had a safe voyage. I feel greatly improved in health. My voice is much stronger, and it is all of the goodness of God." Among the attractions of the capital, and in visitations to adjacent medicinal springs, he recreated twelve days. Then, in the same vessel that bore him to the land of sunshine and flowers, he reembarked for his native city. Twenty days thereafter, when in mid-ocean, he reluctantly realized that he was rapidly finishing the race of life. Recording then the last entry in his journal, he writes: "O how weak I am to-day! How far away home is! How I suffer for want of medical attention! I hope to reach home, though it be only to die." At midnight, May 20, he reached his residence, awakened his anxious family, and communicated in word what his emaciated form published, the final burial of all hopes of recovery. Summoning his junior colleague, Rev. C. D. Smith, he embraced him, and tearfully said, "It is all over with me." He lived but a few days; but while he lingered, awaiting his release from suffering, many sentiments of Christian resignation fell from his lips. As he approached the suburbs of a world that knows no death, his wife said to him, "What if you pass away very soon?" His failing voice rallied strength sufficient for the sublime and prompt response, "Then I die in the faith of the Son of God." Early on the morning of June 2 the weary wheels of life ceased their revolutions, and of our fallen co-laborer it could be said, "He sleeps well." His sun has gone down while it was yet day.

Brother Haslup possessed rare symmetry of character. In the strength of his intellectual endowments he ranked among the most gifted young ministers of his conference. His mind was analytical, disciplined, and stored with practical knowledge. A patient student, he recognized the precious nature of time, and methodically prosecuted his work as "an embassador for Christ." He was a lover of the Sunday-school, and in this interesting field of duty he was "in labors abundant." On his character the Holy Ghost had put the polish of holiness. His profound piety bound to him, as with a chain of gold, many devoted friends, and a rich experience in "the things of God" shed its fragrance on every circle he graced with his presence.

Milton E. Hysore was the eldest son of the late Rev. James Hysore, of the Methodist Protestant Church. He was born in Baltimore County, Maryland, December 31, 1837. He was educated at Dickinson Seminary, in Williamsport, Pa., and entered the ministry of the Methodist Protestant Church in the year 1860, filling appointments with great fidelity and success at Harwick, Howard, Frederick, Jefferson, Talbot, Lexington, and Kent Circuits, and West Washington and Kent Island Missions; and in 1870 was at Harper's Ferry in charge. At the end of that year he transferred his membership to the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was received into the Baltimore Conference in 1872 and appointed to Twelfth-st., Washington, D. C., where he labored until "he was not, for God took him."

Brother Hysore's motives were recognized as being so pure, and his integrity so unquestioned, that his relations of friendship with his former brethren remained unbroken to the last, and delegates from that Church came to attest, at his funeral, their continued and undiminished love. He was a man deeply devoted to his work, preaching with earnestness and power, and excelling in his ability and devotion as a pastor. He was a man of remarkable prudence, conciliating and holding together discordant elements, if such there were in his charge. His piety was even and earnest, and his uniform amiability of spirit made him attractive to all who knew him. He was greatly beloved and respected. His end was unexpected and his death sudden. Entering the pulpit on Sunday the 8th of November, 1874, he manifested considerable depression of spirits, consequent upon a difficulty in his throat, but announced his text from the Gospel of John iii, 36, "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life," and proceeded to expound it; but, suddenly exclaiming, "Jesus saves me! saves me now!" he fell in the pulpit, and never spoke again. He had often expressed his wish to be taken without pain, and thus God answered his prayer. He leaves a widow and one child, bereaved by his early translation.

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crown'd at last.

"In condescending love,
Thy ceaseless prayer he heard;
And bade thee suddenly remove
To thy complete reward."

6. George W. Johnson was born in Montgomery County, Maryland, October 10, 1841. His parents, Benjamin and Margaret Johnson, were worthy members of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the old Sugar Loaf Mountain Church, near which they resided. In October, 1854, their son, while attending a series of meetings, made his way to the altar, and soon experienced the blessed consciousness of the washing away of sin. He united with the Church, and rapidly passed through the positions of usefulness that opened to him as Sabbath-school teacher, class-leader, exhorter, and local preacher. Those who knew him say that in all these positions he acquitted himself well. In 1870 he entered upon the work of the ministry in the Baltimore Conference as a supply for Buckeystown Circuit. It was a year of remarkable prosperity. The sacred fire spread from appointment to appointment until the circuit was all ablaze with the manifestations of the Holy Ghost. In 1871 he was received on trial by the conference, and appointed to Bladensburgh Circuit. Here he labored for three years. God was with him; the word preached from the sacred desk was with demonstration of the Spirit, so that he closed his ministry here with glorious results. Many were converted, the Church was consolidated, and the shattered appointments were so built up that at his removal they stood more solidly than for nearly a score of years. In the spring of 1874 he was appointed to New Windsor Circuit, to which, already unfortunately broken down by excessive labor, he went only to die. He reached his new home with difficulty. He was completely prostrated. Once he rallied a little, and went to an appointment a few miles from the parsonage, where he tried to preach. He returned to his wife and children overcome by the effort, and lay down to rise no more. Consumption made rapid inroad upon his little remaining strength, and on the 28th of May, 1874, surrounded by his loved ones, he passed

"Beyond the interchange of loving signs
Into the very world of love itself."

In his boyhood Brother Johnson was a sprightly and impulsive, yet resolute spirit. He was also fond of study, and endowed with a memory that seemed to retain almost every thing it touched. He found little difficulty in acquiring knowledge. After his conversion he embraced every opportunity to do good. As a minister he was more than ordinarily devoted to his work. Forgetting self in his devotion to Christ and his Church, he was in "labors more abundant." He studied faithfully, preached with great earnestness and directness, attended closely to pastoral visitation, and looked after the minutest details of his work. There is no doubt that he fell a martyr to over-effort at the time when his life was opening most beautifully, and began to promise most blessed and long-continued results to the Church. He was a man of eminent usefulness. His Christian life was earnest, but full of cheer. To a native sweetness of disposition he united a thorough personal consecration to Christ that was maintained with constant prayer. The people with whom he labored loved him devotedly. In 1861 (September 19) he was married to Miss Mary E. Holland, who, with seven little children, are left to the sympathy of the Church and the unfailing care of God.

During his last sickness his expressions of trust in Christ and of peace were frequent and satisfactory. He spoke, too, of his longing to go again to the front in the moral service in which he had engaged, willing only to leave the militant army for the triumphant at the bidding of the Captain of his salvation.

J. R. West, E. W. Harmony—2.

1. JONATHAN RENSHAW WEST was born in Jackson County, Alabama, August 31, 1806; was converted at Clark's Camp-ground in North Alabama in 1825, and immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1827 he was licensed to exhort, and removed to West Tennessee in 1828. In 1830 he removed to Arkansas, and in 1832 was licensed to preach, and did effective work as a local preacher till 1844. At this time he, having adhered to "Old Methodism," became very active in gathering up the members of broken Societies and holding them together. In 1846 or 1847 he was admitted to the traveling connection in the Missouri and Arkansas Conference, and gave full proof of his ministry. From 1855 to 1861 he served as Presiding Elder in his conference. During the war he was compelled to leave the South for personal safety. In 1864 he came to Kansas, and labored two or three years on circuits, after which he held a superannuated relation till his death, which took place June 15, 1874. He died as he had lived, triumphing in the faith of Christ. His last words were: "A band of angels wait to waft my Spirit home. Hallelujah!" His family and friends are consoled with the fact that he died as he had lived, a good man and true.

2. ELISHA WASHINGTON HARMONY was born in Jefferson Co., Missouri, August 15, 1841. In his fifteenth year he embraced religion, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the commencement of the war he volunteered as a soldier in the service of his country, serving as such a little more than three years, when he received an honorable discharge. But while there he felt that he was called to the work of the ministry. He was licensed as a local preacher in Missouri; came to Kansas in 1869, was received into the Kansas Conference on trial the following year, and appointed to the Fort Lincoln Charge. In 1872 he was sent to Dayton, in 1873 to Xenia, and in 1874 to Williamsburgh. When he went to his last charge he found two stone church edifices in an unfinished condition. He went to work, and with a commendable zeal he pushed forward the work to a speedy completion. The Quenemo Church was dedicated early in the season. His last work was to make arrangements for the dedication of the Central Church.

Though a stranger, by his indefatigable labors he soon ingratiated himself in the hearts of the people. Taken sick on the twenty-first day of September with a severe attack of hemorrhage of the lungs, he passed away on the twenty-first day of January with quick consumption.

During his illness he was patient, devotional, resigned, and happy. Sometimes his devotions would kindle into great joy. A few hours before his departure his wife asked him, "Is the Lord with you?" He answered, "Yes." Like the fathers he died well.

B. F. Woolston, I. D. King, M. German*—3.

1. B. F. WOOLSTON died in Ocean Grove June 14, 1874, in the forty-fourth year of his age. He was born in Burlington County, near Mount Holly, N. J., where he spent the earlier part of his life. His father earnestly desired that he should enter the army, and directed the course of his early education with a view to its completion at West Point. But at a camp-meeting held near Vincentown he received deep religious convictions, which made this path of life distasteful to him, although he was not converted until some time afterward in connection with the Union Church at Philadelphia. At this time he was only nineteen years of age, and his business prospects in the city were of a flattering character; but he closed his business and went to Pennington Seminary, where he remained two years in studious preparation for the ministry, to which he devoted his life and strength. In the spring of 1852 he was recommended as a suitable candidate for the traveling ministry, and received on trial in the conference. His first appointment was Tom's River Circuit, where he is still remembered as a young man who gave more than ordinary promise. At the close of this year he was appointed to Moorestown, where he passed a year of usefulness. Next was Roadstown, where the work of God prospered in his hands. At the completion of his term there he was united in marriage to Miss Rebecca Skinner, an estimable lady, who since that time has both cheerfully and usefully shared the toils of his itinerent life under circumstances which have demanded and received the most heroic spirit of sacrifice on her part. His next appointment was Woodstown, where he spent two years of his most successful ministerial life. Here he built a fine church, and gave the appointment a power for usefulness it had never before enjoyed, and it may be properly added, that in two other appointments in his short career he accomplished the same results, while in others he canceled heavy debts. Following this came Blackwoodstown, where over a hundred souls came to God under his ministry during a revival; after which he was appointed to Middletown Point, (now Matawan,) where God made him useful; and following this, to Cranberry, where two more years of earnest work were spent for Christ. In 1864 he was sent to Haddonfield, which proved to be his last appointment in the regular work of the ministry. He was now called upon to take up the saddest and heaviest cross of his life. His whole soul was in the ministry, and this enforced retirement was like blotting out the sunlight from the glory of his life. The years of labor had been years of success, and to stand aloof when these seemed more than ever to be needed for Christ was both difficult to understand and impossible to patiently bear: but his faith rose above the appearances and he trusted in God. He at once adjusted his life to his changed circumstances. He was a man of a high spirit, combined with a delicate sense of honor, and

* Obituary not received.

a mode of livelihood was sought which would supply his needs, without making it necessary to embarrass the funds collected for the sick and worn-out preachers. In this he was successful, and while he declined to take any of this money for himself, he made it a point in his supernumerary career to aid these funds by contributions from his own hard earnings. Though he was poor, with a wife and several children, and suffering under repeated and prostrating attacks of terrible pain, yet, amid all this, he gave an energy to the toils of secular life which enabled him to maintain his family in comfort, when many a stronger nature would have succumbed in despair. His preaching abilities were such as commanded favorable attention from the Churches. His studies were always practical, and made steadily subservient to his great mission, and their effect upon his pulpit services were of a character which secured him public favor. He was rapidly rising in the estimation of the Churches when the fearful attacks of pain began to prostrate him. Even after they had freed him from the active ranks his natural gifts and acquired abilities made him an effective and popular preacher.

Brother Woolston was a most devoted and affectionate husband and father. His personal happiness was found at the domestic hearth. Possessing a disposition whose desires ran in kindly channels toward his fellow-men, he had learned to exercise that disposition in a cultivated politeness which made him a general favorite. Rich and poor vied with each other in their tearful respect at his funeral, and speak of him still as a brother dearly beloved. He has gone from us suddenly, in the prime of his life, but left us good hope of his preparation for a world where the pain of body to which he was subjected will never more be realized, and where his life-career can be resumed in a world of bliss.

2. I. D. King was born at Pemberton, N. J., September 16, 1828, and died at Red Bank, N. J., July 28, 1874. He was converted when about ten years of age, and immediately united with the Church. Very early in his Christian life he felt called of God to preach the Gospel. Being possessed of a frail constitution, he thought it impossible to meet the responsibilities of a Christian minister, and endeavored to dissuade himself from that calling. During this period he was the subject of powerful and harassing temptations, and was for a season in a state of spiritual darkness. While in this condition Rev. Bartholomew Weed was stationed at Pemberton, under whose ministry, with the blessing of God, he was delivered from the power of the tempter, and, under the clear conviction of the Holy Spirit, he at once consecrated himself to the work of the Christian ministry.

In the spring of 1853 he was appointed by the Presiding Elder to Keyport Circuit; but a vacancy occurring at Union-street, in the city of Trenton, he was removed and appointed there, where he labored with great acceptability and usefulness. Here he was stricken down with typhoid fever, and for many weeks lay at the very gates of death, but it pleased God to restore him. In 1854 he was admitted on trial into the New Jersey Conference, and appointed to Milltown, where he labored two years. Thenceforward he served the following charges: Union-st., Trenton; Clarksburgh; Trinity Church, Bridgeton; Mount Holly; Princeton; Red Bank; Greene-st., Trenton; Commerce-street, Bridgeton. In the spring of 1873 he was compelled by failing health to ask a supernumerary relation, fully believing that a year of rest would so restore his health as to enable him to resume the effective work. He removed to Red Bank, and during the early part of the year labored beyond his strength in making arrangements for the support of his family, hoping thereby not to be a claimant upon the funds of the conference. His health continuing to fail, with the advice of eminent medical men he left home December 23, 1873, for San Diego, California, where he arrived on the 8th of January following. At this time he was sanguine that he should recover his health; but after remaining till about the middle of May without improvement, he sailed again for home, arriving on the 8th of June, very greatly prostrated by the voyage. For a short time he seemed to rally, and was more comfortable; but it soon became painfully evident that death could not long be deferred, and he continued to decline. In all his affliction he was patient and submissive. Sometimes he would say, "I had hoped to have lived to have completed some work that I have commenced; but I know, I feel, that it is all right. The will of the Lord be done." On another occasion: "I am glad I did not stop preaching until I was compelled to, and it gives me great satisfaction that I have done all I could for the Church and my family." On Sunday, July 19, believing that his end was near, he called his family around him to receive his dying counsel and blessing, a scene that may be imagined, but not described. After this he was able to converse but little; but from time to time, in short sentences, expressed his unshaken confidence in Christ. Once he said, "I was almost over. I shall soon be well, and that will be new to me, for health is what I have never enjoyed in this world." Again he said, "My name is King, but I am not crowned yet; but I expect soon to get my crown." To his pastor he said, a few hours before his death, "Contrary to my expectations I am here yet, but the Lord has been with me all the way through; all is bright and clear, and I shall soon be at home." He had not long to wait. The messenger soon came, and with a countenance lit up with more than earthly radiance, he passed away to the reward of the just. He leaves a widow, who was his faithful partner through his itinerant life, and five children, to mourn his loss. We commend them to the sympathy and prayers of the Church.

Brother King was greatly beloved and respected by his conference, to which he was very strongly attached, and to which he often referred during his illness. He filled the office of Conference Secretary for eleven successive years, and, as far as known, without a single complaint being made against his work. He was elected by a large majority to the late General Conference, standing at the head of the list of delegates of his conference, and well did he perform the work assigned him. By this body he was elected a member of the Book Committee, and was appointed their secretary, which position he ably and satisfactorily filled. The following resolution, passed by the Book Committee at its recent meeting in reference to his death, shows the high appreciation in which he was held by that body:—

Resolved, That in this afflictive dispensation of Providence we feel especial sympathy and sadness, arising from our past relations as fellow-laborers. Brother King died while yet in his prime. He was a man of true and honorable purpose, of pure mind, of generous and frank disposition, endowed with clear perception, a sound and ready judgment, prompt in action, faithful in matters of trust, a sincere Christian, and an ardent lover of Methodism. We look upon his vacant seat in our Committee with a feeling of loss to ourselves, while his life and character assure us of his eternal gain. We tender to his bereaved wife and family our Christian sympathy.

Brother King was an excellent scholar and a good linguist. His attainments were largely self-acquired. He had in course of preparation several works for publication at the time of his death. He was an able minister of Christ. His sermons were carefully prepared, and delivered with pathos and power. He was clear and decided in his convictions, but courteous, though fearless in giving them expression. He was a dignified Christian minister and gentleman, whose bearing won the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Thomas Jefferson Thompson, Robert E. Kemp—2.

1. THOMAS JEFFERSON THOMPSON, D.D., died at his residence in Wilmington, Delaware, November 29, 1874. He was born in Dorchester County, Md., March 13, 1803; was converted in the thirteenth year of his age, and commenced his itinerant ministry in November, 1825, on Snow Hill Circuit, having been appointed thereto by his presiding elder. In April, 1826, he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference. Thereafter he filled in their order the following appointments: Milford Circuit; Talbot Circuit; St. George's, Philadelphia; Rahway, N. J.; St. John's, Philadelphia; Kent Circuit, Md.; Trenton, N. J.; Newark, N. J.; East Jersey District; Harrisburgh; Fifth-st., Philadelphia; St. Paul's, Philadelphia; Snow Hill District; Asbury Church, Wilmington; Union Church, Philadelphia; So. Philadelphia District; Reading District; Wilmington District; General Agency of Wesleyan Female College; Dover, Del.; Easton District; Dover District; Wilmington District. Dr. Thompson served the Church on circuits and stations twenty-two years and a half, as agent two years, and as presiding elder twenty-five years. Until his last illness he did not lose six months' time altogether from the work.

In 1836 the New Jersey Conference was separated from the Philadelphia Conference, and Dr. Thompson was made Presiding Elder of the East Jersey District; but in the next year, at his request, he was returned to the Philadelphia Conference. In 1868, when the Wilmington Conference was separated from the Philadelphia, Dr. Thompson was in charge of Easton District. He thus became identified with this conference, and took an active part in its organization; and, as one of the commissioners in the settlement of difficult property questions between the two conferences, he contributed his full share to the satisfactory adjustment which was obtained. Our annual gathering a year ago was the first at which he failed to answer the roll-call of the Annual Conference of which he was a member. It was a new and very painful experience to him, for in nothing was he more remarkable than in the certainty and reliability with which he met his conference and Church engagements. He literally exemplified the rule, "Be punctual. Do every thing exactly at the time." And, although qualified in many particulars for the position he held in this conference, and the excellent influence he exerted, yet it is perhaps true, that nothing contributed so much to his influence and great usefulness as his promptitude, and the certainty with which he met his engagements.

Dr. Thompson was a member of the General Conferences of 1844, 1852, 1856, 1860, 1868, and 1872. These were critical periods in the history of the Church; but as a representative of his Annual Conference he was always found to be conservative of the interests of the Church he loved so dearly.

As a Presiding Elder Dr. Thompson was conceded to be one of the best qualified among all the ministers who have ever filled that responsible position. In the language of Rev. John A. Roach: "Rarely is any man so admirably adapted to the work that this position involves. Candid without bluntness, intelligent without dogmatism, conscientiously considering the work, carefully regarding the condition, necessity, and adaptation of the workmen, it might readily be seen by the appointing power that his representations could be reposed in. He seemed free from the prejudices or prepossessions that have been thought inseparable from long continuance in the presiding eldership. His intellect and heart made him worthy the episcopacy a generation ago." Perhaps no man has done so much as a presiding elder in the training of young ministers, and many in our own conference bless his memory for the timely counsel and encouragement he gave them.

Dr. Thompson's public ministry was marked by zeal, industry, and success. He was never sensational in the pulpit, but labored to implant in the minds and hearts of the people that solid truth which might abide to work the happiest and best results. Whether in the pulpits of our city churches, on the camp-grounds, in the presence of multitudes, or in the humblest places in the country, every-where he was the same devout, earnest, and faithful minister of our Lord Jesus Christ. As in person he was full, round, and complete, so in character and conduct he was so well balanced that in every station he seemed the right man in the right place.

About two years previous to his death some indications of failing health appeared, which excited the solicitude of his friends. He had gone to and fro in his ministry of almost fifty years with so little interruption from such a cause that it seemed to take him by surprise. Though scarcely able to go at all, yet he persisted in his work, and essayed to meet punctually the appointments he had made, just as in the days of vigorous health. But disease had hold upon him, and slowly but steadily it pursued its course, checked occasionally, but assuming in each change a more alarming aspect. On Friday, November 27, 1874, the approach of death was manifest. In the evening he became partially unconscious, and it was difficult to arouse him. As his friends came to his bedside he recognized them until Saturday evening, when total unconsciousness ensued, and he continued to sink until Sabbath, about one o'clock, when he quietly breathed his last.

Dr. Thompson frequently said to his brethren during his illness, "I wait the pleasure of the Lord." On one occasion he said, "I have prayed for health and strength again, but I find myself more disposed to say daily, 'Thy will be done.'" We do not need any testimony, besides his devoted and exemplary life, to assure us of his glorious and happy future.

2. Robert E. Kemp was born in Bayside, Talbot County, Md., January 31, 1802, and died in Greensborough March 6, 1875. According to the best information, he was converted and united with the Church some time in the year 1826 or 1827. The following are the appointments he so faithfully served, some of which were characterized by unusual and extraordinary revival influences: Lycoming, South Branch, Talbot Circuit, Port Deposit, Kent; Asbury, Philadelphia. In May, 1833, he married Miss Caroline F. Thomas, of Chester County, Pa., who shared with him the toils and triumphs of the itinerancy, and who tenderly nursed and gently soothed him to the last moment of his life, and to whom this conference, through this memoir, tender their warmest sympathies; and upon whom they earnestly implore God's richest blessing to rest in this hour of bereavement.

In 1834 and 1835 he was appointed to Lebanon, and thenceforward as follows: Chester, Kent, Frederica, Milford, Cambridge, Dorchester, Seaford, Princess Anne, Lewis, Church Creek, Dorchester, Federalsburgh, Greensborough. In 1861 he took a supernumerary relation, and continued therein until his death. During these years he preached 597 sermons, making a total of 6,641 during his entire ministry.

Much might be said of the virtues of this excellent man. Those who knew him most intimately in sunshine and storm, in prosperity and adversity, can testify to his consistent piety. His life was a practical comment on the religion he possessed. He was a "living epistle" known and read of all men.

Said one of the preachers at his funeral services, going to an appointment of which Brother Kemp had been pastor many years before, "I found his name a precious household word, and his religious influence as ointment poured forth." He could not be diverted from the time of his conversion to God until he finished his course; he went on in his cheerful manner like the sun from morn to meridian, and then down to old age, waiting the Master's call.

The interviews had with him during his sickness were not only satisfactory, but heart-cheering. When asked if he had any message for the brethren of the conference, his reply was, "Tell them I love them dearly, and my dying advice is to preach Jesus, cling to his merits, and triumph at last as I am triumphing."

It was an oft-expressed desire of Brother Kemp to be able to preach to the last. This desire was granted him, for he went from the pulpit to his death-bed. He lingered only a few days, and then bade his family and friends farewell. "Now," said he, "I lie down to sleep in Jesus," and entered his eternal rest.

1. JOHN A. GERE, D.D.—From him whose voice had answered to conference roll-calls in town and city annually for half a century came no response at the opening of our present session. Our veteran member of a twelve months since had been transferred by the "Bishop of souls." To-day he answers not in Huntingdon, but in heaven.

John Avery Gere was born in Chester, Mass., April 8, 1799, and died in Shickshinny, Pa., June 3, 1874. He left the home of his childhood in 1818, and located in Virginia. He was received into the Methodist Episcopal Church June 12, 1820, at Harper's Ferry. He received license to preach at Newtown, Stephenburgh, Va., by the Local Preachers' Conference, and was recommended for admission into the Baltimore Conference November 25, 1822, which he joined in the spring of 1823, in company with John Bowen, Isaac Collins, and eight others of precious memory. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Soule, April, 1825, and elder by Bishop Roberts, 1827. In 1831 he married Miss Sarah Neal, who, with six daughters and twenty-three grand-children, survives him. During an active ministry of more than half a century he filled many of the most responsible stations in the Baltimore, East Baltimore, and Central Pennsylvania Conferences, including the office of Presiding Elder. "As a good soldier of Jesus Christ," he did valiant battle on the following fields of conflict: In 1823, at Pendleton, then at Aughwick, Bedford, Botetourt, Christiansburgh, Baltimore City Station, Frederick Circuit, York Station, Annapolis, Baltimore Circuit, West River, Savern, North Baltimore, Liberty, Jefferson, Carlisle Station, Huntingdon, Northumberland District, Fayette-st., Baltimore, Sunday-School Agent, Carlisle District, East Baltimore, North Baltimore Cir., Chaplaincy in United States Army, Berwick, Berwick Station, Montoursville, Shickshinny.

Four times he represented his conference in the General Conferences: at Baltimore in 1840, New York in 1844, Boston in 1852, as a delegate from the Baltimore Conference, and at Brooklyn in 1872 as a delegate from the Central Pennsylvania Conference. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by the Indiana Asbury University, and of it he was most eminently worthy.

John A. Gere received in the home of his childhood that Christian faith which in all his after life tended to the ennobling of his character. With beautiful simplicity and constant sincerity he adhered to the faith of the Gospel, and accepted its teachings as the rule of his life. He was a man of great courage, and yet of equal meekness. These were controlling elements of his character. They were carefully and conscientiously cultivated, and employed for the good of mankind. His convictions of truth and doctrine were the results of personal investigations, hence he held his positions with a firmness characteristic of conscientious conclusions. He searched with prayerful perseverance the path of duty, and when found he pursued it with that confidence and courage which rarely suffers defeat. As a preacher he was sound in doctrine, clear in his statements of truth, earnest in his manner, and fearless in the presentation of practical duty. By the richness of his religious experience, cheerfulness of his manner, and earnestness of his work as a Christian minister, he combined elements of power which made him eminently successful. In the sacred circle of his own home he was, indeed, a model; and though his children were all married and enjoying the comforts of their own homes, they looked to him for counsel and advice with as much confidence and reverence as though, like a patriarch of old, he were the recognized head of each household. Few families have felt so deeply and keenly the loss of a counselor and friend. In social life everywhere, by his frank and courteous manner, he revealed the kind and noble impulses of a pure and generous heart. At his funeral services it was beautifully said by his Presiding Elder, Rev. N. S. Buckingham, "Dr. Gere united in one the heart of the patriarch, the father, the brother, the child," and so it was. He was especially successful in his influence over the young. "Beautifully blending the cheerfulness of youth with the wisdom and prudence of age, he readily found access to their hearts and fortified himself in their affections. Because of this he led them in large numbers to the fold of the Master." On May 24, his last Sabbath of work, he preached from the text, "And went and told Jesus," Matt. xiv, 12, and then met his children's class, seventy-two in number. On Sabbath morning, May 31, he was taken with a severe chill, and for three days suffered extreme pain. As he approached the evening hour of his pilgrimage no twilight obscured the setting of the sun of life. It went down with meridian splendor, and its rays, reflecting from a full-orbed Christian experience, now tinge with golden beauty the dark cloud which hangs over the bereaved, brightening the pathway to the tomb, and inviting them to follow its light to their heavenly inheritance. About a week before his death, in writing to his old personal friend, Rev. A. A. Reese, he said: "Alone in my study, except that God is here, I have just read your letter again, and my heart says, 'Glory to God!' while I wipe away the tears that I may see clearly to write. How did you get so deeply down in my heart? But there you are. Thirty years ago! yes; and I return with double emphasis the expression of confidence and high esteem. You tender, and I here and now reciprocate, your pledge through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ to meet in the kingdom of heaven. Yes, our early acquaintances and friends are rapidly passing away. That noble Baltimorean, John W. Randolph, has gone to rest. Who next shall be summoned away? If our Divine Lord and Master designates either of us, I trust we shall be able to say with humble, peaceful submission, 'Thy will be done.' Superstition has girdled the coffin and the grave with horror; but death is one of the terms of life. If we did not live we would not die, and looking it in the face as a reality with the love of God in the heart, there is no reason to dread it; nay, as the narrow passage to be crossed to the glorious home on the other side, it is at the Lord's command to be greatly coveted." A week later he was attacked with pneumonia, and on the third day thereafter, when consciously approaching "the valley of the shadow of death," he was asked if he felt ready. To this he made prompt response, "Entirely so." After this, hand in hand with his faithful and devoted wife, who had shared with him the joys and sorrows of life for more than forty years, he bade her good-bye, comforting and cheering her with the words, "The Lord will take care of you;" and then, folding his hands in prayer, he audibly pronounced the apostolic benediction. These were his last words upon the earth, he gently passing away at five o'clock P.M. on the 3d of June, 1874. And now the grand old man is at rest, such rest as he never had in this life, and his "works do follow" him. Bravely he fought the battle of life; the conflict is over; the goal has been reached. His record is on high. With him time, toil, and suffering are past. Eternal joy and victory are won. The armor has been doffed, the robe and crown received. The distractions of earth have been lost, the rapturous and perpetual enjoyments of heaven gained.

Cherished father and brother! may thy mantle fall upon us who survive thee; our Christian and ministerial life, like thine, be grand; our end, like thine, glorious!

2. James Billingsley Cuddy was born in Baltimore County, Md., August 16, 1836, and died in "The Home on the Hill" in Dansville, Livingston County, N. Y., August 2, 1874. At the age of sixteen he professed saving faith in our Lord, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was, as his life ever afterward demonstrated, truly converted. In boyhood he was a most dutiful son, and possessed in a high degree those excellent traits of character which drew toward him, in affectionate regard, all who knew him. In consequence of his strong desire to call sinners to repentance, he spent, in preparation, one year in Manchester Academy and two years in Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, and while in these institutions he maintained a high standard of excellence, both as a student, and in his relations to teachers and schoolmates. In the year 1857 he was licensed to exhort and to preach, and in 1860 he was admitted on trial in the East Baltimore Conference. His appointments were as follows: Muncy, Shrewsbury, Harford Avenue, Great Falls, Long Green, Hancock, Supernumerary, Jeansville, Muncy, Salona.

As a preacher Brother Cuddy was descriptive rather than argumentative; in the use of illustrations exceedingly apt, and manifesting a breadth of information seldom exceeded by men of his years. His sermons were thoroughly evangelical, and his earnestness always impressed the people with the fact that, to himself, the truths he uttered possessed a fixed and living reality. He was generally successful in winning sinners to the cross; but upon his last charge he had, perhaps, his greatest success. During his second year upon Salona Charge two hundred and twenty-three persons professed conversion in meetings held by him and his colleague. In social life, among the people of his charge, he was a man of few words; yet among the afflicted, or those seeking pardon or a better religious experience, he was always a most welcome visitor, for he brought with him the strongest consolations of our holy religion. In his relations with his ministerial brethren he was always frank and genial, a brother whom it was easy to love. In his personal religious life he was a most exemplary Christian. The experience and doctrine of entire sanctification were with him specialties; and the testimony of those who knew him best is that he was a holy man of God. His convictions of duty were clear and strong. Nothing swerved him from an honest effort to discharge every obligation. In June, 1862, he was united in marriage with Miss Hattie Kramer, of Muncy, Pa., a lady of much intellectual worth. As a husband, Brother Cuddy was most considerate, always ready to lift a burden from the heart or shoulders of the woman who stood beside him. As a father, he combined a delicate and tender affection with a wise exercise of authority. The three little boys who constituted their family always greeted with gladness their father's return after an absence, and loved to play around him. He was firm without rigor, and ruled without austerity. His treatment of children, uniformly affectionate, won their love, and rendered easy the effort to "diligently instruct" them.

In the summer of 1873, being greatly worn by excessive labor, he accepted a vacation of a few weeks, which he spent at Dansville, N.Y., under medical direction. In March last he was reappointed to Salona. His third year upon this charge was passing pleasantly and prosperously, when, in July, he was attacked by typhoid fever. Some days after he thought himself so far recovered as to justify an attempt to reach the "Home" in Dansville, where he hoped by rest and the treatment of that institution to be speedily restored to entire health. He reached Dansville on the evening of the 25th, but the journey had been too much for his strength. The intelligence of her husband's condition being communicated by telegraph to Sister Cuddy, she left a sick child in the care of neighbors and hastened to his bedside. She found him delirious, in which condition he continued, with only an occasional brief intermission of consciousness, until twenty minutes past seven o'clock of Sunday the 2d of August, when he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. During this last illness he said but little of either his death or spiritual condition; yet when he did speak gave the most positive assurance that he was resting wholly in Jesus, and had his sustaining presence. In health the subject of death was, with him, the theme of frequent remark, and always with perfect indifference as to when and where it should come. His life was hid by faith in Christ, hence it is not surprising that when the call came it found him ready. The victory of Brother Cuddy was complete; if not with visible manifestations of triumph, yet none the less assured, because he conquered death while still in life.

3. William W. Brim was born in Henrietta, Monroe County, N.Y., May 18, 1827, and died in Lockport, same State, October 7, 1874. At the age of thirteen he went to reside with friends on a farm three miles from Cazenovia. At eighteen he entered upon an apprenticeship to learn the turning business. At nineteen he was converted in Cazenovia, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. His thoughts were soon turned to the preparation necessary for the work of the Christian ministry. Having labored diligently at this trade till he was twenty-five, until by untiring industry and economy he had secured funds sufficient to enable him to obtain a thorough education, he first entered the Wyoming Seminary and remained there one year, when a disastrous fire destroyed a large part of the building. Then he repaired to Cazenovia, where he prepared for Dickinson College; from which institution he graduated with distinction, at the age of thirty, on July 9, 1857. Soon after graduation he became principal of the Rainsburgh Seminary. He was admitted into the East Baltimore Conference in March, 1859, but continued his connection with the seminary while serving a charge in its vicinity until the Conference of 1860, when he was appointed to the Schellsburgh Circuit. In 1861 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Simpson, and reappointed Principal of Rainsburgh Seminary. About this time he received a severe injury by the fall of his horse, by which his collar-bone was broken, and his nervous system sustained a fearful shock, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. In 1862 he was assigned a superannuated relation, and went to California in search of health. But deriving no benefit from the change he returned at the close of the conference year, and in 1863 became principal of the seminary at Jonesville. Here he married Mrs. Julia M. Dickerson, and in 1864 removed to Lockport, N. Y., where he continued to reside until removed to his home in heaven.

After his superannuation he was seldom able to preach, and much of the time he could not converse, except in a low tone of voice. One who knew him well bears this testimony in his behalf: "He was a genial Christian gentleman, highly esteemed by the Church and people where he resided, and among whom he ended his days." His death was very sudden, being stricken down in the street with paralysis, and after four days of unconsciousness he gently passed away. Thus no time was given for farewell words, no opportunity to leave a dying testimony to comfort his mourning family; nor do they really need such an assurance of his preparation for heaven. His consistent example, the record of his gentle, devoted life will ever be the best guarantee that he has entered the gates of the celestial city. He left a wife and three sons to mourn his loss. Thus, in the forty-eighth year of his age, he was called from labor to reward.

"There fragrant flowers immortal bloom,
And joys supreme are given:
There rays divine disperse the gloom;
Beyond the confines of the tomb
Appears the dawn of heaven."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Walter Athey, Zara H. Coston, Charles Thorn, Joshua Monroe,* John W. Shirer, Charles W. Scott, W. B. Grace—7.

1. WALTER ATHEY was born in Virginia, September 14, 1798. Little is known of his early life or religious experience. He was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1827, and his appointments were as follows: Harrison, Randolph, Lewis, Middlebourne, Cross Creek, Canton, Richmond, Woodsfield, Barnesville, M'Connellsville, Summerfield, Harrisville, Norwich, Washington, Sharon, Newport, Lowell, Summerfield, superannuated three years, Salem, Sharon and Sarahsville, Cumberland, Senecaville, and in 1862 he was again superannuated, and so continued. He was stricken with paralysis, December 3, 1868. From that time till his decease, which occurred October 24, 1874, he remained in a helpless condition, never being able to speak an intelligible word. He was a plain, earnest minister of the Gospel. He thoroughly understood the doctrines of the Church, and preached them in the demonstration of the spirit and of power.

* Obituary not received.

He is reported to have always been acceptable on his fields of labor and greatly beloved.

2. Zara Hale Coston was born in Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y., August 6, 1793. At seventeen years he was awakened and converted, and joined the Church under Charles Giles, of the old Genesee Conference. In early manhood he found his way down the Alleghany River in a skiff, in company with two or three other young men, of whom Augustus Eddy, father of Rev. T. M. Eddy, was one. Mr. Coston went to Cincinnati, and was there licensed to exhort, and subsequently to preach, in the year 1820, he being then about twenty-seven years of age. At the same Quarterly Conference he was recommended to the traveling connection, and was received on trial in the Ohio Conference August 8, 1820, at Chillicothe. His first appointment was West Wheeling Circuit, Muskingum District. His next was Fairfield, then Hockhocking, Black River, Granville, Zanesville Circuit, Detroit District; transferred to the Pittsburgh Conference in 1829, and stationed successively at Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Meadville District, Alleghany District, supernumerary one year, Beaver, Monongahela City, Pittsburgh Book Depository for three years, South Common, Agency for Alleghany College, supernumerary, superannuated. In 1849 he was made effective and appointed to Uniontown District, and served the full term of four years; then to Sharpsburgh, then supernumerary again. In 1858 he took a superannuated relation, in which he remained until the end of his life, a period approximating sixteen years. During a part of this time he resided in the West—in Iowa, Missouri, and Kansas. Perhaps no man ever connected with the Pittsburgh Conference, and who lived and died in it, has been placed in more important positions, or has borne more weighty responsibilities, and discharged better his trusts in critical times, than Zara H. Coston. He was placed in charge at Pittsburgh at a very serious and trying time in the history of the Church. It was in the midst of what was then called the "Radical Controversy," out of which resulted the Methodist Protestant Church. It may truthfully be said that Mr. Coston passed through the difficulties of the times with as little ill-will from the adverse party as it was possible for any administrator who was loyal to the Church to do, and with the entire approbation of those of his side of the house. He was long an active and liberal friend of Alleghany College, and his benefactions to it in the days of its weakness were of great and permanent value.

Mr. Coston was a man of amiable traits of character, and a universal favorite with those who knew him. He was emphatically kind-hearted, and generous even to a fault. He was almost prodigal of his means, of which, for a number of years after his marriage, he had abundance. His wife, formerly Mrs. Wallace, was the only daughter of General Gibson, of historic fame, by whom he received his chief resources, who was herself a very liberal and benevolent woman, and to whom the Church is greatly indebted. Their united hands were always open for any benevolent enterprise, and they laid up their treasures in heaven, "where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal."

As a preacher, Mr. Coston possessed respectable abilities. His judgment was good and his points appropriate. On particular occasions, as at camp meetings or quarterly meetings, he often preached with great power and effect. His chief forte, however, was in the excellence and amiability of his character, his urbanity and sociability of manners, and his tact and judgment, including a kind of inventive genius, by which he was led into new enterprises, and to devise good things for the cause of Christ. All his brethren esteemed him as one of the best of men. The end of such a man must be peace. It was more; it was holy triumph. As he approached the end of his pilgrimage his soul ripened for heaven. Though his sufferings were severe he rejoiced with exceeding great joy, and had complete victory through the blood of the Lamb. He died in Lawrence, Kansas, June 3, 1874.

3. Charles Thorn.—One by one the links that bind us to the heroic age of American Methodism are breaking, and the forms that we have venerated for their years and services are appearing among us no more. We have now to add to the necrological list of the Pittsburgh Conference another name that has been identified with the conference during the whole half century of its history.

Charles Thorn was born December 3, 1800, on Long Island; converted in Forsyth-st. Church, N. Y., July 7, 1815; licensed to preach by Rev. James Quinn in 1820; received into the traveling connection in the Ohio Conference in the same year; ordained a deacon by Bishop M'Kendree in 1822, and an elder by Bishop Soule in 1824, and died at his home in Sewickley June 30, 1874. His fields of labor in the Ohio Conference were as follows: Fairfield, Mansfield, Granville, Harford, and Mercer. This last appointment threw him into the bounds of the Pittsburgh Conference when it was organized by the General Conference in 1824. His appointments in the Pittsburgh Conference were as follows: West Wheeling, Chartiers, New Castle, Connellsville, Blairsville, Somerset, Steubenville, Alleghanytown, Burgettstown, Cadiz, Moorefield, Flushing and Moorefield, St. Clairsville, Washington, New Lisbon, Cadiz, Hanover, Monongahela City, West Newton, Sharpsburgh and Stewartstown, Manchester, South Pittsburgh Mission, Enon Valley Mission, Bible Agency, superannuated, Bible Agent, Salineville, Ross-street, Pittsburgh, Smith's Ferry, and Bible Agent still again from 1870 to 1874. This extended ministry of threescore years, wanting but six, suggests, and correctly, that our departed brother was a Methodist of the older school. In Cromwellian times he would have ranked as a Puritan of the straitest sect: stern, yet not morose; free from personal levity, yet not intolerant toward rational enjoyments in others. He was strict in his attendance on the means of grace, and his religion, as it appeared at the communion and the quarterly meeting love-feast, was of a joyful, tender, triumphant type.

Without the advantages of special training, Brother Thorn made himself by reading and study a man of fair parts and general information, and of power and influence in the Church. His ministry was not without fruits. Many were brought to God through his instrumentality and built up in the faith and hope of the Gospel. It is recorded of him that, after he became a minister, he baptized his mother and received both parents into the Church. He was a great sufferer through failing health during the last three years of his life; but he endured wasting and painful disease with patience and faith and hope, and no murmur escaped his lips. In those days of retirement from active duties he was devising liberal things for the Church. He offered one hundred dollars toward each new Methodist Episcopal Church that might be built in Alleghany or Beaver County. From this offer has sprung Thorn Chapel at Glendale, toward which he contributed not only a hundred but hundreds of dollars. His will also grants a conditional bequest of fifteen thousand dollars toward the building of a new church in Sewickleyville. These were some of his last doings. His work is now done. His name will be heard in the roll-call of the conference no more. He rests in hope.

4. John Wesley Shirer died in Akron, Ohio, May 3, 1874. He was born in Muskingum County, Ohio, December 19, 1821, of Methodist parents. In the fall of 1842 he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and on the 31st of March following found peace in believing. He was licensed to exhort June 24, 1844, and to preach January 30, 1847, and the same year was received on trial into the Pittsburgh Conference. He served successively Washington, Cadiz, Smithfield, Newport, M'Connellsville, Fairview, Morristown, Moorefield, Simpson Chapel, Freeport, Wesley Chapel, Leesburgh, Greentown, and Marlborough charges. At the close of his term at Wesley Chapel he took a supernumerary relation, which he held for two years, when, with health only partly restored, he was again made effective. At the conference of 1873 failing health compelled his final superannuation. During last year he was greatly afflicted, and for weeks his life was despaired of; but, to the surprise of himself and friends, he rallied again so as to be able to preach a few times, and for a short period entertained the hope of being able once more to do effective work, but this improvement proved to be only temporary. From that time he gradually grew worse until the close of his earthly life. He was trustful, and therefore calm and peaceful to the end, though he said but little. The last entry in his diary bears date April 22, only thirteen days before his death, and is as follows: "Cloudy, and to me unpleasant. On the lounge as usual, but with a calm mind and a peaceful heart. I would like more felt enjoyment if it please God. Faith is better than feeling."

Brother Shirer was a superior preacher. His intellect, naturally vigorous, was improved by diligent study. If his mind worked somewhat slowly, it worked strongly and clearly, and the logic of his sermons was irresistible. His appearance, his manner, his voice in the pulpit, as well as his words, were more than ordinarily impressive and solemn. His sermons had in them but little of the meteor's flash and dazzle, but were marked by a steady, increasing brightness from the introduction onward, and which often in the peroration would intensely glow. They possessed such a variety and uniform richness of thought and spirituality that it was a great privilege to be permitted to attend his stated ministry. That which most distinguished him was the sanctity of his character. He was pure in heart and holy in life, "a good man, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." The closing years of his life were especially rich in spiritual graces and in the beauty of holiness. He was enabled to walk on a higher plane of Christian experience, and to say, "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth me from all sin." No one privileged to know our departed brother can for a moment doubt that he possessed all he professed, and that he has joined the company of the blood-washed before the throne.

5. Charles W. Scott was born in Morgan County, Ohio, May 10, 1845. In his eighteenth year he was converted and united with the Church. In his twenty-first year he was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, having traveled one year previously with the Presiding Elder. His first appointment, 1866, was to Malvern Circuit. He was reappointed in 1867. His next two years, 1868 and 1869, were spent in Connellsville, Pa. In 1870 and 1871 he was in Bridgeport, Pa.; in 1872 he was in Elizabeth, Pa. At the close of this year, finding his health failing, he took a supernumerary relation, fondly hoping, no doubt, that a year of comparative repose would restore it. But, on the contrary, the conference of 1874 found him still more enfeebled. He was then placed on the superannuated list. Nothing was lacking in this kind family tending either to recovery or comfort. But pulmonary disease had marked him as its victim, and no efforts of his own or of his friends and physicians availed to ward off the stroke. As is common in this disease, the illusions of hope were sometimes bright even to the last. He clung to life, not because he was afraid to die, but because he had hoped to accomplish much more in the Master's vineyard. His ministerial work till health failed was a marked success; and as he had a holy ambition to perform longer and greater service, he thought it his duty to use all the available and promising means for the prolongation of his life. He looked upon death without terror or dismay. On Thursday morning, the 28th of January, he fell quietly asleep, in hope of an enduring life beyond. Thus has passed away from among us a highly deserving young man; one who, by the cultivation of mind and heart, had prepared himself for usefulness, had won the confidence of his brethren in the conference, and the warm affections of the congregations which he had served. It is indicative of his high rank as a minister, that on the very first circuit he served his reappointment for a second year was welcomed, and so also in his second and third pastoral charges. It has been remarked of him that he attended to all the minutiæ of a preacher's work—the little as well as the great, the temporal as well as the spiritual—that he kept the business part of his work well in hand and in good order. He was studious, industrious, careful, amiable, devout, and conscientious; sound in judgment, discreet in behavior, commanding the respect and affection of all. But the Master has said to him, "It is enough; come up higher."

6. William B. Grace was born December 7, 1845, in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, and died February 17, 1875, in Steubenville. He early in life felt the need of a liberal education, and engaged for a time in teaching school, that he might obtain the requisite means to enter college. This he accomplished, and while a student at Mount Union he was brought to feel the necessity of being born again, and penitently sought and found the "pearl of great price." He was graduated June 18, 1868, having already been admitted on trial in Pittsburgh Conference in March of the same year. He received his appointment to New Somerset Circuit as junior preacher. His next appointment was to South Steubenville, and during this pastoral term the church known as Finley Chapel was erected, and the year following he was appointed in charge of the congregation worshiping at the Rolling Mill. In March, 1871, he was appointed to Beaver Falls, where he labored with great acceptance for two years, and was returned a third; but failing health compelled him early in that year to reluctantly abandon his work, after repeated efforts to resume his labors, and allow another to occupy his field. At the next session of conference, there being no marked improvement in his health, his presiding elder obtained for him a superannuated relation, which he continued to sustain to the time of his death. He was married April 12, 1871, to Miss Mattie J., daughter of Jacob Coble, of Steubenville, and after his removal from Beaver Falls spent most of his time with his wife and little boy at his father-in-law's. As he was suffering from hemorrhage of the lungs, he was induced to try a change of climate and went to Colorado, where he spent several months, but returned without realizing his hopes. It soon became apparent to his friends, and also to himself, that his work was nearly done. He had a sharp conflict before he could say, "I am now ready to be offered;" but when the struggle was over he was master of the field, and for more than two months before his death his sky was without a cloud. On one occasion he said, "Ever since I had that struggle with the adversary I have been clinging to my Saviour. O the glory shines all around me!" Referring to his ministry, he remarked: "I have tried to do my work conscientiously and faithfully, but my hopes of heaven rest entirely on the Saviour of the Gospel." His sufferings were protracted, and often very great; but he bore them heroically and triumphed gloriously.

Brother Grace was, in the truest sense, a Christian gentleman. He possessed a noble spirit, and a good degree of personal magnetism which drew around him a large circle of friends, and constituted an element of power in his ministry. He always labored successfully, and the work was considered perfectly safe in his hands. He was a good preacher for one of his age in the ministry. No subject was superficially examined or meanly treated by him. His mind was well balanced, his arrangement of subjects clear, and his language dignified. Our brother's race was short, but it was well run. He has reached the goal and won the incorruptible crown. And when the Lord makes up his jewels, doubtless among them will be a goodly number gathered by the hands of this young servant from the earthly fields he occupied. Let the Church remember his widow and orphan.

R. H. Pattison, T. Sumption—2.

1. ROBERT H. PATTISON was born near Cambridge, Md., Jan. 22, 1824, and died in Philadelphia Feb. 14, 1875, aged fifty-one years. He was the child of Methodist parents, and by them trained from his infancy in "the nurture and admonition of the Lord." At the early age of ten years he was graciously brought into the kingdom of Christ, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. At fourteen he entered the preparatory department of Dickinson College, and after passing successfully through the entire curriculum of study he graduated in the class of 1843. During his residence at Carlisle he was fully identified with the cause of Christ, and, giving evidence of a call to preach, he was licensed by the Quarterly Conference of the Church in that place. At the close of his collegiate career he became a resident of Baltimore, where for two years he was engaged in teaching a select school. Here, too, he was active in evangelical labor. But it soon became evident that God designed him to occupy a wider field of usefulness; and, having been recommended by the Quarterly Conference of the Charles-street Church, Baltimore, he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in April, 1846. His first appointment was to Dorchester Circuit, where he commenced, as junior preacher, his itinerant ministry among the scenes and friends of his earliest years. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Seaford, Princess Anne, Church Creek, Quantico, Snow Hill, Middletown and Cantwell's Bridge, Asbury, Phila., Kensington, Twelfth-street, Phila., Port Deposit, St. George's, Phila., Tabernacle, Phila., St. Peter's, Reading, Harrisburgh Dist., Western, Phila., where he finished his earthly course.

On the 29th of January, 1850, Brother Pattison was united in marriage with Miss Catharine P. Wolford, of Cambridge, Md., a lady of refinement, intelligence, and piety, who for twenty-five years was his faithful and affectionate companion, and who survives to cherish his memory, while she mourns his loss. Three children blessed their union, of whom one died in infancy; the others, a son and a daughter, are living, consistent members of the Church.

At the conference of 1858 Dr. Pattison was chosen to succeed Rev. P. Coombe as its Secretary, and continued to fill that office until his death. In 1868 he was a delegate to the General Conference, and was chosen by that body as one of its Assistant Secretaries. He was also associated with the management of most of the various religious and benevolent organizations connected with the Philadelphia Conference, and was for several years a member of the Parent Missionary Board at New York.

During nearly his whole life Dr. Pattison enjoyed excellent health; but in the autumn of 1874 he contracted a severe cold, which, manifesting itself primarily in a racking cough, developed at a later period acute rheumatic and neuralgic symptoms, and ultimately resulted in hopeless paralysis of the lower limbs. For a time nature battled vigorously against the foe; but even his vigorous constitution was compelled to succumb, and after eight weeks of suffering, on the afternoon of the holy Sabbath day he gently sank to rest.

Dr. Pattison was a good man, a true Methodist, a faithful pastor, an acceptable and earnest preacher, and a Christian gentleman, whom to know was to esteem and love. Less brilliant, perhaps, than some, he was wiser and more consistent than many, while his sound judgment, unswerving integrity, unfailing courtesy, unwearying diligence, kindly sympathy, and unwavering loyalty to religion, friendship, and patriotism, made him a man to honor, trust, and love.

2. THOMAS SUMPTION was born in Cecil County, Md., December 5, 1802, and died in Halifax, Dauphin County, Pa., May 9, 1874, in the seventy-second year of his age. He was converted at a camp-meeting near Port Deposit in 1819, and was licensed to exhort soon after. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1828, and for ten years exercised his gifts in that capacity with great acceptability and usefulness. In 1838 he was received into the Philadelphia Conference on trial, and thenceforward successively served the following circuits: Susquehanna Mission, Springfield, Chester, Grove, Radnor, Smyrna, Centerville, Kent, Delaware City, North East, Fulton, Newport, Charlestown, Oxford, Birdsborough, Salem, Bethel, Attleborough, Halifax. His whole ministerial life was spent on circuits, and it seemed to afford him great pleasure to say that he had never asked for and never refused to go to an appointment. At the conference in 1874 he was absent for the first time, and when his name was called his presiding elder announced (in connection with his request for a superannuated relation) that our brother was dangerously ill, but supported by the consolations of Divine grace. Though possessed of a strong and vigorous constitution, it soon appeared that he would not recover, and after a protracted period of intense suffering he "fell asleep in Christ."

Brother Sumption was possessed of a clear and vigorous mind, and a thorough acquaintance with the Scriptures. His sermons gave evidence of a grasp of thought which would have placed him among the foremost of his brethren had he been favored with their early advantages. Positive in his convictions, he never shunned to declare the "whole counsel of God." Fierce in his denunciation of wrong, he often incurred the displeasure of transgressors; and yet he was so loving and tender in his presentation of Christ that he won many souls, and his ministry was marked by many precious and powerful revivals. Though he may have seemed unduly severe at times, yet a warmer, kinder heart never throbbed in human bosom. Impulsive and generous, he frequently deprived himself to assist the needy or forward a deserving cause. During all his ministry his statements of his own religious experience were clear and positive. Confidence was a striking characteristic of his religious life, and though in his last illness he was disturbed somewhat by doubts and fears by reason of his sickness, yet "at eve it was light." Committing all to his Saviour he put off the earthly tabernacle, left the loved ones of earth and joined the blood-washed in heaven. "Absent from the body, present with the Lord."

J. A. Little.

J. A. LITTLE was born in Hendricks County, Ind., October 27, 1839, and died in Lebanon, Mo., July 21, 1874. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, March, 1857. He had opportunities above many of his brethren. At the time the late war broke out he was a member of the Sophomore class in Asbury University. He served his country as a soldier for two years, and was then discharged on account of ill-health. In 1866 he graduated in the Law School at Indianapolis; came to Missouri and practiced his profession until the early part of 1871. He was licensed to preach September 10, 1870, and admitted on trial in the St. Louis Conference in March, 1871, and appointed to Windsor Circuit, where he had a year of prosperity, many seals being added to his ministry. In 1872 he was appointed to Harrisonville Circuit, where he labored faithfully and with some success. In 1873 he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to Lebanon Station, to which he was reappointed in 1874. In this, his last charge, he was abundant in labors, and, under God, gave the Church a prestige which it had never enjoyed before.

Brother Little was a close student. He possessed a high order of intellect, and was a superior preacher. Had he lived, he was destined to take high rank in the ministry. He was conscientiously religious, ardently attached to the Church and her usages. We had no more high-minded man among us. He spurned a small or selfish act. Those who knew our brother will not be surprised to learn that Christian patience characterized him in his last severe suffering, and that he approached death a conquering hero. His mind was clear until the last. After arranging his business matters he said to his weeping wife, "These are the happiest moments of my life." He requested his wife to read the fourth chapter of the First Epistle of John. After reading he asked her to sing his favorite song, "Sweeping through the gates." Then, without a quivering nerve, he entered "bold Jordan's stormy main," passed over, and entered the sun-bright clime, leaving a wife and four little children, who need and well deserve our sympathy and aid.

John Sauter, Wm. Schwarz—2.

1. JOHN SAUTER was born in the city of Tettnang, in the kingdom of Wirtemberg, Germany, May 18, 1812, and died in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 24, 1874, in his sixty-second year. He emigrated to this country about forty years ago, was married one year later in Baltimore to his now bereaved widow, and after a few years the young couple were converted to God. After this they lived two years in Wheeling, where Brother Sauter was licensed to preach. Having returned to Baltimore, he was sent in 1844 to Rahway, N. J., there to preach the Gospel to the Germans. About six months later he went to Newark, N. J., where he worked with success for three years, and gathered a society. In 1845 he was received into the New Jersey Conference. In 1847 he founded a society in Buffalo, N. Y., and built a Church; from 1848 to 1850 he did the same in Rochester. From 1850 to 1852 he labored in Philadelphia, where the old St. John was brought under his ministrntion. Again he was appointed to Newark in 1852 and 1853, and then traveled as Presiding Elder on the Rochester District for four years. He served the society in Newark a third time for two years; was next appointed to East Baltimore, then to West Baltimore, Schenectady, Fort Hunter, and Poughkeepsie. From 1868 to 1874 he sustained a supernumerary and superannuated relation, though for the last year of his life he had charge of Fort Hunter, where he preached regularly to the end of the year.

On Tuesday, March 17, he came from Schenectady to Poughkeepsie to spend a day with his daughter and son-in-law, the Rev. George Meyer, of this conference, and then proceeded to the seat of the conference, in Williamsburgh, L. I. Having arrived at the depot, he stepped on the platform to leave the train, when a sudden jerk of the cars threw him violently against the railing. He felt at once that he had received some injury, and found it difficult to reach the parsonage. At the pressing invitation of some brethren he attended a love-feast held in the evening, and, though he could stay but a short time, he gave a clear testimony of the glorious hope which was in him. His injuries proved to be more severe than he had thought at first, and on the following Monday he submitted to a painful surgical operation. After this he sank very rapidly. He passed his last long night of suffering in great resignation to the will of God, and said to the friends who surrounded him, "I am not afraid to die. How glorious it will be to lay down this poor mortal body!" At last the day arrived which was to usher the weary pilgrim into his eternal rest. At nine o'clock he left his couch, saying, "Bed, good-bye!" and sat down in an arm-chair. His son-in-law read to him the 22d chapter of the Book of Revelations down to the words, "Behold, I come quickly: and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be," when the dying husband and father nodded a last farewell to his loved ones, and committed his soul into his Redeemer's hands. "He was not; for God took him."

Brother Sauter was a good man, a diligent worker, a faithful pastor, a safe adviser, a loving husband and father, and his memory is a blessing to all who have known him.

62. WILLIAM SCHWARZ was born February 14, 1826, in Oberachern, Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, and died in Melrose, New York, March 13, 1875, at the age of forty-nine. His parents being Roman Catholics, he was brought up in the same Church. He attended the High-schools in Rastadt and Freiburg, and intended to prepare himself for the priesthood. However, in 1845, he left the school and came to America. He was led by Brother J. Rothweiler to our Second-st. German Church in the city of New York, where he was converted to God in the spring of the year 1846. In December of the same year he was licensed to preach, and his first sermon, preached in Newark during a protracted meeting, had a blessed influence. In May, 1848, he was received on trial by the New York Conference, and was sent to Bloomingdale, now Fortieth-street, New York, where he did the missionary work assigned to him with great zeal and diligence. Here he had the misfortune to break his leg on the way to an appointment at the Bethel Ship, in consequence of which he limped somewhat in after life. On the 17th day of June, 1849, he was married to Caroline Fruch, in whom he found a faithful companion. His successive appointments were: Baltimore, Second-st., New York, Albany, Newark. While stationed here a kind providence saved him and his family from a burning steamer in New York Bay. In May, 1857, he was appointed to the New York German District. In 1858 he was sent as Missionary to Germany. His first appointment was Bremen, where, besides having charge of the Society, he was also "Hausvater" in the newly-founded Mission Institute. In 1860 he was appointed to Berlin, next to Basel, in Switzerland. In 1866 he was appointed to the West Switzerland District, and did a blessed pioneer work. The next year he was sent as Missionary to Paris, where he accomplished much good among the numerous young Germans. The Franco-German war destroyed his little society; but the fruit of his labor remains, and some of his converts in Paris are found as members and preachers even in America. Driven out of Paris, he was appointed to the Carlsruhe District in 1871, where he also worked with success.

Feeling a desire to return to this country for the sake of his children, Bishop Foster transferred him to the East German Conference, and Bishop Janes appointed him to Melrose, where he arrived in May, 1874. Although the Lord permitted him to labor here but a short time, he still lives in the grateful remembrance of that Society.

Brother Schwarz was an able missionary, always laying new plans for the furtherence of the work of God. He was successful in winning souls to Christ. He was an excellent preacher, and gave more than usual care and diligence to the preparation of his sermons. The speeches which he delivered in different cities in Germany in defense of Methodism were masterpieces, and commanded respect from both friend and foe. In the social circle he was genial and entertaining, especially for the young. He was a loving husband and a kind father, and knew how to make his home pleasant. In his illness he earnestly sought to set his house in order. The work of the Lord lay near his heart until his end. His last sermons were especially spiritual, as were also his official meetings, the last of which he held in his house at the beginning of his short sickness. The care of his family was taken from his mind, and he had no other desire but to be saved forever. His remains were laid to rest in Woodlawn Cemetery, there to await the glorious appearance of our Lord Jesus Christ.

1. ROBERT H. COLLINS was born in Kent County, Delaware, May 12, 1833, and died at Stilesville, Davis County, Iowa, January 26, 1875. Brother Collins was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at a camp-meeting near Memphis, Mo., in September, 1858; was licensed to preach in 1859, and commenced his labors as an itinerant minister in the Des Moines Conference in the fall of 1863, Mount Air being his first charge. He was subsequently transferred to the Missouri Conference, and labored very efficiently and successfully until compelled, on account of failing health, to superannuate last spring. His disease was consumption. His sufferings at times were severe, but he endured them as "seeing Him who is invisible." His end was peace.

Brother Collins was a consistent Christian gentleman, more than an average preacher, and an excellent pastor. Many through his instrumentality were led to Christ during his few years of active service in the itinerant field.

2. CHARLES L. BROWN was born in Campbell County, Virginia, from whence he removed in his childhood to Missouri. He was converted in 1868, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to preach and admitted on trial in this conference, and traveled two years, doing good service for the Master. At its last session he was in very feeble health, but being hopeful of restoration he received his appointment, and was admitted into full connection. He returned to his home to suffer for months, and then to pass over the river. During all his sickness he expressed great anxiety to be at his work; otherwise he was patient. He died in peace.

S. D. Brown.

STEPHEN D. BROWN, D.D., died at his residence in the city of New York on the 19th of February, 1875, aged fifty-nine years. He was born in Swanton, Vermont, Sept. 13, 1815. He was the son of Stephen S. Brown, one of the most eminent lawyers and jurists in the State, and grandson of Rev. Amasa Brown, who was for more than forty years pastor of the Baptist Church in Hartford, Washington County, N. Y.

Brother Brown naturally turned his attention from the first to the law. It was the intention of his father that his son should be with him in business, and he was educated with this design, receiving a thorough New England common school and academic training. Before he was sixteen years of age he developed remarkable talents as a debater and public speaker in the village lyceums. After he was sixteen his father placed him for a year in the store of Mr. L. L. Dutcher, of St. Albans, that he might acquire a knowledge of business. He then went into his father's office, and was admitted to practice at the bar in September, 1835. His father's failing health led him to push his son rapidly forward, and in 1837 there was no young lawyer in Vermont that had before him the promise of a more brilliant professional career than Stephen D. Brown.

But at this very time he was beginning to feel that it might possibly be his duty to preach the Gospel. But he kept sacredly in his own heart the feeling that might never have grown to a conviction, had not his pastor, the Rev. R. M. Little, with the same impression, drawn from the modest young man the secret of his soul. Brother Brown could no longer question the call of God. He received an exhorter's license, placed himself under the charge of Brother Little, going out of Burlington to preach in the schoolhouses and elsewhere as he had opportunity. He immediately commenced the study of theology, preparatory to his admission into the Troy Conference, which occurred in the year 1837. In thus abandoning his brilliant prospects in a more attractive profession Brother Brown sacrificed much. He decided against the judgment and will of his father and friends. But God had in store for him far better things than he left behind. "He always wins who sides with God."

Rev. R. H. Howard, writing in the "Christian Advocate" of April 1, says: "Dr. Brown's conversion and consecration to the Methodist ministry worked an epoch in the history of Vermont Methodism. His high social position, his ripe culture, his fine legal talents and education, his matchless eloquence and fervent piety, gave our cause a standing throughout all that section it had never enjoyed before."

After entering the Troy Conference in 1837, and spending three years in small but important appointments, he was sent to Burlington, and from that time on he filled the most important churches in the conference. His appointments were as follows: Wilmington, Essex, Burlington, Poultney, Saratoga Springs, Plattsburgh, Washington-st., Albany, Presiding Elder of St. Albans District, State-street, Troy, North Second-street, Troy, Hudson-st., Albany.

Of his ministry in the Troy Conference says one who knew him well during nearly all the years in which he writes: "Stephen D. Brown at this time was in his prime; and, though but thirty-seven or thirty-eight years of age, was yet decidedly the foremost man in his conference, and the most popular preacher in the whole Champlain Valley. Since the day of Noah Levings there has probably been no such universal pulpit favorite in all that region." In 1857 he was transferred to the New York Conference, and successively served Central Methodist Episcopal Church, New York, Washington-street, Poughkeepsie, and Eighty-sixth st., New York. In 1862 he was transferred back to the Troy Conference to fill a most important post of duty, for which he was considered as especially qualified. He was stationed in 1862 and 1863 over the Ferry-street Church, Albany, and in 1864 over the State-st. Church, Troy.

In 1865 he was transferred again to the New York Conference, at the earnest request of the Bedford-street Church, and was received with open arms and with genuine brotherly welcome. From that time he has been as thoroughly identified with this conference and honored by [illegible] though born and bred [illegible]. He was stationed three years in Bedford-street, New York, and at the same time in Eighty-sixth-street, New York. In 1871 he was appointed presiding elder of the New York District, at the request of the ministers of the district, and for the past four years he has devoted his entire time and strength to the duties of this office.

Among the many interests coming under the care of the presiding elder of this district there is none more important than that of the City Missionary and Church Extension Society. It is really a large circuit, of which the elder is the preacher in charge. It is a work of such magnitude and responsibility that it might easily tax the time, and energy, and wisdom of any one man. Dr. Brown gave to this Society very much of his best strength. He constantly attended its regular and special meetings, visiting and addressing the Sunday-schools, attending the prayer-meetings, preaching frequently in its churches, and in every possible way seeking to give efficiency and success to the work. The growth and efficiency of this institution during the past four years afford one of the best monuments to his prudent, energetic, far-seeing, successful administration. But he was equally faithful to every other duty. He was one of the most useful managers of the general Missionary Society. He regularly attended the Board meetings of the Tract, Sunday-School Union, and Conference Education Society, and was an active, interested manager of each.

But after all, his Churches and his preachers were nearer and dearer to him than all other interests. All went to him with confidence when they needed his counsel, and he always went to them when he knew they were in trouble or could be aided by his sympathy or presence. Hence, not a few of us have come to feel toward him as a son toward a father. He was a patient, kindly listener, and any man might commit to him a confidence with the assurance that he would never betray a trust. He never seemed to cherish an enmity, but always covered by a gracious charity the faults or foibles of others, and found some palliation for their conduct, some excuse for their perversity. He could not have been more tender or interested in his own brother than in the men on his district who for any reasons were feeling the hardships of the itiner-ancy. Those who knew him best know how he carried these cases in his heart, and how he suffered by that which caused suffering to his brethren.

He was always kind and consid- to young preachers. He had in drawing out

BISHOP... and so gentle was this good man ... became a very sun that ... the most timid and retiring ... blossom out with their best and choicest thoughts and feelings. He has left us a grand example of combined humility and worth, of brotherly kindness and manly strength. He showed how in attending faithfully to our proper work, without self-assertion or self-seeking, one may yet receive every honor in the ministry; how we may be true to every duty, in the advance on every question of reform, and yet have a host of friends: how one may lay down the most difficult and thankless office in the Church, having honestly done his duty, yet preserving the high esteem and confidence of his brethren.

His ministry has been one of marked ability and success. He has been distinguished as a preacher and a pastor. He stood high among the counselors in the conference, and equally prominent as an administrator of the discipline and order of the Church. In his middle life he was especially successful in reaching the unconverted, and was blessed with several great revivals. As a camp-meeting preacher he was at this time unrivaled, and hundreds of sinners were brought to Christ through these great camp-meeting sermons. Indeed, to the very last, soul-saving was with him a passion. The last sermon he preached, about a week before his death, was specially to the unconverted; and in the delirium of his last sickness he was frequently and earnestly inviting sinners to be saved, and leading penitent seekers to Christ. He was also successful in leading many young men into the ministry, and every-where established and strengthened the Churches. His usefulness and real success continued to the close.

During the last two years there has been a gradual but sure decay of vital power. This did not show itself in less work, in fewer sermons, in neglected duties, in any lack of energy in the thought or delivery of his sermons. But it was manifest in the weariness of manner, in the evident loss of sleep, in his slower recuperation after seasons of labor. His last sickness was brought on through his devotion to work, and exposure while attending the funeral of an old friend.

No record of Dr. Brown could be written that did not at least make mention of his devotion to the great questions of moral and ecclesiastical reform. There stand three very bright pages in his history. The first is that which narrates his labors in the cause of temperance. His first public address was delivered on this subject before he was seventeen years of age. This was followed by invitations from all directions to make temperance addresses. Throughout his whole life he was most earnestly devoted to the success of this cause, and we probably have no minister among us who has delivered more sermons and addresses on temperance than he. The second is that which tells of his devotion to the cause of human freedom. Stephen D. Brown from the first was among the advocates of freedom in the Troy Conference. He came to this conference with a grand record in the antislavery cause, and here, as there, he wrote, and spoke, and voted, and worked with that glorious company that never faltered, many of whom lived to witness the final success of the cause. The third page of his history records his advocacy of lay delegation in the councils of our Church. For years before it became a subject of general public discussion he saw clearly the great need and duty of the Church, and battled earnestly in behalf of this great cause.

Dr. Brown died of bilious pneumonia, at his home in New York, after an illness of less than six days. The attack was so sudden and the collapse so complete from the first that he was in poor condition for clear and connected conversation. His mind was frequently wandering and his suffering great. But in those moments that we could converse with him his faith was clear and calm. When informed that he could not get well, he said, "I had not thought that my life-work was so nearly done, but if it is God's will it is all right. I have been preparing for this hour for many years."

E. L. Janes, N. Orchard, J. Trippett—3.

1. EDWIN L. JANES was born in Sheffield, Berkshire County, Massachusetts, on the 27th of May, 1807. A few years after the family removed to the adjoining town of Salisbury, in Connecticut, where he passed his boyhood and received the rudiments of an English education. He was converted while engaged as a teacher in Columbia County, N. Y. So pure and blameless was his moral character that to observers but little change appeared in him; but inwardly the inspiration of Divine love made him a new creature, and gave another shape to his life and destiny. With his twin brother (now Bishop Edmund S. Janes) he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at the home of their boyhood, Lakeville, in the town of Salisbury. Pursuing his profession as a teacher he went to New Jersey, when, receiving the Divine call to preach the Gospel, he was received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in 1832, and was appointed to Asbury Church, West Philadelphia. His subsequent appointments were Elizabeth, Plainfield, and Irvington, in the State of New Jersey. He was then re-appointed to Asbury Church, West Philadelphia; then to Haddington, Middletown, and Odessa Circuits, in Delaware; Elkton and St. George's Church, in Philadelphia. Being transferred to the New York Conference, he was next appointed to Mulberry-street Church, South Second-st., Williamsburgh, South Fifth-st., Williamsburgh, (which was organized by him,) Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Middletown, Connecticut. After this he served two years (1854–55) as Presiding Elder of the New Haven District, in which office his upright, genial, and devout spirit made him popular with preachers and people. He was then returned to his former charge at South Fifth-street, Williamsburgh, where he served two years, at the end of which, by an exceptional vote of the conference, he was made supernumerary, and so was left to serve the same Church one year more. Being again made effective, he was sent successively to John-street, Forsyth-street, Flushing, and Whitestone. He then received a superannuated relation, and supplied the pulpit of Summerfield Church, Brooklyn, in 1866, Central Church in 1867, and John-street, N. Y., in 1868–69. Here, at the oldest Methodist Church in America, having had the honor of serving it as pastor two regular terms of two years each, he closed his pastoral life. In 1870 he was made effective, and was appointed District Secretary, or Agent, of the National Temperance Society and Publication House, and so continued until his death, January 10, 1875. His entire ministerial career extended to nearly forty-three years, and he died the oldest member but two of the New York East Conference.

Brother Janes was among the foremost of those "called to be saints" in holy consecration of heart and life to God. He was recognized by all who saw him as a good man. His life was filled with good works; no day passed without some endeavor to be useful to his fellow-men. He was an example to all believers, and especially to all ministers, in his habit of conversing with those he met on the subject of religion, and of seeking opportunities privately to interest men in their personal salvation. In this he followed closely the footsteps of his divine Master. As a pastor he was almost unrivaled. He loved the work, prompted by conscience and the love of Christ and of souls. So acceptable and refreshing were his ministrations, that he was often invited to the sick chambers of his former parishioners when stationed near them. His fluency, unction, and adaptation in public and private prayer were extraordinary. His extemporaneous remarks and exhortations in prayer-meetings often were rare specimens of sacred eloquence. As a preacher he was instructive, ingenious, and effectual. His voice was not strong, but pleasant and flexible, and his whole manner was graceful and winning. He made no ostentation of learning or piety, but aimed to instruct and comfort the children of God, and to awaken and convert sinners. In the reforms of the age in Church and State he was not conspicuous, except in relation to the temperance cause, to which he gave up the latter years of his life, addressing Sunday-schools and Churches, and circulating temperance pledges and literature. During the last months of his life, while his infirmities were growing heavy upon him and foreboding death in the view of his friends, he went from bar-room to bar-room in Flushing, talking with liquor dealers and trying to persuade them to abandon this pernicious traffic. As a theologian he thoroughly understood the Christian system, and was eminently capable of discussing its great principles and doctrines. His preaching, therefore, was doctrinal, but not dogmatic or speculative. He felt that his work, as a minister of the Gospel, was to expound the Scripture and to make the great truths of revelation interesting of themselves by proper elucidation and illustration. He disdained to amuse his hearers with poetry and fine stories while he saw that their eternal salvation was at stake, and might be more or less affected by his utterance of the word of life. In this way he was the means of the conversion of many souls, and in some of his charges he had great revivals.

Brother Janes's first wife was an amiable and pious lady, who accompanied him cheerfully through the greater part of his long itinerancy, and until she was called to her heavenly home. His second wife is a most estimable lady, and has borne him a daughter of rare energy of character, and his last hours were cheered by their loving presence. With wise forecast he had recently purchased for their home a beautiful cottage in Flushing, and provided a lot and family monument in the neighboring cemetery, where now his body is interred. His death was a surprise, for though a chronic local disorder often threatened death, he had so often overcome it that he expected it would now yield to medical and surgical treatment. But it was otherwise ordered. When asked by a member of the conference, often visiting him in his sickness, if he expected to outlive his brother, the bishop, who was then temporarily ill, he replied that he did not speculate upon this matter, but left it to his heavenly Father, like a child who was willing to retire to rest or remain up at the will of his parents. Yet he could not feel that his hour was come, though he knew that his life-work was nearly over. His brother, Bishop Janes, who was with him during his last days and nights, asked him, "How does the future look to you—your own future?" He answered, "It is all bright to me." "Have you no doubts or fears?" With a look of surprise he responded, "How could I doubt? how could I?" His last struggles with disease were painful to behold; but in lucid and quiet moments he cited fragments of hymns and of texts of Scripture, signifying to his friends to complete them; and thus songs of praise and the voices of the prophets and apostles and Christ were heard, day and night, around his dying bed. After a night of unconscious restlessness he awoke from the fearful sleep, and passed away just as the morning of the holy Sabbath was breaking, and the rising sun cast its beams on his joyful flight to the celestial paradise.

2. Nicholas Orchard was born in Cornwall, England, November 14, 1806, of Wesleyan parents, whose training, with God's blessing, resulted in his conversion in his sixteenth year, when he joined the Wesleyan Methodist Society. He came to this country about 1837, and settled in Perth Amboy, New Jersey, where his labors as local preacher, class leader, etc., were highly appreciated. In 1843 he removed to Brooklyn, and was soon employed by the presiding elder as pastor at Flatbush. The following two years he assisted on the Home Mission work in Brooklyn, and then, under the presiding elder, he ably served the societies on Good Ground Circuit. In 1852 he was received into the New York East Conference, and his successive appointments were as follows: Southold, Farmingdale, Riverhead, Northport, Port Jefferson, Patchogue and Sayville, Orient, Parkville, Orient, and, lastly, to Bay Ridge and Unionville. He entered upon his last charge with broken health, but undiminished zeal. A gracious revival was the result of his labors here, but his active work was to end. While the conference was in session from which he expected to receive his thirteenth appointment he was prostrated by paralysis, which closed his activity on earth. For more than a year, however, he lingered in patience and submission to God's will, and on the 27th of May, 1874, in his residence at Jamaica, after retiring at night as usual, with no expectation of his near release, he suddenly fell asleep in Jesus without being permitted to bid farewell to his family.

As a preacher and pastor he was in labors abundant, and more than acceptable. In every appointment he was greatly beloved by his people, and men of learning held in high esteem his capabilities as a Bible student and a preacher. His touching appeals to his hearers came from the depth of a heart which longed for their salvation. He felt the sacredness of his calling, loved it, and was successful in it. In his skill, and prudence, and faithfulness his presiding elder securely trusted. Conscientious in the discharge of every duty, he was careful to take every collection required by the General Conference, and thorough in regard to Church records and temporalities. His love for his denomination and for his brethren in the ministry was strong. Two of the present members of our conference were led forward to the ministry by him, and one of them says he owes all to him. He seemed never to be discouraged in his work, but with buoyant hope went forward, confiding in the God of providence and grace. Always in his prayer and class-meetings, he knew the exact state of things in his parish. Bad weather never kept him from his post of duty. When the new church at Good Ground was built, fourteen years after he left the place, he was honored with an invitation to dedicate it and preach the first sermon. In the midst of such success and appreciation he was clothed with humility. He often spoke of the excellence of his opportunities, and seemed remarkably unselfish. Asking no favors, and making no complaints, he was a builder up of run-down Churches, and appeared never to be moved by an unworthy ambition.

Thus lived and died a generous, noble man of God, whose chief desire was to be counted faithful by the great Shepherd in the sphere to which God had called him. In his latest days he expressed his cheerful, happy trust in God to the writer, who, in view of such a life, says, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

3. John Trippett was born in England, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, August 19, 1799. In his seventeenth year he was brought into intercourse with the Methodists, and at the age of twenty-two he commenced a decidedly religious life. The thoroughness of his conversion was evinced in his immediate devotion to the activities of a Christian life. Although occupied with the engrossing cares of business, his intervals of time were diligently employed in personal efforts for the salvation of others. In the year 1822 he received license as a local preacher. Aspiring to a more extended and useful sphere of Christian effort, he embarked, in the year 1831, for America, designing to consecrate himself fully to the work of the ministry. In 1833 he was admitted on probation in the New York Conference, and assigned to Sag Harbor and Bridge Hampton. He was subsequently appointed to Riverhead, Rhinebeck, Hudson, Seventh-street, (New York city,) and Rhinebeck again. At the ensuing conference, by reason of impaired health, he took a supernumerary relation. His health having improved, in 1844 he became effective, and was appointed to Delhi, Delaware County, N. Y. The severity of the climate and the extent of his labors proved too great a strain upon his already enervated frame, and at the conference of 1845 he was reluctantly compelled to take a superannuated relation, in which he continued until the close of his earthly career. At the time of his death, which occurred December 3, 1874, he resided in England. In compliance with a desire on his part, frequently expressed, his remains were brought to this country and conveyed to Rhinebeck, where, on the 27th day of last December, after appropriate religious services, they were interred.

Brother Trippett combined excellences which rendered him always acceptable and useful as a preacher and a pastor. He was deeply pious, and dwelt much in communion with God. He was scrupulously conscientious. His utterances and acts were the outcome of principle rather than impulse. In his whole bearing he was a noble specimen of the Christian gentleman. To a fine personal presence there was added great dignity and suavity of manners, and an amiability of disposition which elicited universal respect and esteem. As a preacher he acquired and maintained a respectable position. Though devoid of the fire of genius, his pulpit efforts were eminently didactic and expository. Toward the close of his life he became a great sufferer; for seven months he was confined to his bed, but he endured patiently and uncomplainingly. His testimony to the power of grace to sustain and comfort was unambiguous and decided. When convinced that his end was near, calmly and confidently he said, "I want to give my testimony now that I have no fear of death, and for fifty-four years I have not lost my peace with God." Thus his sun, which in his young manhood rose bright and beautiful, and which had shone with undimmed luster through a long life, set without one intervening cloud, only to rise in clearer heavens and in a purer atmosphere.

B. A. Chase.

BENJAMIN A. CHASE died in East Cumberland, R. I., Aug. 17, 1875, aged 41 years. Converted at Newbury, Vt., while pursuing his academic studies in 1853, his Christian life was ever after firm and progressive. He soon had the impression that the Lord wanted him for the Gospel ministry, and he was "not disobedient to the heavenly vision." He started on the itinerant's mission without questioning or fear, and prosecuted it with fidelity. He connected himself with the conference in May, 1858, was ordained deacon in 1860, and elder in 1865. From 1857 to 1869 he occupied important posts in East Maine, except three years in the army, where he was faithful, popular, and useful. From March, 1870, he labored in Rhode Island, where he formed many true and endearing friendships among ministers and laymen. His departure in his prime, to the sore bereavement of a worthy wife and four little daughters, to the great grief of the Church, to the rupture of all those tender ties which bound his noble spirit to the friends of Jesus, is one of those inexplicable events which must be referred to the Master for solution.

Brother Chase died with calm, unfaltering trust in God, his Redeemer. His business was systematically arranged, his testimonies were positive and resolute, his composure serene and beautiful, and his victory over the king of terrors sublime.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

J. Worthing, A. Wood, W. A. Wadsworth—3.

1. JONATHAN WORTHING died August 11, 1874, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. Of his early history no specific information could be obtained. About the time he reached his majority he was admitted to membership in the New England Conference. During the six years of his connection with that body he toiled on an equal number of the most laborious charges then to be found in the States of Maine, Vermont, and New Hampshire. More is implied in such a statement than the men of this generation will be likely ever fully to understand. In 1825 he became identified with the Genesee Conference, being then in the flush and vigor of meridian manhood. With a fine presence, a manly voice, and a warm heart, he made a good impression wherever he appeared before our people, and, better than all, showed good sense, dispensed sound doctrine, and enforced all by a holy life and zealous endeavor to do good. For about thirty years he was in the effective list, during which time he labored mostly in Central New York, always acceptably and with success. Shortly before his death he said: "During my ministry I have received into the Church about twelve hundred members. In my family relations—embracing sons and daughters, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, and grandchildren—there are forty members of the Church, many of whom are earnest workers in the great Master's vineyard."

During the twenty years of his superannuated relation Brother Worthing has resided in Binghamton, where he has been regarded with universal esteem. Though remarkably modest and retiring, his excellence of character could not be concealed. His life was, indeed, an honor to his profession. Nor was his death less so. Calmly, peacefully, triumphantly he passed away to the home of the good. Thus our fathers are leaving us, and soon the last of them will be gone. May we also be ready!

2. Alonzo Wood was born in Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y., January 15, 1808. He was converted in Palermo, N. Y., in 1822, and, connecting himself with the M. E. Church, received license to exhort in 1829. This was followed by license to preach in 1830. He was employed by John Dempster, as helper, two years in his district, and witnessed over a thousand conversions. The following year, by appointment of the presiding elder, he served a charge in the vicinity of Cortland, and at its close, in September, 1833, was received into the Oneida Conference. The following is a list of his appointments from this time, with brief notes, chiefly from his own pen: 1833, West Owego Creek, Flemingville: "Two extensive reformations; one hundred and thirty converts. Brother J. M. Grimes came into the Church, and I believe Dr. H. R. Clarke made up his mind, under the influence of this revival, to prepare for the ministry." 1834–5, Broome Circuit: "Here we had salvation for two years. Two of the converts, Joseph and John Boswell, became members of the conference." 1836, Slaterville: "Many converted; no sweeping revival. Brother W. N. Cobb was among the number who sought and obtained forgiveness." 1837–8, Groton Circuit: "Salvation came down in floods. Three were called to the ministry." 1839–40, Owasco Mission: "God reigned gloriously. I had to employ a helper, Brother R. S. Rose, now of the Wyoming Conference." 1841–2, Cayuga Circuit: "Great prosperity; five hundred conversions; four hundred and thirty joined the M. E. Church. Brother B. I. Ives and Brother Sylvester H. Brown were received into the Church. Dr. Frederick Humphrey was recommended and received into conference." 1843–4, Mentz and Sennett: "Both prosperous years. Built a church." 1845–7: "Chaplain to Auburn State Prison." 1848–9, Groton: "Two good years." 1850, Ludlowville. 1851–2, Ledyard: "Good revivals." 1853, North Lansing. Here his health failed, and at the ensuing annual conference he took a superannuated relation. By the advice of physicians he removed to Michigan, where he partially recovered his health and resumed his labor, but not in an effective relation. On the annexation of the Chenango and Otsego Districts to Wyoming Conference, in 1866, his name passed also to the list of this conference, where it has since remained. Under date of March 4, 1873, he writes: "I have preached in the spring and autumn more than half the time since I have been in this State; have served four charges, and had over two hundred conversions; have also built some churches." One more year of labor closed his earthly career.

Alonzo Wood was married in January, 1832, to Miss Angeline Mallory, daughter of Judge Mallory, of Cortland, N. Y., who survives to mourn, though with Christian faith and fortitude, her heavy loss. Though reared in other circumstances, she entered heartily into his self-denying labors, and cheerfully shared with him the rough experiences of the pioneer itinerant. His daughter, Mrs. Maria N. Clarke, of Chesaning, Mich., writes May 24, 1874: "Father had appointments and preached until the very last. It was over exertion that brought on his last illness—neuralgia of the heart. He was in the town of Victor, Clinton County, and preached on Saturday night and twice on Sunday. That night he had a severe attack, and could not return home until Tuesday. About noon he had another attack, but rallied, so that on Wednesday of the next week he was quite active, endeavoring to make up, as he said, for lost time in gardening. At two o'clock the following morning the family physician was called, and at seven o'clock Thursday morning, May 14, 1874, he died. He was not conscious for three hours before his death. His last intelligible words were, 'I am almost to Jesus.'"

As a preacher, Alonzo Wood was characterized by great faith and earnestness, active pastoral habits, and entire devotion to his work. He was especially powerful in exhortation and prayer, and as the foregoing record shows, continually successful in winning souls to Christ. His widow, in speaking of him, says: "He never felt that he had accomplished his mission until the reviving influence of the Holy Spirit was felt at every appointment. He never allowed trifles to keep him from his work. I think in the twenty-five years of his active ministry he never disappointed but one congregation." The social element was strongly developed in him. He esteemed his friends very highly, and took great pleasure in their society. But he has now gone to reap the reward of a life of usefulness. May we who remain emulate his zeal and devotion, and achieve like successes in the cause of the Master!

3. William A. Wadsworth was born in New Hartford, N. Y., and died in the same town March 9, 1875. He was converted under the labors of Rev. D. W. Thurston. Brother Wadsworth left a flattering business offer when he gave himself to the work of the Christian ministry. He officiated as a local preacher some time before he joined the conference. Feeling the necessity of better preparation for his work, he studied theology at the Biblical Institute, now a part of Boston University. In 1855 he joined what was then the Oneida, now the Wyoming, Conference. His health having failed, he was made a supernumerary at its last session. Among the charges he served as pastor were Vernon Center, Mount Upton, Norwich, Unadilla, and Cooperstown, all of which he served with great faithfulness, and God honored his servant in gathering many precious souls to Christ. Some of these charges were scenes of remarkable religious power, particularly at Mount Upton. At the close of a Sabbath evening service eight young men voluntarily arose and asked the prayers of Christians. This was the commencement of a work in which sixty persons professed conversion. Brother Wadsworth was accustomed to say, "This is God's work; we will follow his leadings." Indeed, he was a man of great faith and prayer. Although not showy or brilliant as a speaker, his sermons were sound, practical, instructive, and deeply earnest. Of a somewhat diffident nature, he yet was a fearless advocate of truth, and was truly an embassador for Christ. He was faithful and efficient in pastoral visiting, and won trophies for Christ by this means. In his home circle, especially, he was peculiarly affectionate, faithful, and exemplary. His household was eminently a Christian one, as shown in the care and devotion of his wife and three hopeful sons, who diligently follow in his footsteps and who greatly mourn his departure.

G. S. Jenkins.

GEORGE S. JENKINS was born in Frederick County, Va., February 16, 1832. His parents were members of the Presbyterian Church, by whom he was reared in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. He was married to Miss Hannah E. Guinn, February 16, 1854, and in October, 1856, was happily converted, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was appointed class leader before his probation expired, proving earnest and efficient. Six months after he was licensed to exhort, and in 1863 licensed as a local preacher, in which capacity he served the Master and the Church about four years. In 1865 he was employed as a supply on the Lewisville Circuit, and met with a good degree of success. The following year he labored (still as a supply) on the Spartansburgh Charge. In the spring of 1867 he was admitted into the North Indiana Conference on trial, and reappointed to Spartansburgh in 1867 and the year following. In 1869 he was received into full connection, and appointed to Alexandria Circuit for three years; Elwood, one year; and to New Corner Circuit, where he labored for eighteen months before his death, which took place October 27, 1874.

As a minister, Brother Jenkins was consecrated, faithful, studious, fearless, and industrious; as a preacher, practical, clear, and pointed. In spirit he was cheerful, walking by faith. In revival efforts he was successful. In his ten years of itinerant life he received nearly one thousand persons into the Church on probation. He kept an account of the number of miles he traveled each year, which averaged three thousand, or thirty thousand miles in ten years. In all the relations of life he showed himself a man. His end was peaceful. When informed that he must die, he expressed himself as being entirely resigned. When asked the state of his mind, he said, "Not a cloud overshadows my spiritual skies. All is well." He was conscious to the last, exhorting all present to be faithful. He sent a message to his brethren at conference to be faithful, and not forget him, but meet him in the better land. Without a struggle, his soul took its flight to the mansions above.

S. P. Williams, Truman Seymour, Milton H. Stewart, Alfred A. Farr, W. C. Butcher, A. W. Garvin—6.

1. SYLVESTER P. WILLIAMS was born in Canaan, New Hampshire, April 16, 1809, and died in Marengo, Ill., September 14, 1874. In early life he was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon became an earnest working Christian. It was soon apparent to the Church that God called him to the great work of the ministry, and he was duly authorized to preach the Gospel of Christ. In 1830 he was employed as a supply on the Bristol Circuit, and in 1831 admitted on trial in the New Hampshire and Vermont Conference, and appointed to Northfield. His subsequent appointments were in the following order: Bristol, Landruff, Lancaster, Rochester, Chelsea, Randolph, two years Agent of the Bible Society, presiding elder of Danville District and Newberry and Montpelier Stations. In 1850 he was transferred to Troy Conference, where he labored on the following charges: Plattsburgh, Schuylerville, Garrettson Station, (Albany,) presiding elder of Poultney District, Bennington Station, Levings Chapel, (Troy,) North Chatham, and Warrensburgh. He then entered on the retired list and removed to Illinois, where he had a home in readiness for his declining years, and here he continued, to the extent of his ability, to preach the word of life as opportunity presented. Some two years previous to his death he was thrown from his carriage, and received such a shock that he became unfitted for all public service, and during his last year memory almost entirely failed him. His confidence in Christ as a complete Saviour was unshaken to the last, and in quietness and hope he passed away to his future home. Brother Williams was a good man and an excellent preacher—one who loved his work, and in every department of it was successful. He looked with especial care to the interests of all the benevolent enterprises of the Church, and very few have circulated as many good books.

2. TRUMAN SEYMOUR was born in Albany, N. Y., January 25, 1799. At the age of seventeen he experienced religion, and united with the M. E. Church in his native city. In 1829 he joined the New York Conference. The following are the fields of labor to which he was successively appointed: Charlotte, Monkton, Plattsburgh, Keeseville, Schenectady, State-st., (Troy,) Division-street, (Albany,) Poultney District, Plattsburgh District, Jonesville, West Troy, North Chatham, Amsterdam, Albany District, Saratoga District, Green Island, Castleton, N. Y., and Williamstown. Devoted to God and to his work, of a sympathetic nature, kind in spirit, and attractive in manner, Brother Seymour fulfilled his ministry with no small degree of acceptability and success. He found great consolation during his last days in the fact that he had been instrumental in turning many to righteousness. During the four months' illness which preceded his death the power and comfort of divine grace were beautifully illustrated in him. He passed to his long-sought rest Nov. 15, 1874.

3. Milton H. Stewart has gone to his rest above. Of his age and the time of his death we have no date. His itinerant work, according to the Minutes, began in 1831. For the past twelve or fifteen years he has been superannuated, and resided in Ringwood, Illinois. His annual communications to the conference, and his private letters to Rev. A. C. Rose, have uniformly expressed a perfect resignation to the will of God, and a constant readiness to depart and be with Christ. He was of noble, though modest, mien; and his sermons always commanded attention, for they were thoughtful and freighted with rich spiritual interest and illustration, making them uniformly effective and edifying to the Church. He began the ministry somewhat late in life, and was well-nigh fourscore years of age when he closed his earthly pilgrimage.

4. Alfred A. Farr was born in Middlebury, Vt., August 29, 1810, and died of congestion of the lungs in Albany, N. Y., November 4, 1874, where he had been a resident for more than twenty years, and where among all Christian families his name had become as familiar as a household word. Among the ministry he was a kind of "veteran reserve" in the various denominations, for they all sought his services, and were always pleased with his ministrations. As a man, minister, and Christian, much might be said of him to his credit. He had dignity, blended with humility; was always conciliatory, yet decided; zealous and brave, yet cautious; cheerful without levity, and enthusiastic without rashness. He won for himself the reputation of being a warm friend, an honest man, and an able minister. His pulpit efforts were characterized by well-digested thoughts, strongly fortified with scriptural truth. He was sound in his theology, and forcible and clear in his presentation of it. His sermons were plain expositions of divine truth, free from all speculation and cant. Methodical, practical, and convincing, they were adapted to the wants of his hearers, and aimed with tremendous significance at the hearts and consciences of the people. His mental resources and versatility will appear from the fact that he was appointed to, and successfully served, one of the first Churches of Albany three terms of two years each. He was twice appointed city missionary, and for five years acted in the capacity of chaplain. By natural endowment, and especially by grace, he could adapt himself to his surroundings and succeed, while his affability and simplicity of manners made him a favorite with all. His religious life began when quite young, professing conversion at the age of sixteen, and uniting with the M. E. Church December 3, 1826. He was received on probation in the Troy Conference in 1839, and appointed as junior preacher on the Hoosick and Bennington Circuit, where he remained a second year. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Dalton, Chatham, Beekmantown, Peru, Hawlet and Granville Circuit, Congress-st., (Troy,) Ferry-street, (Albany,) Chaplain of the Albany Bethel, Arbor Hill, (Albany,) Agent of the State Temperance Society, Ferry-street, (Albany,) Broadway Mission, (Albany,) Chaplain of the Eighteenth Regiment New York Volunteers, Ash Grove Church, (Albany,) City Missionary of the Young Men's Christian Association, Chaplain of the Albany Soldiers' Home, and City Missionary of the Albany Methodist Sunday-School Union. In the spring of 1869 he took a supernumerary relation, and became General Agent of the Asbury Life Assurance Association. This relation he held at the time of his death.

Such were the fields our brother was called to cultivate, and each was done carefully and well, resulting in richest harvests for the garner of the Lord. His last sermons were preached at Fort Plain, New York, October 25, 1874. He had great freedom in preaching, and remarked, "I have felt that my time on earth is short, but I thank God I am ready to go home. I have tried for a long time to be ready for two things, namely, to preach and to die." He was taken sick before leaving the church, and, on returning to his family in Albany, soon closed his earthly career. Death was the occasion of no surprise or alarm to him. He made preparations for leaving, conversed freely and joyfully about his journey to the better land, smiled at death, triumphed over it, and soon was a traveler in another clime. His last sayings linger like spiritual benedictions upon the widow and son, who are left to lament his departure. His life in many respects is worthy of study and imitation. The Christian and the minister beautifully blended in the man; business and devotion sweetly harmonized; love and labor, duty and delight, trials and triumphs, were so intermingled that it became difficult to decide which to admire the more, the minister or the man. The spiritual hero has fallen; but he fell at his post with his armor on, his face to the foe, loyal to the last, and, "more than a conqueror," his comrades bore him from the field. May our lives be as full of beauty, of zeal, of consistent devotion, and of good deeds, as was his, and may our work and our usefulness, like his, close with the dying hour!

5. William Colman Butcher was born in Mechanicsville, October 30, 1841, and died in Fort Ann, December 14, 1874. Under the careful training of godly parents he grew up to be an excellent, studious, and thoughtful young man. He graduated at the Law University in Albany in 1864, and a few months after was happily converted to God. From the time of his conversion he had a growing conviction that his life-work did not lie in the line of his chosen profession; but not until the summer of 1868, after a protracted illness, did he decide to give himself wholly to the work of the Gospel. In the fall of 1867 he married Miss Jennie M. Welch, of Gansevoort, and moved to one of the Western States. But when he decided to enter the ministry he returned, and in the spring of 1869 was received into our conference and appointed to the Edinburgh Circuit, with Brother M. Williams in charge. His subsequent appointments were Northampton, Denton's, Knox, and Fort Ann. On every charge he labored with great acceptance and usefulness, and at Fort Ann especially he was honored with the outpouring of the Spirit of God upon his labors, and many souls were added unto the Lord. But here, while in the midst of his successful labors, and surrounded by scores of young converts, the summons came, and our beloved Brother Butcher, nearly at the same time, ceased to work and live. His excellent spirit, clear head, and well-disciplined mind, together with his ready utterance, studious habits, and devotion to his work, gave great promise of usefulness in his holy calling. But the great Head of the Church has early called him to the higher ministry of his courts above. For some months approaching death seemed to have cast its shadow before the eyes of our dear brother. To several of his intimate friends he remarked, on different occasions during the last summer, that he thought he was laboring on his last appointment—that he would be buried by his Fort Ann brethren—and yet at the time was in his usual health. His last illness was somewhat protracted, but he was wonderfully sustained, and to the last his soul was kept in perfect peace. When it became evident to all that he could live but a short time, he sought to comfort his weeping wife; and when she asked, "What can I do with the four little children without you?"

he replied, "I have given them to the Lord, and he will take care of them." When his father arrived at his bedside, a few hours before his death, he said, "O, father, I feared you would be too late. I am almost gone, but all is clear. I shall soon see dear mother, and you, father, will come too in a little while." His last words were apparently in response to a remark by one who said, "He is dying." With much difficulty he exclaimed, "Dying to live again!" In the presence of such a death-bed scene who would not say, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his?"

6. ALANSON W. GARVIN was born in Hardwick, Vt., April 14, 1813, and died in Pownal, Vt., June 19, 1874. When eighteen years of age he was enabled to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ to the saving of his soul. In 1843 he was received on trial in the Troy Conference, in the regular work of which he remained until his decease. The genial spirit of Brother Garvin, his happy manner, the brief, compact, and interesting style of his pulpit efforts, together with the rare power of song with which he was endowed, rendered him a most acceptable pastor in the Church of God. His death was sudden, but had he known it was going to occur when and as it did he could hardly have set his house more thoroughly in order, or have more tenderly prepared his companion for her approaching bereavement. And, as if to point her and the Church to the source of their help and supply when he was gone, his last discourse, only the Sabbath before his departure, was based upon the words, "Jehovah-jireh."

Philip Gross, Peter Wright*—2.

PHILIP GROSS emigrated to this country, with a wife and two children, in 1846, and after passing through the acclimating ordeal, from the ravages of which he barely escaped, he connected himself with the work and was sent to the interior of Cape Palmas to labor among the heathen. Here he spent several years of earnest and faithful labor, suffering all the inconveniences and discomforts incidental to a missionary life in Africa, which greatly impaired the health of his wife. He then connected himself with the Liberia Conference, in connection with which he continued to labor until his death.

Brother GROSS was punctiliously nice, and a great stickler for regularity, good order, and promptitude. As to zeal and earnestness, he was unabating and indefatigable. Possessing an iron constitution, and full of vigor, he was the man for this work.

Brother GROSS laid no claim to lofty theory, but was strictly practical, leaving it for others to declare the theory after he had done the work. He was a good pastor, possessing considerable executive ability. To know the man was to love him. Deeply affectionate, he would often assume many of the responsibilities of the domestic circle in order to assist his enfeebled wife. He was a Christian and a gentleman. In the pulpit, at times, he has been known to make some happy efforts; but it was as a pastor that he excelled.

In the death of Rev. Philip Gross we have lost one of our best men, the Church at large a faithful pastor, and the domestic circle an affectionate and devoted husband and father.

Benjamin Kelley, John Hanlon—2.

1. BENJAMIN KELLEY was born in Meredith, New Hampshire, in 1815, and died at Port Jervis, New York, October 24, 1874, in his sixtieth year. His early life was spent on his father's farm, which occupation gave him a strong constitution. At the age of sixteen he was converted, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon after was convinced that God had called him to be a preacher of the Gospel. For some time he struggled against this conviction, feeling he was not prepared for such a responsibility; but the voice of the Lord could not be stilled in his soul, and at last he felt that he must prepare for the divinely appointed work of his life. To meet this end he gave himself up to study for a number of years, and in 1842 he was employed as a supply by the presiding elder, at Plainfield, New Jersey. In 1843 he was admitted on trial in the New Jersey Conference, and appointed to Plainfield. He remained in the New Jersey Conference until it was divided, in 1857, when he became a member of Newark Conference. His qualifications for the work and his standing in the conference can be estimated by the important charges he received and served with great success, remaining in each as long as the law of the Church allowed. The following were the fields of his ministry: Plainfield, Flanders, Newton, New Germantown; Trinity, Staten Island; Woodrow, Staten Island; Perth Amboy; New Providence; Bethel, Staten Island; Franklin-street, Newark; First Church, Paterson; Elizabeth Avenue, Elizabeth; Belvidere, and Port Jervis. He had extensive revivals in almost every charge.

Brother Kelley was a man of one work; to that work he brought a vigorous constitution, a well-balanced and disciplined mind, and a soul truly consecrated to God. All his powers were taxed to their full extent in preaching the Gospel and in building up the Church of Jesus Christ. His preaching was able and edifying. As acceptable as he was in the pulpit, he was pre-eminent in the pastoral work. In that important duty he had none to excel him in the conference. He was also an enterprising business man, and did much in erecting and improving churches and parsonages. For nearly thirty-two years he labored as but few men can labor. At last, while in Belvidere, these excessive toils began to impair his health; still, at his next charge, Port Jervis, he labored with his usual zeal during the first year, hoping that the return of the warm weather, with a brief vacation of rest and travel, would restore him to his former vigor. But a sudden change in the weather, while traveling, produced a cold, which was greatly aggravated by his attempting to preach twice, and also to conduct a funeral service on Sabbath, October 18, resulting in typhoid pneumonia the following day, which he had not vital force to resist, and in six days his life was consumed. So rapidly progressed the disease that neither he nor those about him were aware the end was so near until the power of speech was almost gone. He tried to say his farewell words to his dear wife, and to his beloved son, Rev. W. V. Kelley, and to his flock, in monosyllables. The first intimation they had from him that he must die was on Saturday morning, when he said to his son, "The doctor tries to encourage me that I will recover, but I think it looks dark." His son remarked, "Well, father, it is all bright above, is it not?" He replied, "O, yes!" Again his son spoke to him, and said, "We are all in the hands of a merciful Father; if he sees best to remove you now, can you go willingly?" He answered, "Yes." "Father, you have served the Lord faithfully these many years; he will not forsake you now." To which he responded, "I have tried to serve him." When his eyes were dim, his wife asked him, "Do you know us?" He answered, "Yes." "Jesus has never failed you, has he?" He replied, "No." Thus, in questions and answers, his loved ones followed him down to the river of death, which he calmly and safely crossed as the last day of the week faded away. Our colaborer preached on the last Sabbath he lived; he died at his post with his armor on.

Brother Kelley was a man of solid parts, consistent, modest, amiable, and unselfish. As a minister of Jesus Christ he was humble, devoted, earnest, able, and very useful; "for he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and much people was added unto the Lord." To his wife and his son, Rev. William V. Kelley, of the Philadelphia Conference, he leaves the richest legacy—a life fully spent in the service of Christ.

2. JOHN HANLON was born in Monmouth County, N. J., June, 1836, and was converted at a camp-meeting, in 1852. In 1856 he was licensed to preach, and in the spring of 1857 was admitted on trial in the Newark Conference, and appointed to Green Village and New Vernon, where he was continued a second year. Subsequently his appointments were Millstone, Broad-street, (now St. Paul's, Newark,) Washington, Hedding Church, Jersey City, and Orange. Here his health so failed that, although he was returned a second year, it was soon found he was unable to do the work, and he retired from the charge. At the conference of 1871 he obtained a supernumerary relation, which was continued till his discharge from labor and suffering on the 4th of January, 1875.

Brother Hanlon was a man of more than average ability. His talents were of the popular cast. Combined with serious dignity he possessed a cheerful vivacity, which rendered him affable and entertaining in every relation. He was social, courteous, and kind. He had a genial, loving heart, and it was easy to love him in return. The young people greatly admired him, and the aged found him a pleasant companion. Finding, upon entering the itinerant connection, that his educational attainments were not such as to prepare him well for the great work to which he was called, he entered Rutger's College, at New Brunswick, while stationed at Millstone, and completed his college course in the Wesleyan University, at Middletown, in 1863, having been excused from filling an appointment for one year for that purpose. In the same year, (1863,) on the 21st of October, he was married to Mary Amelia Bonsall, of Morristown, and found in her a congenial companion, worthy of his love and confidence, who is now left with three children to mourn a loss to them irreparable. Our dear brother had a much stronger mind than body. From the commencement of his itinerant labors, those who witnessed the zeal with which he prosecuted his work were fearful that his physical constitution would hardly stand the strain of such exertion for any considerable time. This ardent zeal characterized his ministry till his work was done. As a preacher, John Hanlon was effective in a high degree. He was attractive, instructive, and impressive—well calculated to edify the Church and build up the members on the sure foundation. He was also successful in winning souls to Christ. As a pastor, he was sympathizing, social, and devout, keeping before the people such an example as assured them that a man of God was among them to do them good. All classes felt this, but none more sensibly than the poor and afflicted. In social life his courteous deportment, his edifying conversation, and his cheerful Christian spirit rendered his company most agreeable and profitable. "He was a burning and a shining light," and God was glorified in him. In his conference he was highly esteemed and much loved by his brethren, and no man of his years had more influence with his fellow-members than Brother Hanlon. His stay was short, but he lived well and died well, having a blessed hope of a glorious immortality. Consumption prostrated him in the prime of his manhood, and after some five years of suffering terminated his mortal life. As the end approached his faith gained strength. He said, when dying, "Eternity is near! Eternity! Eternity! I have an interest in eternity through Jesus Christ, the Son of the eternal God!" Resting in this assurance, he said again and again, "It is sweet to die in Jesus!" With words of love to the dear ones present, he sent a message of solicitude to his brother, Dr. Hanlon, of the New Jersey Conference, and his brother-in-law, Rev. John Atkinson, of the Newark Conference—both of whom were unavoidably absent—saying, "Tell them to be devoted to the one work of saving souls, and to beware of the world, for it is illusive." Thus our brother finished his course and fell asleep in Jesus, to wake no more in mortal flesh.

Silas Green, Freeman Ryder—2.

1. SILAS GREEN was born in Chichester, February 10, 1801, and died at Candia, November 10, 1874, in his seventy-fourth year. His early home was a religious one, the influence of which had much to do in shaping his future course, although he did not become a Christian till nineteen years of age and after leaving his father's house. He was converted in 1820 at Charlestown, Mass.; baptized in 1823 by Rev. Gotham Horton, in Epsom, New Hampshire; licensed to preach at Pembroke in 1825; received as conference probationer, at Sandwick, in 1831; ordained deacon, in the same year, by Bishop Soule; ordained elder at Northfield, in 1833, by Bishop Hedding; married to Hattie Critchett, by Rev. Jonathan Curtis, in 1822. He successively occupied the following stations: Rochester, Dover, New Market, Great Falls, Northfield, Methuen, supernumerary at Seminary Boarding House, Rochester, Greenland, East Salisbury, Mass.; Haverhill, Mass.; Salmon Falls, supernumerary from 1857 to 1861, Loudon Mills, Greenland, Candia. In 1869–70 he was again superannuated, supplying Candia and Chester, and in 1873 acted as supernumerary. Failing health precluded further labor in 1874, and he was once more placed upon the superannuated list.

It was not without pecuniary sacrifice that Brother Green gave himself to the work of the ministry. Convinced that God called him to it, he went forth cheerfully and made it his life work. His ministry has been eminently successful, and many will be the stars in his crown of rejoicing. His early educational advantages were only such as the times and the rural districts afforded, but these he well improved. He labored not to rise in fame or to attain a popular position; his chief endeavor was so to preach Christ that sinful men might believe and be saved. His preaching was emphasized and enforced by holy living in all the walks of life. A native modesty and a natural polish were always apparent, and made his society pleasant to all classes, while his conscientiousness and integrity secured the fullest confidence of all who knew him. After lingering a year and a half in feeble health, our beloved brother sank peacefully into the arms of Christ, and was buried near his native place, at Epsom, N. H., where repose many of his kindred. He leaves in feeble health the partner of his life, with whom he lived happily for fifty-one years. The daughter, whose affectionate attentions greatly promoted her father's peace of mind and bodily repose, survived him only a few weeks, and then joined him on the other shore. May the only remaining representative of the family, the wife and mother, be sustained and comforted while she lingers below, and reach her heavenly home at last in safety and peace.

2. FREEMAN RYDER was born at Wareham, Mass., and died in Great Falls, N. H., May 27, 1874, aged forty-five. He was converted at Duxbury, Mass., when twenty years of age, and in the same place was licensed to exhort. In 1858 he was received into the Biblical Institute at Concord, and during a part of this year preached at Salisbury South Road, where previously there had been no Methodist preaching. He soon gathered a very respectable congregation, and a religious interest shortly followed. In 1859 he was received into the New Hampshire Conference on probation, and appointed to the same place in that and the following year. His labors were blessed with a glorious revival, and more than twenty were baptized and received into the Church, some of whom have since proved valuable accessions. A church was built, and a regular appointment established. In 1862 and 1863 he was stationed at Seabrook, where he was very popular among the people, and successful in winning souls to Christ. Having been a sailor, he felt a deep interest in the religious welfare of this class of people, and was anxious to be stationed where he could preach to them. For this purpose he asked for a transfer to the Providence Conference, which was granted him in 1863, and his appointments in that conference were East Harwick, Yarmouth Point, North Easton, and Middleborough. In 1869 he was unable to preach, but in 1870 was stationed at Allen-street, New Bedford, where, in 1871, enfeebled health again rendered him unfit for active service. In 1872 he was returned to the New Hampshire Conference, and preached at Great Falls, Main-street, till his death. Here he had conversions each year, repaired the church, and purchased an organ for the same. He was returned the third year, and preached but one Sabbath, when he was taken sick with typhoid pneumonia. He was conscious nearly all the time. His physician did not allow him to have company, but he especially desired to see Rev. J. W. Adams, of the High-street Church, whenever he called. On going in once Brother Adams said, "I am afraid it will tire you to see me," to which he replied, "O no, it does not tire me to hear prayer and talk about Jesus." "Do you think you will get better?" said Brother Adams. "If I do not, I shall think it is the Lord's will, as there have been so many prayers offered up for me from hearts that are true." He then comforted his weeping wife by saying, "O, Jane, cannot you trust Jesus?" The day before his death Brother Adams called again, and said, "You are growing very weak to-day, Brother Ryder. Is Jesus still precious?" He smilingly replied, "O yes; he is just the same; he is all that is left me now." Thus, firmly trusting, he passed away.

Brother Ryder was not a great preacher, but a good and instructive one. He was efficient in social meetings, a faithful pastor, active and successful in the Sunday-school, and his kind and genial nature caused him to be loved and respected by all the Churches he had so faithfully served.

J. S. George, H. Kinsley, E. Wheeler—3.

1. JOHN STARR GEORGE was born in Albion, Oswego County, N. Y., January 30, 1833, and died at Scriba, N. Y., April 14, 1875, aged forty-two years. The early life of Brother George was spent at Pulaski, where he was converted in March, 1851, at the age of eighteen. From an early age he was desirous of securing an education, and, especially after his conversion, bent all his energies in this direction. He supported himself in school by working at the carpenter's trade and by teaching—attending first the Mexico Academy, and afterward, for several terms, the Falley Seminary at Fulton, N. Y. During his student life he was faithful to God and his convictions, and had the respect and confidence of both his instructors and fellow-students. He received a license to exhort in March, 1861, and the following spring was licensed to preach and recommended to the annual conference held in Oswego. From this session he received his first appointment, at North Bay, where he labored successfully two years. In the spring of 1863 he was married to Miss Kizzie M. Wells, of Granby, who now survives him. He was subsequently stationed three years at Orwell, two at Remsen, two at Clayville, three at New Haven, and at our last conference at Scriba, where he closed his earthly labors, just two weeks before our present session.

Brother George was never strong physically, always looked frail—always was frail—and yet he never excused himself from work on account of bodily weaknesses; he did a man's work to the last. Many would have excused themselves from the work of the ministry months, or even years, before he did, for watchful friends saw long ago that consumption had marked him for a victim. He was advised to cease awhile from the active duties of his calling and seek needed rest and recuperation, but he felt the urgent claims of the ministry, and worked on cheerfully, but no doubt painfully, until he reached, sooner than he thought, the border land, "where toil is o'er and rest begins," and almost literally "ceased to work and live." He was a man of amiable characteristics, had a smiling face and a loving heart. He loved his people, and was warmly esteemed and ardently loved in return. He was a peacemaker. If he found a society inharmonious, it was his delightful mission to pour oil upon the troubled waters and restore harmony and good feeling; and this he accomplished, not more by his teaching than by the beauty and serenity of his own life of faith upon the Son of God. He held to life with great tenacity, but when assured by his physician that death was near, he received the intelligence calmly, arranged his affairs carefully, and made preparations for his funeral and burial as though he were going a journey. As he neared the end he said: "I am a great sinner saved by grace." A little after he inquired what day of the month it was, and when told that it was the fourteenth of April, he said, "It is a good time to go up to glory; cheer up, the day is breaking. Tell my mother all is well; Jesus is so precious to me; I am almost through. Tell the people I want them all to seek the Saviour." A little later he said: "I never thought I could draw near to death and feel so calm."

Such like expressions of calm trust and holy triumph fell from his lips as he neared the river. His life went out with the day: as the sun set and his last rays made a beautiful twilight in the room where loved ones were watching, his happy soul went up to God.

2. HARRIS KINSLEY was born in Leicester. He was converted at the age of seventeen, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Middlebury, Vt. He was licensed as an exhorter in 1827, and as a local preacher in 1830. In 1836 he joined the Black River Conference at its organization in Watertown. In 1839 he was ordained elder. He died in Independence, Iowa, March 4, 1875.

Brother Kinsley served the Church as an itinerant preacher in the Black River Conference twenty-two years, as follows: Theresa, Sandy Creek, Clayton, Rodman, Copenhagen, Washingtonville, Williamstown, Clay, Palermo, Lysander, Red Creek, Rose, Hannibalville. In 1858 he took a superannuated relation. In this relation he remained till death.

Brother Kinsley was a good circuit preacher, an excellent leader in the social meetings of the Church, and as a pastor had few superiors. After his superannuation, in 1858, partly for the benefit of his family, and partly with a hope to improve his health, he removed to Independence, Iowa, where he endeared himself to the Church by his godly life and example. He continued to preach, as he was able, to the great satisfaction and profit of the people. When no longer able to perform pulpit labor, he spent much of his time in visiting from house to house. Sometimes, on occasions of special religious interest, he would visit ten or twelve families in a day. He had no fear of death, but was ready at any time to depart and be with Christ. The nature of his disease was such that as death drew near he was most of the time insensible. The few broken sentences that, during his lucid moments, he was able to utter, were expressive of affection for his family and confidence in the almighty Saviour.

He has left the partner of his life and labors and two daughters, all members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

3. ELISHA WHEELER was born in Mansfield, Mass., November 17, 1796. In his early childhood his parents emigrated to Northern New York, and settled near the site of the present village of Booneville, Oneida County. Here, at the age of fourteen, he was converted, and united with the Baptist Church. The Society with which he united in a few years became extinct, and he remained without any visible Church relation till 1824, when, under the ministry of the Rev. Squire Chase, he was reclaimed from a partially backslidden state and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was studious and zealous, and soon developed "gifts" and "grace" which clearly indicated what would be his life-calling. In 1826 he was received on trial in the Genesee Conference at its session in Palmyra, and appointed to Indian River Circuit. In 1827 he was appointed to Sandy Creek Circuit. In 1828 he was received into full connection. From this time his appointments were as follows: Salmon River Circuit, Oswego, Paris, Herkimer, Lowville, Vienna, Trenton, Steuben. In 1842 he asked and received a location; in 1845 he was re-admitted and stationed successively at Belleville, Rodman, Weedsport, Victory, Cato, Red Creek, Canton, West Stockholm, Fort Covington, Brasher, Nicholville, Pillar Point, Evans's Mills. From 1862 to 1864 he was superannuated. In 1864 he was again placed on the effective list and stationed at Ellisburgh. After serving this, his last station, three years he was again placed on the superannuated list, but continued to reside at Ellisburgh till removed to his home above. He died November 13, 1874, within a few days of seventy-eight years of age.

Brother Wheeler was an able minister, and in his early prime especially was very successful in the conversion of sinners, and in building up the Church. Many of the flourishing Societies in this region were planted under his administration. Nearly fifty years ago he formed the first Methodist Society in the village, where he died. Most of those who were members of the Society at that time had preceded him to the spirit-world, and their ashes sleep in the village grave-yard. In their midst have been deposited the mortal remains of their beloved pastor. Together their dust will slumber till the last trumpet shall sound, and "Morning shall dawn on the night of the grave."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Jeremiah Marsh, James W. H. Cromwell—2.

1. JEREMIAH MARSH was born in Orono, Maine, March 15, 1791; was converted in 1812 at the age of twenty-one years; joined conference in 1816; was ordained deacon June 7, 1818; was married to Miss Nancy Doyle at Northport, January 7, 1820; was ordained elder July 10, 1826; and died at Exeter, Maine, June 12, 1874, aged eighty-four years.

The following appointments were served by him in order from 1816: Pittston and Bristol, Union, Norridgewock, Orrington, (located eight years,) Exeter, Unity, (superannuated for three years,) Corinth, Palmyra, (located two years,) Argyle, (superannuated one year,) Parkman, Corinna, Harmony, Montville, (superannuated for three years,) Dover, Brownville, Corinna. In 1851 he became superannuated and so remained until 1857, when he was made effective and stationed at Exeter, but was obliged to resume the superannuated relation in 1858, in which relation he continued until the Master said, "Come up higher." He was thus fully identified with the history of Methodism in Maine, his ministerial career running back fifty-eight years—four years before Maine took her place among the States.

Father Marsh was one of that noble band of itinerants who endured hardships so cheerfully and faced dangers so bravely, that Methodism might become permanent on our soil. Our prosperity to-day is a witness of their success. These dear fathers are passing away. Their reward is on high.

2. J. W. H. CROMWELL was born in Majorville, N. B., October 23, 1843, where he continued to reside until his conversion in 1862, he being nineteen years of age. He then removed to Frederickton, where for a few years he taught school and served the Church as class-leader. In 1866 he was married to Miss Miriam S. Yerxa. In 1869 he was licensed to preach. He came to the United States in 1870, and joined the East Maine Conference the same year. He was ordained deacon in 1872 and elder in 1874. His first appointment was Brewer, where he remained three years. In 1873 he was appointed to Oldtown, and at the end of the year came to his conference worn down with fatigue and showing unmistakable signs of a fatal disease. At the earnest request of his people he was returned to his charge; but his work was done; human power could not save him.

He gradually failed until the Sabbath evening of August 23, when he entered into the presence of his divine Lord, "in whose presence there is fullness of joy, and at whose right hand there are pleasures for evermore." During all his sickness his confidence in his Redeemer continued unshaken, and he often assured his afflicted wife, and the brethren of the conference as one after another called to see him, that he experienced fully the consolations of that grace he had so delighted to recommend to others. One who was with him a few moments before the final departure records: "The tempest was high. The heavy waves were beating against the frail bark. But O how peaceful was his soul as he gave the emphatic assurance, 'The anchor holds!'"

Brother Cromwell came among us a stranger, but was cordially received, and from the very first was esteemed a young minister of great promise. Subsequent acquaintance fully justified the high estimation so early entertained. His pulpit ministrations commanded our admiration, for although naturally modest, he was always self-possessed, and expressed his thoughts so logically and yet so earnestly, that he seldom failed to convince. Nor as a pastor was he less successful. He loved to visit his people, and his kindness of heart, geniality of nature, and excellent judgment gave him ready access to their affections, and prepared the way for a timely warning or a persuasive entreaty. Indeed, in every relation that he was known to us he was a man of marked ability, and, had he lived, would undoubtedly have been numbered in the future among the leading men of our conference.

James M'Millan.

JAMES M'MILLAN was born in Bartlett, N. H., August 3, 1806, and died in Gorham, Maine, September 15, 1874, aged sixty-eight. In early manhood he became a follower of the Lamb of God. He was licensed to exhort in 1830, and the same year the Church called him to the work of a local preacher, in which position he labored successfully till 1843, when he was received into the Maine Conference. The remainder of his life was passed in the effective work, with the exception of one year, when he was made supernumerary on account of the ill-health of both himself and his devoted wife. The following charges in their order were blessed with his faithful ministrations: Cornishville, Porter, Newfield, Orrington Center, Alfred, Gorham, Farmington, Wayne, Richmond, Bath, Wesley Chapel, Mechanic's Falls, Lewiston, Winthrop, Bowdoinham, Biddeford, Brunswick, Kennebunkport, and Gorham.

Brother M'Millan was a devoted and successful minister of the Lord Jesus. On all his charges God gave him seals of his ministry, and many at the day of judgment will rise up to call him "blessed." His sermons were plain, practical, pungent, and highly evangelical, often glowing with more than ordinary fervency. His last sermon was most earnestly and faithfully delivered from Rev. xxii, 12, "And, behold, I come quickly." "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

As a pastor, he was uniformly kind and faithful, always giving special attention to the children, the sick, and the poor. In his intercourse with society he was gentle and engaging, and hardly failed in securing the affections of those with whom he associated, saint or sinner. He possessed a broad, catholic spirit, which won the good will of those who held a faith opposite to his own. Among his brethren in the ministry he was greatly beloved, and honored with their confidence and respect. In his last sickness, of only about two weeks' continuance, he suffered much, but was patient and often triumphant. To a brother in the ministry he said, "O the preciousness of Jesus! How wonderful!" To the question, "Does the Gospel which you have preached to others support and comfort you now?" he replied with deep emotion, "Completely, completely!" Addressing his companion he said, "We have been very dear to each other, but Jesus is dearer than all. We must part for a season, but over there we shall be united forever."

John A. Klien.

JOHN A. KLIEN came to this country in his seventeenth year, and settled with his parents in Sandusky County, Ohio, and in 1843 he was converted under a sermon preached by Rev. E. Riemenschneider, from 1 John iv, 16. In 1845 he was licensed as a local preacher, and immediately became active in the work of the ministry. Soon after Father Schminker, presiding elder, commissioned him to become the assistant of Rev. Mr. Hoevener, then laboring on the Sandusky Mission. In 1846 he was received on probation in the Ohio Conference. Consequently this, the year of his death, was the thirtieth of his active ministerial life.

The sermons of Brother Klien were thoughtful, systematic, and clear. He had a good voice, and his delivery was impressive. He was a faithful, conscientious pastor. In his views he was positive and pronounced, perhaps somewhat too tenacious, but it was the tenacity of honest conviction; and his determined opponents have, upon mature reflection, been compelled to admit that he was right. The thought of compromising with what he considered wrong never found favor in his eyes. Brother Klien was a Christian and a Methodist from the deepest conviction and experience of his soul. He loved the Methodist Episcopal Church, its discipline and doctrine. In all that goes to the building up of the Church, the "rooting and grounding" of the membership in the truth, and bringing them onward in the divine life, and in gaining sound converts to Christ, he was especially successful. He was a kind and loving husband and father, a firm and reliable friend. Those who knew him best appreciated him most.

In 1854, while stationed in Chillicothe, Brother Klien experienced the blessing of perfect love, which he enjoyed for some time. Owing, however, to the lack of a clear apprehension of the fact that as the experience was gained by faith, so, by faith, it must be retained, he lost the evidence of the blessing, and for some time stood aloof from the holiness movement; but being again the recipient of the divine blessing, he preached the doctrine heartily, and experienced fully its joys. With special earnestness and power did he preach this truth during his last protracted meeting. In a sermon from the text, Joshua v, 13–15, he laid special stress upon purity of heart as the great and especially necessary preparation for the work of saving souls. That his earnest exhortations were owned of God is shown by the revival which followed, in which a large number were converted, and a more earnest seeking for full salvation induced among the members of the New Albany society. His labors at New Albany, Indiana, during the five months since conference, have been especially blessed. The Lord seems to have been gradually preparing him for his change. His sermons were powerful, and accompanied by the influences of God's holy Spirit. He gained the love of his people as never before, and the most unfeigned sorrow filled their hearts when the news of his death was communicated to them. He had just commenced a protracted effort when stricken down with pneumonia, which terminated his life February 4, 1875. To Rev. H. Herzer, pastor of Clay-street Charge, Louisville, who frequently visited him during his illness, he said, "I am so inexpressibly happy in the knowledge of the fact that I have given my all into the hands of God. I have no care." A few days later, as Brother Herzer entered his room, he greeted him with, "O Brother Herzer, it is glorious—all glorious!" Brother Herzer replied, "Thank the Lord! Jesus is our captain." To which the dying saint responded with a hearty "Amen!" His end was triumphant. Like Wesley, he "ceased at once to work and live."

1. DANIEL DE MOTTE was born in Mercer County, Ky., March 19, 1798. He was left an orphan at the age of thirteen, and learned a trade. In his twenty-eighth year he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and went forth to do the whole duty of an earnest Christian. He went from the altar of consecration home, and at once removed the glasses and bottles from the table, placed the Bible in their stead, instituted family prayer, and when a neighbor called in the morning, expecting the usual glass, he was invited to join them in worship. A man of such decision and zeal could not repress the desire to lead his companions and neighbors to Christ. He was made class leader, then exhorter, at a period in the history of our Church in the West which imposed much responsibility and required much labor. He had a mind to work, and developed gifts and graces; and the fruit of his holy living and labor was not wanting.

In 1831 he moved to Parke County, Indiana, and soon thereafter received license to preach. He was employed by Rev. James L. Thompson, presiding elder, to travel the Rockville Circuit with Samuel C. Cooper. This circuit embraced most of Parke, Putnam, and Vigo Counties. He was admitted into the Indiana Conference in the fall of 1835, and for eighteen years faithfully and usefully filled the appointments assigned him by the Conference, doing all the work of a Methodist preacher to his utmost ability.

At the solicitation of the Board of Trustees of Indiana Asbury University he became agent for the university, in which he served nine years, until the agency was abolished. He was an efficient and successful solicitor and collector. He was three years agent of the Preachers' Aid Society of the North-west Indiana Conference, nine years superannuated, and nearly forty years an itinerant. He was a man of rare judgment, large endowment of common sense, of pure and spotless character; possessing all his life, but especially in his later years, a cheerfulness and trust so marked and beautiful in the eyes of the Church and his fellow-citizens as to call forth frequent expressions of admiration. The good gift from God, the wife of his youth, who shared his toils and contributed to his success, died in the fall of 1867. He afterward married an estimable Christian lady, and they together have come in cheerful hopefulness to this separation, and now she is left to mourn. His sons and his daughters, all living and worthy of him, rise up and call him blessed. He closed his life February 2, 1875. The end was calm as the quiet evening. His last words were, "All is well! All is well! Blessed Jesus!"

2. JOSEPH WHITE was born in Mifflin County, Pa., in the year 1805. His parents emigrated to Greene County, Ohio, in 1812. In July, 1818, he was converted, and united with the Church. His own account was, that soon after his conversion, though only fourteen years of age, he fully and formally consecrated himself to God. He was united in marriage to the companion of his toils April 25, 1826, and she still survives in the peace and hopes of the Gospel. They moved to the then new country of Montgomery County, Indiana, in the year 1831.

Brother White was admitted on trial into the Indiana Conference in the fall of 1832. His first appointment was to the Rockville Circuit, and for nearly thirty years he continued in the active work of a traveling preacher. He was one of the pioneer preachers of the West, the list of whose names is so rapidly diminishing, and the records of whose lives is identified with the history of Methodism, and, indeed, with the history of the country. Failing health compelled him to take a superannuated relation in 1861, which he held until the time of his death. But this change of his relation to the Conference by no means ended his ministerial work. He preached often, worked for the promotion of Sunday-schools and the cause of temperance, and was, in short, an earnest, faithful laborer in the vineyard of our Lord until the time of his last sickness.

Brother White was taken sick at the residence of his son in Russellville. After a severe and protracted illness of more than four weeks, surrounded by his family and friends, and in peaceful hope of a blessed immortality, he passed away from earth to heaven, February 27, 1875. Among his requests to a member of the Conference he said, "Remember my wife!" His last utterance was, "Come, Jesus, take me!"

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

John Blanpied, Samuel P. Shaw, Charles Thomas, William C. Huestis—4.

1. JOHN BLANPIED was born in St. Peter Port, Guernsey, December 25, 1798. At fourteen he became a sailor, and for ten years he followed the sea. In his twenty-first year he was converted, and soon united with the Church. In 1820 he came to America and settled in Cambridge, Ohio, where for ten years he engaged in teaching. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1832, and in 1835 he was received on trial in the Ohio Conference and appointed successively to the following charges: Roscoe, Somerset, Marion, Delaware, Mount Gilead, Roscoe again, East Union, Nashville, Mount Eaton, Congress, Kenton, Marseilles, Galion, Richwood, Fredericktown, Chesterville, Utica, Eden and East Delaware, and Roscoe the third time. At the conference in 1865 he took a superannuated relation, and so continued.

On January 19 Brother Blanpied was attacked with paralysis, from which in the early spring he partially recovered, so that he was able to attend the sanctuary three times. His improvement was but temporary. He continued to fail, until, on Sabbath evening, June 20, 1875, the Master called him from labor to reward. He was a man of deep religious experience, always cheerful and happy, willing to live or die. A few days before his death he said to his wife, "Don't be afraid; it is all right;" and to friends who came to see him he said, "The Lord is letting me gently down." On the day before he died he whispered to his daughter, "When I am gone sing 'Praise God;'" and to his pastor, who came in, he said, "Happy, happy in the Lord! Thank God, the redemption of the soul is precious!" And in this state of mind he entered into his eternal rest.

As a preacher Brother Blanpied was earnest and laborious—no difficulties cooled his ardor; and both as a Christian and a minister his name in the Church "is as ointment poured forth."

2. SAMUEL P. SHAW died near Bucyrus, Ohio, August 19, 1875. He was born November 6, 1798, in New Jersey, but came to this State when a child, with his parents, who settled in Hamilton County. He was licensed to preach when about twenty-two years old, and in the fall of 1825 was received on trial in the old Ohio Conference, wherein for many years he labored fearlessly and usefully.

Brother Shaw was for several years a missionary with the Wyandotts at Upper Sandusky, working with his own hands on the mission farm, thus setting a good example to the Indians. He was for several years presiding elder on different districts, and in every field of labor to which he was appointed he was a faithful and indefatigable worker in the Master's vineyard.

Brother Shaw justly claims a place among the pioneer preachers of Ohio. With but limited advantages as to early education, he became a man of considerable self-culture. He understood well the doctrines of our Church, and knew well how to defend them against all assailants. He was deemed rather strict, if not rigid, as a disciplinarian. He was a plain, straightforward, warm-hearted preacher of the Gospel. Although somewhat blunt in manner and eccentric in his habits, yet he was cordial, cheerful, and generous. He retired from the pastoral work several years ago, and has lived in a very secluded manner on a farm near Nevada, occasionally preaching, but rarely leaving home. His last hours were marked by entire resignation to the will of God, and trust in the great Redeemer. A few days before his death, while some brethren were singing "Rock of Ages," he shouted the praise of God. Thus has another veteran in the army of our Israel departed, and we doubt not he has joined the associates of earlier years and toil in the ranks of the triumphant hosts above.

3. CHARLES THOMAS died in Lafayette, Medina Co., Ohio, January 30, 1875. He was born in Bristol, Vt., October 28, 1809. While a youth he came to Northern Ohio, and on November 14, 1827, was converted. In 1830 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church; was licensed to exhort October, 1831, and to preach January 12, 1833. He was married May 28, same year, to Miss Charity Allen, who shared with him the toils and privations of his itinerant life. About this time he returned East, and after traveling some two years under the elder, was admitted on trial in the Troy Conference and transferred to the Philadelphia Conference, and by it appointed first to Trenton, N. J., and then to Germantown. In 1837 he was transferred to the Michigan Conference, and received appointments regularly for thirty-eight years, save that in 1870-71 he sustained a supernumerary relation. He was earnest in the pulpit, and was strongly attached to the doctrines and usages of the Church of his choice. He will have many stars in the crown of his rejoicing as seals to his ministry. His last illness was short, but exceedingly severe. He had been laboring under the influence of cold for several days, accompanied with pain in the head and in the left side. In that condition he started, January 23, for his appointment, some fifteen miles distant. He silenced the entreaties of his family not to leave home by saying, "I shall do my duty." On Sabbath morning he was taken with a chill. He preached in the morning, but was too ill to attempt it in the afternoon. He tried to reach home, but failed to do so, remaining all night with one of the members of his charge. The next day he was taken home on a bed and medical aid called, but it was too late. The brain was much implicated, yet his mind was at times clear, so that he recognized members of his family and was aware of his condition. His death was peaceful, his rest glorious.

4. WILLIAM C. HUESTIS died in Melmore, Seneca Co., Ohio, January 16, 1875, in his sixty-fourth year. He was at the breakfast-table in the morning, and in the evening had ceased to work and live. He was born in Perry, Genesee Co., N. Y., 1811; converted at the age of sixteen; licensed to preach in 1838, and admitted to the traveling connection in the same year. The following is the order of his appointments: Norwalk, Findley, Risdon, Clarksfield, Savannah, Lower Sandusky, Fairfield, Roscoe, Jeromeville, Melmore, Plymouth, Florence, Wellington, Galion, Fairfield again, Olivesburg, Avon, Melmore again, New London, Roscoe again, Gambier, Woodbury, Melmore the third time. From 1863 to 1867 he was superannuated. He was returned to several of the charges the second term, and was filling his third term upon Melmore Circuit when he finished his work. It was an oft-repeated wish of his "to die at his post," and though for years he has been a sufferer, he was not willing to retire from active work. He never disappointed a congregation if health permitted him to go, but showed great faithfulness to his work wherever it might be. He was unassuming in disposition, yet genial. He honored his calling by a chaste life and dignified manner. He did nothing in the pulpit or out of it unbecoming the minister of Christ. As a preacher he was thoroughly Methodistic. He had a fine voice, and when the Gospel trumpet was placed to his lips it gave no uncertain sound. The last year he preached with more than usual earnestness. His religious experience was deep and clear, always showing a hope well founded and a faith unmovable. His moral sky seldom saw a cloud. Such was the nature of his disease that he could leave no dying testimony; but a life of earnest work for the Master with such steadfast faith as he possessed needs no closing shout of triumph to tell us that the victor's crown is his.

J. W. Yokom.

JAMES W. YOKOM was born in Bayham, Ontario, in 1840. He was converted in 1857; and in 1861 he joined the Niagara Conference, of which his brother, father, and grandfather are worthy and acceptable members. He served actively and well (with the exception of one year, when illness prevented) until the spring of 1873. He served in some of the most prominent charges of his Conference. He came to us with the highest commendations in the spring of 1873, and took charge of Chatfield, made vacant by the failing health of Brother J. L. Fasig.

He was received into this Conference in the following autumn, and was sent to Chatfield. Early in the winter he was attacked with hemorrhage of the lungs, had to desist, and returned with his family to Canada. Partially recovering, he again took charge of his work. After preaching a few times he was entirely prostrated. Rallying a little, he returned to his home and friends in Canada. He lingered in great suffering, but in calmness, until January 26, 1875, when he died in triumph. His last words were, "Hark! I hear them; I see them." Sister Yokom, a most estimable Christian, and her two interesting boys, are commended in our prayers to the God of the widow and the Father of the fatherless.

Douglas D. S. Reagh.

DOUGLAS D. S. REAGH was born in Nova Scotia, October 9, 1830, and died in Huntsville, Logan County, Ohio, February 2, 1875. He was converted and united with the Church near Toronto, December, 1844. In 1847 he entered school at Berea, Ohio, where he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the traveling connection, and in 1854 was received on trial in the North Ohio Conference, at Tiffin. When the North Ohio Conference was divided he became connected with the Delaware, now the Central Ohio, Conference. With honor to himself and the Church he served the following charges: Brooklyn, Bryan, Williams Center, Delta, Wapakoneta, Marseilles, Eden Station, Caledonia, Zanesfield, Springhills, Richwood, Broadway, and Huntsville. At the close of his second year at Huntsville he superannuated, and remained so for nearly three years. His real ability as a minister and his worth as a man were only known and appreciated by those who were brought into close personal contact with him. Though unassuming, he was a man of clear and strong convictions, with moral courage to antagonize any opposition or obstacle that stood in the way of duty. He had a well-balanced mind, a good English education, and possessed much above an average fund of general information. He was transparent in life, uncompromising in his integrity, making every thing a matter of conscience. All the doctrines, usages, and enterprises of the Church had his undivided sympathy and attention; and the ministry of the Lord Jesus received his entire strength until his slender and diseased form yielded to overwork. After retiring from the effective ranks he seemed for a time to recuperate, but the disease more fully developed, and all hope of final recovery vanished. He placed the highest estimate on the domestic circle, especially his own; and in no department of ministerial work was his personal influence more signally felt than around the family altars of his charge. His social relations were cautiously formed, deeply rooted, and abiding. His relations with his brethren in the Conference were always pleasant; he spoke of them with guarded care and the utmost respect; he sympathized with and rejoiced in the success of all, and appreciated their society above any other class of men on earth. In his life and afflictions was demonstrated beautifully that God will take care of those who devote their life to his service. With no available means on which to rely in retiring from the effective work, God raised up many liberal friends, who tenderly cared for him to the last. His faith in God, and the Gospel he had preached for twenty years, never wavered for a moment. In reply to an inquiry as to his religious enjoyment he said, "All the breadth of the atonement and all of the divine promises are for me; what more could I ask?" On these he hopefully relied, living and dying. A short time before his spirit took its heavenward flight, at his request, he was lifted into his chair, and a hymn sung and prayer was offered, and, without a struggle, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus while he was repeating the words of Mr. Wesley: "The best of all is, God is with us."

QUEST. 15. Have any died?

W. Routledge, M. G. Purkhiser, N. C. Parrish, E. House—4.

1. WILLIAM ROUTLEDGE was born in Kirkuswald, Cumberland County, England, August 24, 1806. In 1832 he and his eldest sister emigrated, to America and settled near Worcester, Mass. Here he assisted in forming a class, and became its first leader. Here he was licensed to exhort and to preach. And here he was married to his now bereaved widow, May 12, 1834. About two years later he removed to Ohio and located in Oldtown, where he continued to reside until 1843, when he was admitted into the Ohio Annual Conference.

He was ordained deacon Sept. 30, 1838, and elder Oct. 1, 1843. His effective ministry comprised a period of twenty seven years, and he received successively the following appointments: Milton, Eaton, Troy, Union, Miami, North Bend, Fulton, Milford, Felicity, Waynesville, South Charleston, Miami, Centenary, Mainville, Amelia, Newtown. This was his last appointment, he being granted a superannuated relation at the conference of 1870.

As a Christian, Brother Routledge was sincere. When eighteen years of age he became awakened on the subject of religion, and in about two months he was enabled by faith to experience the remission of his sins. Thereafter he sought and obtained the evidence of a pure heart, and continued to live and profess a full salvation during the remainder of his life. As a preacher he was earnest and effective. His sermons abounded in scriptural illustrations, and evinced the most careful preparation. As a pastor he was diligent. He made it a rule to visit, converse, and pray with every member of his charge. As a disciplinarian he was strict. He loved the rules of the Church, and enforced them for conscience' sake.

Brother Routledge had a partial stroke of paralysis some years ago, which disabled him from ministerial labor. This was followed by two other attacks, the last of which occurred on the evening of April 21, 1875. He lingered until April 28, when at one o'clock in the morning his spirit vacated its tenement of clay and entered the mansion above. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

2. MICAH GILBERT PURKHISER was born in Washington township, Clermont County, Ohio, Oct. 15, 1813. When in his nineteenth year he attended a camp-meeting held on the Gregg Camp-ground, and being convinced by the Spirit of God that he needed a new heart, knelt at the altar, sought, and at about the hour of midnight received the precious evidence of the Divine adoption. The next morning, August 28, 1832, he united with the Church, and continued within her pale until, on the morning of the 29th of April, 1875, he was transferred to the blessedness of the "white-robed company" surrounding the eternal throne.

Soon after his conversion the Church called him to official position as an exhorter. In 1834 he was licensed to preach, and in the following year he was recommended to the traveling connection, received on trial by the Ohio Conference, and appointed to Monroe Circuit, in Michigan Territory. During the year he rode about two thousand miles, preached nearly two hundred times, obtained many seals to his ministry, and for his living received the modest sum of $47 37½.

His next appointment was to Spring Arbor Circuit. The year was one of marked success. Several new and flourishing societies were organized, two thousand miles were traveled, two hundred and forty-three sermons preached, and many souls were gathered into the great Shepherd's earthly fold.

Finding it impossible to obtain a transfer to Ohio, he asked for and was granted a location.

The Ohio Conference met in 1837 in Xenia, and at the close of the session Brother Purkhiser was gratified to learn that he was to be employed as assistant preacher on Georgetown Circuit. This charge consisted of seventeen appointments, widely distributed over parts of Brown, Adams, and Highland Counties, and included a membership of seven hundred and thirty-one souls. Two hundred more were recruited from the ranks of Satan during the year.

At the close of the year he attended for the first time the session of the Ohio Conference, into which he was admitted, and, very much to his astonishment, appointed to the West Charge, Cincinnati. His next appointment was to Batavia Circuit, where he remained for two years. On the 14th of April, 1840, he was united in marriage to Miss Pamelia Morris, of Batavia.

His subsequent appointments were: 1841, Fulton, Guyandotte, W. Va., Frankfort, West Union, Highland, New Lexington, West White Oak, New Richmond, Goshen, Clarksville, Highland, Lynchburgh, New Market, Union, Miamisburgh and Germantown, New Paris, Highland, Sinking Springs.

At the conference of 1869 Brother Purkhiser asked a supernumerary relation, which was granted him. He then removed with his family from Sinking Springs to a farm, previously purchased, about four and a half miles north-east from Hillsborough, where he expected to pass the evening of life in peace and quietude. But, alas for human calculations! his stay at "Stony Point" was less protracted than he supposed.

The winter of 1874–5 was one of great affliction in the family of Brother Purkhiser. In the early part of March, when the health of his wife and children was measurably restored, he began to decline. Household remedies were employed without effect. The physician was called in and found himself confronted by an obstinate case of jaundice, which he found it impossible to remove.

He was frequently visited by ministerial and other brethren, and spoken to upon the subject of death. His expressions were always prompt, clear, and satisfactory. Such expressions as, "I know whom I have believed;" "I have no doubt or fear;" "I have the cordial and the balm," were of frequent occurrence. At another time he said, "The wires are laid and the poles are all up from 'Stony Point' to head-quarters." When asked, the evening before his death, if he had a message to his brethren of the conference, he said, "Tell them I am triumphing gloriously. Tell them to preach Jesus and the resurrection, and they need have no fear of death."

A prince and a mighty man in Israel has fallen; but he fell with the victor's palm in his uplifted hand and the conqueror's crown upon his saintly brow. His preaching "was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power." As an administrator of discipline, he was conscientious and faithful. As a friend and counselor, he could be safely trusted. As a husband and father, he was kind, mild, and loving, "looking well to the ways of his household, and scorning to eat the bread of idleness." As a Christian, he lived in an atmosphere of cheerfulness and love; and constantly seeking Divine guidance, he promptly performed every known duty, attending as faithfully to the small as well as the great affairs of life. Surely the world is better and heaven richer for his having lived and died.

3. Nathaniel Conrey Parrish was born in West Chester, Ohio, August 17, 1834, and died February 15, 1875. When but thirteen years of age he suffered the loss of his father; when about sixteen years of age he began to teach. In 1855, while a student in Brookville College, (in the preparatory department, of which he was at the same time a teacher,) he was joyfully converted and received into the Church. In 1856 he received his degree in medicine. He soon after felt impressed that he was called by the Holy Ghost to preach the Gospel; but so difficult did he find it to abandon his life-plans that he did not give himself up to that work for nearly ten years. At last, however, his convictions became so settled and thorough that to longer hesitate seemed sin, and he at once applied for work in the Kentucky Conference, and was employed by the presiding elder on Vanceburgh Charge.

February 2, 1862, he was married to Miss Susan Jarrett, who thenceforth shared with him as an efficient help-meet the toils and joys of life, and who yet survives.

In the fall of 1865 he was admitted to the Cincinnati Conference, and appointed to Venice Circuit. His subsequent appointments were as follows, namely: To Wayne-street, Piqua; Carr-street, Cincinnati; Venice Circuit, Miami Circuit, Morrow Station, where he remained three years. At the conference of 1873 failing health warned him to rest for a season, and he asked a superannuated relation. Most of the following winter was spent in travel, and his health was so far restored that he was able to fill out the unexpired term of the lamented Brother Curry, on Fletcher Circuit. Here, however, his unremitting labors proved too severe a strain upon his enfeebled powers, and just on the eve of conference his health failed, and he again received a superannuated relation. A complication of diseases baffled the skill of physicians, and gradually there came to him the conviction that his work was done. Though lingering many months he never preached again.

Dr. Parrish was a man of sterling worth. Like a true son of Wesley, he knew "the rules of a preacher, especially the first, tenth, and twelfth," and he kept them for conscience' sake. Of him it could be faithfully said, he was "diligent, never unemployed, never triflingly employed. During his entire ministry he was in the habit of spending from six to ten hours per day in study. Theology, the languages, and the sciences were his delight. As a preacher he was earnest, practical, and eloquent. His sermons were prepared with great care, his themes well selected, and his style attractive. As a pastor, he was faithful. He knew his people intimately, visiting them frequently, and seeking opportunities to do them good. With the irreligious he maintained a dignified familiarity that honored his office, made him hosts of friends, and gave him large audiences to hear his preaching. He had a happy faculty of interesting children, and diligently instructed them in all his charges. He believed in our book of Discipline, and sought with firmness and great prudence to have it observed by all over whom he had pastoral charge. His religious experience was of a steady and joyful character. His conversion was never doubted. He walked in the light, and to him were granted many seasons of blissful revelation and holy delight. In his last illness, which was often exceedingly painful, he was wonderfully sustained. Some of his utterances were: "I should like to live to preach Jesus Christ; but if it is God's will for me to suffer and die, I submit joyfully." "His will is always good." "It is wonderful how I am sustained. During all these weeks not a cloud has obscured my sky." When asked for a message for the brethren of his conference he said, "Give them all my love. I might send them an exhortation to faithfulness, but they are all good men, and I will only send them my love." For his only child, a little son of five, he expressed some anxiety; but said that he could confidently commit him to the same God who had been a father to him in his orphanage. His last sentence was a message exhorting his sister and brothers to meet him in heaven. Calmly he passed from the labor and pain of earth to the reward of heaven.

4. Erwin House was born in Worthington, nine miles north of Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 17, 1824. His parents were natives of New Haven, Conn. On his mother's side his relatives were Presbyterians. At the age of thirteen, during a religious awakening in Lockland, nine miles north of Cincinnati, he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1841 he entered the Woodward College, Cincinnati, graduating in 1846. In 1849 he received license as a local preacher. In 1865 he was admitted into the Cincinnati Conference. As early as 1837 Mr. House commenced contributing to the press, and in 1847 was employed as assistant editor of the "Ladies' Repository." From March, 1851, to December, 1852, he had sole editorial charge of this magazine, when, by the Book Committee, D. W. Clark (afterward Bishop Clark) was appointed its editor.

The first work he published, "Sketches for the Young," appeared in 1847, and rapidly passed through five editions. Later he published the following works: "The Missionary in Many Lands," a series of chapters concerning the growth of the modern missionary movement; "The Homilist," a volume of edited and original sermons; the "Scripture Cabinet," consisting of the exposition and the illustration by facts and historic incidents of a large number of the leading truths and texts of the Old and New Testaments; and the "Sunday-School Handbook," a volume which the Ohio State Sunday-School Committee requested him to prepare, and which has been of invaluable service to pastors, parents, superintendents, and Sunday-school teachers and workers.

The temperance cause had in him an active and efficient worker, an able and hearty advocate. His fame as a Sunday-school author, speaker, and worker was recognized not only in his own Church, but widely outside. As a speaker to children he had very few equals. Dignified, winning in tone and manner, rich and apt in illustrating truth, he never lacked for listeners. As a writer he was terse and compact, at times highly imaginative and picturesque, yet never turgid or bombastic. He used words as the vehicles of thought, yet so chose the one and draped the other as to fascinate and instruct the reader at the same moment.

In an editorial capacity Mr. House served the Church, without the interruption of a week, for more than twenty-five years. Modest, unpretentious in manner, honest in purpose, Mr. House sought the welfare of others rather than his own advancement. He gave himself entirely, in glad and life-long service, to the advancement of the cause of Christ in the earth. He was earnest in his devotion to the Church, systematic and generous in his benefactions, catholic-hearted toward the whole world. In the last prayer he ever offered in public he cried out in the fullness of his warm and loving heart, with a pathos and tenderness peculiarly his own: "O, Lord, bless all the Churches, and all the pastors, and all the superintendents, and all the children of all the Sunday-schools; bless all the Roman Catholic children, and all the Roman Catholic priests throughout the whole world."

Mr. House was married in August, 1848, to Miss Margaret Davis, of Cincinnati. Of four children but one survives, Alice House, who was born April, 1865. Caroline, his first-born, died in 1852, aged three years; William Erwin was drowned, near Mt. Auburn, while skating, January 14, 1862, aged nearly ten years; Clara House died in April, 1868, aged eleven years.

He worked up to the last hour of life. The afternoon of his last day, May 20, 1875, found him in the discharge of his duties as Assistant Editor. He was in the fullness of his manhood and of his strength, possessing in an unusual degree the esteem and confidence of the Church. He was beloved wherever known, his friends were legion. His reputation, already extended, was widening. His great efficiency was on the increase. He was in the Book Room building, where he had given many hours and weeks of active thought and hard labor for the good of men. He was descending the stairs between the editorial and composing rooms. The air was filled with invisible spirits. Round about him were chariots and horses of fire. He was to be translated that he should not see death. It was needful that one be near him to catch the falling clay. Such a one, a brother and fellow-laborer, was at hand, but a step or two in advance of him. The lips rounded a last utterance: "O doctor, doctor, catch me!" His body dropped in the arms of his editorial associate, his spirit joined the General Assembly and Church of the first-born. Earth is much poorer, heaven is far richer, now that he is absent from us. It is harder for many of us to live now that he is gone, but it will be easier for us to die. We shall meet him in the "sweet by and by."

D. D. Lore, C. S. Coats, Nathan Fellows, Theodore M'Elheney, Charles Blakeslee, Alvin Torry, David Chidester, Doctor Lamkin —8.

1. DALLAS DAYTON LORE was born in Mauricetown, N. J., in the year 1815, and died at his residence near Auburn, N. Y., June 20, 1875. His boyhood was spent in a rural home, and under the influences of Christian culture. The rectitude which there characterized him is remembered and praised by those who knew him. At the early age of fifteen he realized his need of a Saviour. His conversion was clear, and marked with the feeling of assurance and the consciousness of a new life. At the age of twenty-one he entered the traveling ministry as a probationer in the Philadelphia Conference. His abilities secured to him rapid advancement in his work, and his services were sought by the most important charges within the bounds of his Conference, and for other fields of Christian labor.

In 1847 Dr. Lore sailed for South America as a missionary, and for seven years was the pastor of a large and intelligent congregation in the city of Buenos Ayres, at the same time doing such work as he could among the native population. In this field he was eminently successful, and when he returned he left behind him a memory of himself which has remained precious through all the subsequent years. Upon his return he was sent on a tour of exploration to New Mexico, to inspect the condition of our missions in that field, which he performed to the satisfaction of the Missionary Board.

In 1856 Dr. Lore was transferred from the Philadelphia to the New ark Conference, serving several important charges within its bounds. Subsequently he was transferred to the Genesee Conference, and appointed to Grace Church, Buffalo. In 1864, in the midst of most successful labors as a pastor, he was elected to the editorship of the "Northern Christian Advocate." To this office he was re-elected in 1868, and again in 1872, and was in the discharge of its duties when he was suddenly stricken down with paralysis, and called from his labor to his reward.

Such is the outline of Dr. Lore's life, not marked by startling events, but rich in continued usefulness. As a theologian he was diligent in his researches and careful in his conclusions. He read largely of the different systems, compared minutely, and reasoned closely. As a preacher he was earnest, direct, and practical. As an editor he achieved success by his strong and forcible style, by the strength of his convictions, by the boldness and wisdom of his conclusions, and by his devotion to the truth. His zeal in the cause of Christian missions deserves further mention as characteristic of his breadth of view and feeling. Said his daughter when on her way to India, when asked "How could such a father send you as a missionary to heathen lands?" "It is because he is such a father that he could send me." All who remember his words say, "He yet speaketh;" and all who remember his works will say, "He yet liveth."

2. CALVIN S. COATS was born in the town of Orangeville, Wyoming Co., N. Y., May 15, 1809. In 1821 he removed with his parents to the town of Manchester, Ontario Co., N. Y.

When sixteen years of age, during a protracted meeting at Clifton Springs, he was led to repentance of sin and to enter upon a life of faith in the atonement of Christ. Not having the help of pious culture in boyhood, he encountered many spiritual trials in his early religious life, but surmounted them all. Soon after his conversion he received his first license as an exhorter, which was in due time followed by that of local preacher.

Mr. Coats entered the Genesee Conference on probation in 1831, and was appointed to Jersey with Israel Chamberlayne. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Ulysses, Elmira and Southport, Geneva, Benton, Waterloo, Albion, Elmira again, Albion again, Milo and Starkey, Rushville, Seneca Falls, Pittsford, Webster, Clifton Springs, Manchester, and Trumansburgh. In 1849 he was granted a location at his own request. Still his active nature and his love for souls would not allow him to be idle, and he immediately went to work under the presiding elder, and preached every Sabbath of the year but one. In 1850 he was re-admitted, and was stationed successively at Hopewell, Fairport, Bath District, Rushville District, Walworth and Macedon, Seneca Falls, Port Gibson, Orleans, Ovid and Sheldrake, Rushville, and Milo. Just before the close of his labors on the Milo charge his health became seriously impaired, and in 1868 he took a supernumerary relation, and so continued. In March, 1868, he removed to Minnesota. As a supernumerary preacher he abounded in the work of the Lord, preaching anywhere and everywhere, attending funerals and doing all he could to build up the Church, and help the pastor of the charge where he lived.

He died in peace at Lime Spring, Howard Co., Iowa, February 11, 1875. During his sickness he evinced the most perfect trust in the great atonement, and but a few minutes before his death assured his wife of his joyful trust in the Saviour. In 1825 he was united in marriage with Mary Jane Dorman, daughter of Judge Joel Dorman, of Jerusalem, Yates Co., N. Y. He was subsequently married to a very estimable lady of Clifton Springs.

Our dear brother was remarkable for the activity of his intellect, the strength of his convictions, and restless zeal in the cause of his Master. As a man he was endowed with a clear and comprehensive mind. His ready perception, and clear discrimination between truth and error, right and wrong, with his characteristic conscientiousness, led him almost certainly to take the right position on all the great practical questions of his time, whether of Church or State. On no such question was he undecided or neutral. He was never lukewarm. In social conversation he was genial, lively, and instructive. As a Christian he exemplified the spirit of his Master in humility, love, and zeal. His religion was not an appendage, but a vital part of himself; not something put on, but an internal principle of spiritual power derived from a loving union with Christ. It was more than a principle; it was an ever-glowing passion. "The love of Christ constrained him."

3. NATHAN FELLOWS was born of pious parentage in the State of Vermont. At an early age his parents removed to Northern Pennsylvania and settled in Tioga County, where he grew to manhood and settled in life. Under a powerful exhortation from Rev. Joseph Towner he was deeply awakened, and shortly after he was converted and joined the M. E. Church. He was soon called upon to use his gifts in exhortation, and at length he was encouraged to preach. His first sermon was only ten minutes in length, yet several souls were convicted under it. His early limited advantages, his extreme modesty, and his high sense of the ministerial office and work, subjected him to severe conflicts with Satan. But God owned his efforts, his brethren thrust him into the vineyard, and his own persistent industry in study at length prepared him to occupy an honorable position as a Christian minister.

Mr. Fellows was admitted on trial in the Genesee Conference in 1831. Among his early circuits were Canton and Loyalsock, in Pennsylvania. These societies were in a crude state, but soon assumed, under his care, form, order, and proportions. In Loyalsock he built a parsonage, which at that day was quite an undertaking. Looking back to 1831 and '32, we wonder at the man and his work. His labors extended at length over most portions of Genesee Conference. Wherever he went the flock of God had a shepherd, believers were encouraged, souls were converted, Sunday-schools originated, churches and parsonages built and repaired, money raised for every benevolent interest, and no part of the work was suffered to languish. Much against his wish, he was appointed to the district, and completed his constitutional term beloved and honored of all. When, in 1848, the Genesee Conference was divided, he became a member of East Genesee; at the dissolution of which, by the action of the last General Conference, he became connected with the Central New York.

Brother Fellows suffered much in several ways, among which was the loss of his children. An accidental injury and other disabilities at length necessitated a superannuated relation, he still laboring as he was able. His health, however, failed, and he died, as we now think, in March, 1875, aged about sixty-eight years. At the close of life peace and joy filled his soul. A Father's smile greeted the vision of faith, and the angel of the covenant walked with him through the vale of death.

Nathan Fellows was near six feet in stature and well formed. His mien and bearing bespoke the Christian gentleman. He was a warm friend and a good man. "His witness is in heaven—his record on high."

4. Theodore M'Elheney was born in Dryden, Tompkins Co., N. Y., January 8, 1809. He removed with his parents to Alleghany County when about fourteen years of age, was converted to God at the age of twenty-three, and soon after felt that it was his duty to preach. He was married to Miss Eliza Churchill, August 26, 1832; joined the Genesee Conference in 1837; was ordained deacon September 13, 1840, and elder September 4, 1842. His fields of labor were Troupsburgh, Knoxville, Naples, Angelica, Avoca, Conesus, Burdett, Towanda, Corning, Elmira, First Church, Dundee, Horseheads, Burdett second time, Havana, Potter, and Hopewell. On the most of these charges he served a full term, and on every charge was blessed with seals to his ministry, and on some of them large numbers were added to the Church. While laboring at Corning that charge was blessed with a glorious and extensive revival. It was there that the strong man began to bow beneath the weight of excessive labors, and never after fully recovered his former strength and energy. The work of his charges, from that time on, frequently bore very heavily upon him, for it was amid many infirmities that he continued in the Master's work until the fall of 1865, when he reluctantly took a superannuated relation, and settled in Burdett, Schuyler Co., N. Y., where he continued until the time of his death, which occurred March 23, 1875.

As a preacher Brother M'Elheney was sound, practical, and successful in turning many to righteousness. As a Christian he was cheerful and constant, faithful and reliable. His last sickness was tedious, and the most of the time very distressing; but in the most severe pain not one murmur escaped his lips. Those who visited him always found him cheerful, trusting in the Lord, and triumphant. Once, when asked how it was with him, he looked up with his usual smile and said, "I'm gaining; I think I shall soon be through." Thus he continued to alternate between life and death until March 23, when one of his fellow-laborers called to see him, and, looking upon him, said to Sister M'Elheney that as Brother M'Elheney appeared to be resting he would not disturb him. It occurred to Sister M'Elheney that she had not seen him move for a few moments; she looked, and behold, he was gone! The gates of life had opened, and he had triumphantly, as we trust, entered that city whose builder is God.

5. Charles Blakeslee was born in New Hartford, Oneida Co., N. Y., March 10, 1809, and died in Cazenovia, N. Y., August 20, 1875, aged sixty-six years. In October, 1828, at the age of nineteen years, after a long and powerful conviction, he was enabled by faith to receive Christ as his atoning sacrifice, and was happy in the joys of pardon. Soon after his conversion he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and after the usual term of probation was received into the Church and licensed to exhort by the Rev. John Dempster.

In 1836 Brother Blakeslee was licensed to preach, and in 1844 he was received into the Oneida Conference on trial. He served the following charges: Tully, Onondaga, Lenox, Morrisville and New York Mills, Fabius, New Woodstock, Preble, Cooperstown, State-street, Utica, Sauquoit, Norwich, and Deansville. In 1856 he was elected delegate to the General Conference, and in 1860 the first reserve to that body. He became a superannuate in 1862, after which he supplied one year of valuable service, since which time until his death, for nearly thirteen years, he has exhibited to the world the patience, gentleness, and suffering which seldom falls to the lot of men.

During the twenty-one years of Brother Blakeslee's active ministerial life, eighteen of which was by conference appointments, he expounded the word of God with an unction that spoke a soul complete in Christ. He both instructed and pleased the hearer, and many, yea, multitudes, will rise up in the great day of awards and call him blessed, for having led them to and in Christ to that higher inner life of sanctification and blessed rest through faith. His sermons consisted not so much in symmetrically carved sentences, (though always refined,) but were marked by the true eloquence of a soul lost in its subject, the Holy Ghost resting on his heart and breathing forth in his words. In short, he appeared the Summerfield and Fletcher combined.

Brother Blakeslee was married at New Woodstock July 16, 1849, to Miss Electa L. Smith, who has walked by his side in the sweet fellowship and peace of a sanctified Christian experience for twenty-six years, and who, with the four children God gave them, (two sons and two daughters,) remain to mourn their loss and feel the sorrows that earth and death give, and that Christ and heaven alone can cure.

6. Alvin Torry left for the land of the living, from the home of his son in Homer, N. Y., at the advanced age of seventy-eight years. Father Torry was born in the town of Stafford, Conn. His father's house was the place where the first Methodist sermon was preached in that part of the State; a reformation soon followed, and a society was organized. In 1801 they emigrated to New York State, and settled in Otsego County.

There also the itinerant had his appointment at his father's residence, and Methodism was planted to live and flourish in all that section of the State.

Under the ministry of such flaming heralds of the cross as Jonathan Newman, David Dunham, Benoni Harris, Benjamin Bidlack, Sylvester Hill, Ebenezer White, and Charles Giles, Brother Torry received his first religious impressions. When but a lad of seven or eight years he was born the second time at a powerful meeting in his father's house. At the age of sixteen he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and with a new baptism received about that time, assuring him of his acceptance by God, he entered the Lord's vineyard with a flaming zeal, loving heart, and working hand. Soon after followed the call Divine to give himself wholly to the work of the Christian ministry; and through the help and encouragement of his preacher and his presiding elder, with many fears he went forth to his first year's labor in the itinerancy on Cayuga Circuit.

At the age of nineteen Brother Torry was received on trial in the old Genesee Conference. His first circuit included Scipio, Cayuga, Unity, Elbridge, Jordan, Manlius, Onondaga, Oswego, Otisco, Auburn, Skaneateles, and Spafford. Powerful revivals of religion attended his labor during this first Conference year. In 1818, the next year, he was sent to labor in Canada, and there also the Lord was with him, "confirming the word with signs following." Societies were formed, churches built, and souls saved through the earnest, self-sacrificing work of this servant of God. Two years later his appointment was to a missionary field among the Indians in Canada, where he labored with good success for several years. He saw the commencement of that great work of reformation now going on under the supervision of Canadian Methodism.

Because of impaired health he was returned to the States and appointed to Ulysses Circuit, which embraced all that country lying between Cayuga and Seneca Lakes, from the town of Enfield to Ovid. The next year he was re-appointed to the same circuit. Then came the division of the Genesee Conference, and he became a member of Oneida Conference, in which he traveled Pompey, Chenango, Otego, and Canajoharie, and served the Oneida Indian Mission. Since 1839 Father Torry has been superannuated, still during these trying years he was not idle, preaching and laboring as his strength would allow. His ministry covers the long period of fifty-seven years.

As a preacher Brother Torry was plain, practical, and scriptural. It bore fruit; his spiritual children are many. As a Christian he was hopeful and happy. He walked and talked with God. Christ was his theme, the object of his glory. He was strong in faith, firm in his confidence in God, mighty in prayer, and devoted in his attachment to the Church of his choice. The same grace that he had so long and confidently recommended to others comforted and sustained his own soul during all his trials and his last painful sickness. He "endured as seeing Him who is invisible."

The old pilgrim, after his long journey, has finally reached his eternal home. The old voyager, weather-beaten with many a storm and tossed upon many a billow, has at last rode triumphantly into the port of rest. The scarred veteran, from many a battle-field, has at length received his final discharge, laid off his armor, and is crowned with "victory at last."

7. David Chidester, a superannuated member of the Central New York Conference, died in peace at his residence in Syracuse, September 7, 1875, in the sixty-ninth year of his age. He was converted in his youth, and grew up a godly young man. He was received into the Black River Conference in 1838, and into full connection in 1840. His fields of labor were in the following order: Canton, Louisville, Hopkinton, Herkimer, Frankfort, Marcy, Newport, Lee, North Manlius, First Ward, Syracuse, Belgium, and Collamer, occupying about seventeen years. His health was early broken, obliging him to retire for seven years upon the superannuated list; but so strong was his desire to return to his work in the field as to lead him to make several attempts, which, however, were only successful for from two to four years, when he would be compelled again to retire. When not in the pastoral work he practiced medicine and dentistry, and occupied honorable positions in each of these professions.

Brother Chidester was above the common order of talent and culture. He was a genial, gentlemanly minister and citizen. His culture gave him the mastery of his emotions, and access to any society. His liberal care for the Church and for his family was stronger than for his property, and he died poor. His death was sudden, and he had very little opportunity to leave dying words. But his life was sufficient testimony, and his departure was peaceful, and no doubt safe and triumphant.

8. Doctor Lamkin, a superannuated preacher of the Central New York Conference, died at his residence in Venice, Cayuga Co., N. Y., November 12, 1874, aged sixty-six years.

Brother Lamkin was born in 1808, in the same community where he died. He was converted in his twenty-third year at a protracted meeting held in the summer of 1831, in a barn a little east of the village of Aurora, Cayuga County, and soon after united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at Ledyard, and became one of its most active members. He graduated through nearly all the lower offices of the Church up to a local deacon before he entered the itinerant ministry, which he did at the session of the Oneida Conference in 1840, and served the following charges in succession: Scipio, Fall Creek, Slaterville, Newfield, Asbury, Scipio second time, North Lansing, Varna, Moravia, Ledyard, North Lansing, supernumerary one year, Asbury second time, Scipio third time, supernumerary again, which relation he continued to sustain until the last session of this conference, when he was made a superannuate at his own request. Our dear brother labored most successfully and acceptably on all the charges he served; he was permitted to see revivals on nearly every charge, and on some very extensive and large accessions to the Church were realized; and, indeed, such was his zeal for the cause of God and the salvation of souls, he could not be idle after he took a supernumerary relation. He visited those neighborhoods where they had but few religious privileges, and so preached Christ to them that many believed and turned to the Lord. He was truly a man of God; his motto was Holiness, and his manner of life was such as to convince all there was a reality in the Christian religion. Said one of the fathers in the ministry, "I regard Brother Lamkin as one of the best laborers at the altar I ever knew." Said a brother where he labored, "I regard Brother Lamkin as one of the best pastoral visitors we ever had. After the first salutation he was anxious to know how our souls prospered, and what progress we were making in the things of religion; and after giving us good advice and offering an earnest prayer for us would leave, causing us to feel we had a minister who was deeply anxious for our souls' welfare."

But Brother Lamkin's work is done; he has preached his last sermon, delivered his last exhortation, and offered his last prayer, and has gone to his rest to join the loved ones who had preceded him to the blissful world. May we all labor so to follow him as he followed Christ, that when life's work is done we may all meet in heaven!

Henry Eberhardt.

HENRY EBERHARDT was born February 7, 1838, in Guntersblum, Hesse Darmstadt, and died in Albert Lea, Freeborn Co., Minn., August 27, 1875, in his thirty-eighth year. He came with his parents to America when eleven years of age, and his first home was near West Bend, Washington Co., Wis. When sixteen years old he was converted to God. At nineteen he became the assistant of Rev. A. Salzer on Baraboo Mission. He labored in succession on the following fields: Fort Atkinson and Kenosha, in Wisconsin; Burlington Circuit, Farmington, and Clayton, in Iowa; Columbus and Rock River, in Wisconsin, where he became disabled and was compelled to take a superannuated relation. He settled at Albert Lea, and began cultivating a farm. In two years his health was so far restored that he again resumed active labor, and was sent to Hokah, where he labored three years, at the expiration of which, however, he broke down completely under a nervous disorder. He returned to his farm, worked as far as possible for the support of his family, and did all in his power for the Lord, until the Saviour called him to rest from his labors in the kingdom of glory.

Brother Eberhardt was a faithful servant of Christ; and though his visible success may not have been so great as that of some of his brethren, yet he has left a blessed memory every-where, and is now reaping what he has sowed. He loved the Lord, also the Church, to which he felt himself so greatly indebted, and lived for the welfare of others. Of self-interest, self-love, envy, or selfish ambition, there was no trace in his character. He preached holiness by his life even much plainer than with his lips. Particularly in his last days did he live a life "hid with Christ in God." In his preaching he was clear, forcible, earnest, and pointed. As a pastor he was diligent, faithful, and prudent. As a son he possessed great filial love, to which his parents testify with many tears. As a husband he was tender and faithful to his loved ones. As a father he was affectionate, yet firm, and his children were accustomed to render him unconditional obedience. As a neighbor he was beloved and highly respected by all, which was proven by the general sympathy shown him during his last illness, as well as at his funeral. About two weeks before his death, feeling himself much exhausted, and not getting better, a physician was called, when it was found that he had typhoid fever. He gradually grew worse. His sense of hearing suffered. On the last day he could not speak, and finally, at ten o'clock P. M., he softly and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. Our brother leaves behind him a wife, five children, his parents, seven brothers and sisters. One of his brothers, Rev. Conrad Eberhardt, is a member of the Chicago German Conference. The whole family belong to the Lord and our Church.

W. R. Howe, William Smith —2.

1. W. R. HOWE died in Olin, Jones Co., Iowa, June 17, 1875, aged fifty-one. He was born in Frederick Co., Va., December 25, 1823; removed early in life to Cumberland, Alleghany Co., Md., where he was married, converted, united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and did efficient service as a Sabbath-school worker for years. He was licensed to preach at Morgantown, Va.; ordained deacon June 3, 1856, and elder April 19, 1857; labored in the itinerancy in West Virginia Conference till 1871, when, owing to ill health, he asked for a certificate of location, and removed to Iowa. Here he was received, on his certificate, into the Upper Iowa Conference. His health failing again while in charge at Mechanicsville, he asked and was granted a superannuated relation, and so continued. His last illness was such as to greatly affect his mind as well as his body in his last hours, but he has left a living record that assures of his final rest. He attended prayer-meeting on Thursday evening before his death, praying with unusual earnestness and power. He contemplated entering again the active work this fall, but God has called him to rest, and it may be said of him, as especially applicable, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Brother Howe was a worthy man, a good Christian, and an efficient preacher.

2. WILLIAM SMITH was born in Kenilworth, England, February 26, 1826. He was reared amid Christian influences, Methodistic being the peculiar type, his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather being of the same order, having been converted under the preaching of John Wesley.

Brother Smith was converted at the age of eleven years, and when but sixteen was put on the plan as a local preacher, and as such he seemed to have continued exercising his gifts until coming to this country in 1857. On his arrival here he came immediately to Dubuque City, Iowa. Some three weeks after this, being convinced of his adaptation to the itinerancy, the then presiding elder of Dubuque District employed and set him at work on the Delhi Circuit. At the ensuing Conference, 1858, he was received on trial by the Upper Iowa Conference, in connection with which he filled successively the following appointments: Dubuque Circuit, Rock Dale, Waverley, Floyd and Charles City, West Union, Quasqueton, Jessup, Fayette. In 1871 he was appointed as presiding elder of the M'Gregor District, and had with great punctuality and efficiency nearly filled his allotted time when disease fastened on his unusually robust frame and firm constitution, and, after a severe struggle, he was, on the 20th of May, completely prostrated. After lying at death's door for six weeks, on July 3, three minutes before midnight, the doors of life were thrown open, and he entered into the city of God. Complete and perfect composure and resignation marked his entire illness, and his end was triumphant.

Brother Smith was not only a good man, but an excellent minister of Christ, a faithful administrator of the Discipline of the Church. He seemed, indeed, always to be impressed that his mission was not so much to mend our rules as to keep them. He leaves an affectionate companion and three children, one of whom is a member of this body, to mourn his absence. May the God of the fatherless and widow kindly shelter them till the storms of life are past!

E. Still, S. Patterson—2.

1. ELIJAH STILL was born September 4, 1805, in White Co., Tenn., and died in great peace and holy triumph April 12, 1875, at his residence in Bradley Co., Tenn., in the seventieth year of his age. He was happily converted at a camp-meeting held at Martin's Camp-ground, in Marion Co., Tenn. He was admitted on trial in the Holston Conference in 1832, and sent to Greenville Circuit as junior preacher. He traveled the following circuits: Grayson, Jefferson, Hiawassee, Ellejay, Spring Place, and Washington. In 1838 he was granted a location at his own request, and settled in Bradley Co., Tenn., where he resided until his death, remaining a faithful, zealous local preacher until the organization of the present Holston Conference by Bishop Clark in 1865, when he was readmitted. Since then he has labored as a traveling preacher on the following circuits: Cleveland, Jasper, Hamilton, Washington, Harrison. On all of these various charges he was very successful in building up the Church. His ministry on several occasions was blessed with great revivals, during which hundreds were converted and added to the Church.

Brother Still entered the itinerant ranks at a time that tried the faith of a Christian minister, and he was forced to meet great opposition from the enemies of the Cross and Methodism. His life was that of a pure Christian minister. A short time before his death he requested some one to read the 117th Psalm, and to sing that soul-stirring hymn, "There is a fountain filled with blood," etc. He joined in the singing, and his soul seemed to realize afresh the cleansing efficacy of the atoning blood. He thus passed away, and exchanged the toils of life for a home in heaven.

2. SAMUEL PATTERSON died March 21, 1875. He professed saving faith in Christ about fifty years ago. He professed the blessing of sanctification twenty-five years ago. He was faithful to God and the Church. In his last moments he shouted "Glory to God!" and at once ceased to labor and live.

R. W. Travis, J. E. Lindley, W. R. Powers,* L. Smith—4.

1. REUBEN W. TRAVIS died February 11, 1875, in Decatur, Ill., in his fifty-sixth year. He was born near Delaware, Ohio, June 17, 1819. His parents were Methodists; his mother a woman of much more than ordinary Christian excellence. With ceaseless vigilance she guarded the spiritual interests of her rising family, and she desired especially that her sons might grow up to be ministers of the Gospel; and in reference to four of her sons she was gratified in this pious desire.

Reuben W. was converted at the age of nineteen years at a camp-meeting. So deep and thorough was this work of conversion, and so vivid and striking were his convictions and his experiences, that he never doubted it was the work of the divine Spirit. At the time of his conversion he could scarcely read, so imperfect had been his early education. Soon after this he emigrate to Indiana, residing in Indianapolis. Here he worked at his trade, and, as opportunity offered, attended school, and made considerable acquisitions in elementary education. He had already become impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to enter the ministry, hence his restless desire to acquire knowledge as preparatory thereto. From Indianapolis he went to reside in Knightstown, Ind., where he was united in marriage to Mary Josephine Griffith, a young lady of excellent family, who seconded every effort of his looking toward the requisite preparation for the work of a Christian minister.

In November, 1843, he removed to Bond Co., Ill. Here he worked at his trade about three years, and as opportunity offered gave attention to the improvement of his mind. In 1844 he was licensed as a local preacher. In the fall of 1846 he resolved to spend some time at M'Kendree College. Accordingly, with his family he moved to Lebanon, and entered college. His resources were quite limited. His wife, in order to help him as best she might, took a few boarders, and he himself worked at his trade at intervals, and thus defrayed the expenses for one year. This year was well and profitably spent. In the fall of 1847 he was admitted into the Illinois Conference, and appointed to the Golconda Circuit, where his entire receipts for the year were only eighty dollars. Here he labored zealously, courageously, and effectively, through many trials and discouragements, but came out of the struggle a stronger man and better prepared for greater usefulness in the future trials of an itinerant minister. In 1848 he was sent to the Shawneetown Circuit, where he was well received and comfortably supported. He filled subsequently the following appointments: Edwardsville, Bloomington, Jacksonville West charge, and Fifth-street, Quincy, in all of which he labored with marked acceptability. He was popular, useful, successful, and uniformly left behind him a circle of the warmest and most constant friends. In 1856 he was appointed presiding elder of the Griggsville District, where he labored with great success for three years, when he was compelled, on account of a very severe attack of illness, during which his lungs became seriously affected, to resign his district. From this trouble he never wholly recovered. In 1859 he was elected a delegate to the General Conference which was to convene the following spring. At the same time he was appointed to the Decatur Station, where he labored to the entire satisfaction of the people for two years. The next eight years he was presiding elder, first of the Decatur, and next of the Champaign District. In both these fields of labor he sustained the high character for success and efficiency which had hitherto distinguished him in other fields.

In 1869 impaired health induced Brother Travis to take a supernumerary relation. The next year he was effective, and appointed to Taylorville Station, where he spent a very prosperous year. He was next stationed at Mechanicsburgh. The following year he was appointed agent for the Illinois Wesleyan University. The next year he was granted a superannuated relation, but he preached at various places during most of this year. In 1874 he was again effective, and appointed to Bement Station, upon which work he entered with his accustomed zeal and energy. This was his last appointment, and the twenty-seventh year of his itinerant life.

Brother Travis was a man of more than ordinary capacity, energy, and enterprise. He was industrious and laborious, a diligent student up to the very last, and though not educated in youth, yet he had far outstripped many who had enjoyed superior advantages in early life. He was a sound theologian, and thoroughly Methodistic. In addition to theological studies, he gave attention to almost every question of public interest, and possessed extensive general information. He was well acquainted with human nature, was an interesting companion among all with whom he had relations, and had power with men both in the Church and out of it. His bearing and general character were such as to inspire confidence and respect in every community in which he labored. As a leading member of his Conference, his advice was always valuable and worthy of attention. In the administration of discipline he was eminently successful. He did good every-where, and failed nowhere in his work as a Methodist preacher. He was not what is usually styled an eloquent speaker, yet he was forceful, earnest, interesting, sensible, and never wore himself out with his audiences. He was, perhaps more than for any thing else, distinguished for his sound, comprehensive common sense. He was, besides, possessed of unbounded courage, and was firm in his purpose and convictions. But what is worthy of still higher praise, he was particularly jealous of the honor of his Master and of his great cause. He had faults I suppose, and weaknesses, for he was a man. He had enemies, perhaps. Few men who are worth any thing to the world are without them, but he lived and died the enemy of no man. His character was positive, not negative; hence, he made himself felt in all the walks of life into which he entered. He was sure to be found on one side or the other of all great questions, and always aimed to place himself where truth and humanity were most likely to be served. But his work is ended. He bore his last illness with wonderful patience, and when he became conscious of the dangerous character of his disease, believing that he could not recover, he said to his sorrowing and afflicted companion, "Wife, do you think you can help me tide it over?" She kindly said in reply, "I think I can." Finally, when the last struggle was evidently near at hand, heart-broken, well-nigh, and distressed, she kneeled by his side, and taking his hand in hers, she said, "Reuben, I have done all for you that I can do; I can go no farther with you." Arousing himself for an instant, he said: "There is One, there is One." His wife then, as if anticipating what was in his mind, added, "One like unto the Son of man, who can go with you to the last." "Yes," said he, "that is it, that is it, and all is right." These were his last utterances, and in fifteen minutes more he was dead. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

JOHN E. LINDLEY was born in Windham Co., Conn., September 1, 1812, and died at Nokomis, Ill., February 19, 1875. In 1830 he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. For fourteen years he served the Church as a class leader, and it was in that office, doubtless, that he acquired his remarkable fluency and power in prayer. Having been licensed to preach, he filled several charges as a supply within the bounds of the Providence Conference. In 1855 he came to Illinois. In 1859 he was received on trial in the Illinois Conference, and appointed agent for the Female College. For four years afterward, having been discontinued in 1860, he served as a supply on the San Jose and Irving Circuits. In 1864 he was again received into conference, and appointed successively to Irving, Moawequa, Rosamond, Irving, Windsor, Nokomis, where he finished his course. He commenced the labors of the year with his accustomed zeal, holding for seven weeks a protracted meeting. At the close of this meeting he was so prostrated as to be unable to fill his appointments on the circuit. Confined at first to his room, and afterward to his bed, the disease developed itself as cancer in the stomach, and though he lingered for some weeks, it was without hope of recovery. Amid his pain, no murmuring word escaped his lips. At first, though fully delivered from the fear of death, he felt it hard to be compelled to cease working for God and for souls, but at length he was enabled in this even to surrender his own will and say, "The will of the Lord be done." He continued to preach to his people from his sick bed, as from time to time they visited him, as long as his strength lasted, and then, rejoicing in the consolation of that Gospel which he had so faithfully preached to others, he ceased at once to work and live.

Brother Lindley was a good preacher, a zealous and successful laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, was blessed with good revivals in most of his charges, faithful in attending to the business of the Church, and securing the confidence and love of those for whom he labored. "He was a good man, full of faith and the Holy Ghost."

3. LEONARD SMITH was born in Ancaster, Wentworth Co., Canada, May 2, 1838, and died November 18, 1874, aged thirty-six years. He was converted and joined the Methodist Church in Canada in 1854. In 1857 he was licensed as a local preacher, and sent by his presiding elder as a supply to the Gainsborough Circuit, Niagara Conference. In 1858 he was sent in the same capacity to labor on the Nelson Circuit. During most of the year 1859 he labored as a supply upon the Oxford Circuit. In 1860 he came to Illinois and joined this Conference as a probationer, and was appointed to the Bluff Dale Circuit, and thenceforward successively to Springfield, Dawson, Williamsville, Girard, Grove City, Macon, Perry, Grove City again, where his health almost entirely failed him. Consumption, the disease of which he died, had clearly developed itself in his system, and but little hope of recovery remained to his most sanguine friends. In 1873 he was granted a superannuated relation, which relation he sustained till the day of his departure.

On the 10th day of September, 1863, Brother Smith was united in marriage to Miss B. A. Lowe, a daughter of W. F. Lowe, a member of his own conference. To them were born five children, four of whom, with the mother, are still surviving.

Brother Smith was a good and faithful servant of the Church, a successful itinerant, useful, and generally acceptable wherever appointed to labor. He died as he had lived, in the faith of the Gospel, and has entered, doubtless, into the inheritance of the saints of light. Long may his memory be cherished by the brethren of his conference!

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Glezen Fillmore,* Israel Chamberlayne, Schuyler Seager,* Chas. D. Burlingham,* Robert Parker,* Verannus Brownell, William I. Richards—7.

1. ISRAEL CHAMBERLAYNE was born in Butternuts, Otsego Co., N. Y., September 6, 1795, and died in Lyndonville, Orleans Co., N. Y., March 20, 1875. At the early age of fifteen he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at Mount Upton, Chenango County; was licensed to exhort when seventeen years of age, and to preach when eighteen, at which time he united with the Genesee Conference. From 1813 the following were his appointments: Northumberland, Pa.; Broome, N. Y.; St. Lawrence, also placed in charge of Montreal and Ottawa, Canada, the same year; Lycoming, Pa.; Bellville, Conn.; Canandaigua, Catharine, Watertown, Le Roy, superannuated one year, Scipio and Auburn, Scipio again, Caroline, Lyons, Palmyra, Ovid and Ulysses, Benton, Covington, Le Roy again, Livonia, editor of "Auburn Banner" three years, Buffalo District four years, Genesee District three years, superannuated one year. He was five times elected to represent his brethren in General Conference, namely, in 1824, 1828, 1832, 1852, 1856.

At the age of twenty-five Brother Chamberlayne was united in marriage to Miss Joanna Price, who bore to him twelve children and faithfully and lovingly shared with him in all earthly vicissitudes for fifty-four years.

Dr. Chamberlayne was compelled, by an extreme nervous sensibility, to retire from the itinerancy in the meridian of life. He by no means, however, ceased to take an active part in the various questions agitating the Church, or in those movements affecting the wellfare of the conference. During his superannuation he was no idler in the vineyard. His disability for the regular work of the itinerant ministry by no means disqualified him for literary toil in the quiet of his study; and for this kind of toil he was peculiarly fitted by his native and acquired endowments and tastes. Sermons, essays, reviews, and volumes, were the product of his pen. His last published work was on "Saving Faith." He was distinguished for intellectual strength, for a dignified and courteous bearing in his intercourse with his brethren, for the strictest observance of the rules of propriety and order in churchly and conference duties. He was a master in logic, an original explorer in metaphysics and theology, intensely exact as a linguist, keenly sharp as a controversialist, and poetically sensitive as a rhetorician. As a preacher he was instructive and original, and often were his utterances attended by a power and unction that were overwhelming. As a Christian his experience, although not of the joyful type, was characterized by great sincerity, unfaltering faith in the word of God, and simple, unswerving trust in the mercy of God through Jesus Christ. And yet, such were his constitutional peculiarities, that he looked forward to the dying hour with shrinking dread; but God, in his mercy, saved him from any conscious appreciation of the approach of the king of terrors. He had suffered somewhat for several days from a violent cold, and returning wearied from a visit he had been making, he fell asleep in his chair. Though partially aroused at one time by his anxious family, he never fully awoke until the spirit, released from the prison of clay, merged into the open vision of the heavenly. Truly he was a prince in our Israel; his labors were great, his end was peace.

2. VERANNUS BROWNELL was born in Vermont March 16, 1810, and died in Birdsall, Alleghany Co., N. Y., December 11, 1874. At the age of sixteen he was converted, and moved of the Holy Ghost to preach the Gospel. His lot was cast among the Protestant Methodists, with whom he connected himself. He was licensed to preach, and admitted into the traveling connection. But a wider observation led him to prefer the superior economy of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and in 1841, still retaining the unimpaired confidence and affection of his former associates in labor, he was admitted into the old Genesee Conference, and labored with marked ability and success in the following appointments: Hornellsville, Avoca, Naples, Springwater, Rogersville, Angelica, Almond, Short Tract, Conesus, Sparta, superannuated 1854–62, then Westfield, Farmington, Jackson, Short Tract again.

In 1872 Brother Brownell's old difficulty — sciatic rheumatism — became so disabling as to compel his superannuation. Under the intense and almost incessant pain he suffered his herculean powers gradually gave way, until, on the morning of December 11, 1874, this holy minister of Christ breathed his last of this life of suffering, and his pure spirit went to rest in the bosom of God.

Brother Brownell was twice married—November 19, 1833, to Miss Margaret L. Jenkins, a companion every way fitted, both by nature and by grace, to share the burdens of his life's great work. She bore unto him eleven children, ten of whom survive him.

* See pages 158, 159.

His dear wife and infant daughter were buried in one grave in December, 1852. He subsequently married Miss Lois Showers, who is still living, and who has borne unto him six children, four of whom survive. Of these fourteen children eleven are of adult years. Nine of them, and six of the sons and daughters-in-law, are devoted members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. One son, Rev. J. T. Brownell, and two sons-in-law, Revs. William H. Rogers and J. B. Countryman, are active members of the Western New York Conference. All these rise up and join with the multitudes whom he led to Christ, and pronounce blessings upon the name and memory of Veranus Brownell.

3. William I. Richards was born in Fulton Co., N. Y., July 30, 1815, and died at his home in Clarkson, Monroe Co., N. Y., May 22, 1875. He was converted when nineteen years of age. For some years he served as a local preacher, but entered the traveling connection in 1850 in the Black River Conference. The following is his conference record: Booneville, E. Canada Creek, St. Johnsville, Newport, Steuben, Floyd, St. Johnsville again, superannuated one year, Parma, Genesee Conference, Stafford, Hulberton and Clarendon, Carlton, Elba, W. Webster, and Sweden.

Brother Richards was a man of piety and great usefulness in winning souls to Christ. He ceased at once to work and live, and died triumphing in Him whom he served.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

I. Eddy,* I. H. Tackett, D. King, T. G. M'Creary, D. Smith, J. Flower—6.

1. IGNATIUS H. TACKETT was born in Monroe Co., Va., Aug. 19, 1798. He was converted in the seventeenth year of his age, and after graduating in the ministry according to our usual way, he was received on trial in the old Baltimore Conference in March, 1824, and into full connection in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1828; was ordained elder in 1828, and became a member of the Erie Annual Conference at its organization.

As a preacher Brother Tackett's sermons were well arranged, sound in matter, often strongly argumentative, and acceptable among the people. He bravely bore the hardships and privations of a Methodist preacher in the earlier settlements of the country embraced in the territory of Pittsburgh and Erie Conferences. He always evinced a strong attachment to his conference and the Church of his early choice. He took great delight in being present at all its sessions while he lived. He has been a preacher of the Gospel for an entire half century. But the weary toilsman has finally been transferred from labor to rest. In the calm, tranquil evening of life he fell asleep in Christ, in the seventy-seventh year of his age, last spring at his home in Forestville.

So one after another drops from the ranks of our itinerant veterans, and the watchman's voice is hushed in the stillness of death to be attuned in the song of the Lamb and in the chorus of the redeemed.

2. DAVID KING died in Vernon, Trumbull Co., Ohio, January 31, 1875, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. His early life was a strictly moral one, and it was not till he had attained his twenty-third year that he began to think seriously about his personal salvation. While engaged as a clerk in a store in Wayne, Ohio, he resolved earnestly to seek the Lord. He read his Bible and prayed for pardon. His whole soul was thoroughly aroused. He sought advice, and while describing his condition was so overcome that he fell prostrate on the floor. Friends were called in, and for six hours prayer was offered up to God in his behalf. But no relief came. Despair well-nigh took possession of him. Soon after this, at a prayer-meeting, while the congregation were singing

> "And palms of victory you shall bear,
> And in God's kingdom have a share,"

he says, in describing the scene, "The Holy Ghost fell upon me, and instantly I was caught up in a gale of glory, and all around me became light. A holy fire ran through me, making me all light in the Lord. O, what a joy I then had in Christ! It was too much for human nature to stand up under, and I fell down as one dead at the feet of Him who had done so much for me."

He at once, upon his conversion, united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and, such was his proficiency in the divine life, that he was soon licensed to exhort. With this authority he was sent as a supply to the Warren Circuit in 1835, or possibly a year later. In 1836 he was licensed to preach. The same year he volunteered to accompany the Rev. Alfred Brunson to the Upper Mississippi Mission. He was admitted into the Illinois Conference in 1836, in the bounds of which he labored faithfully and earnestly until 1843, when he located and returned to his home in Ohio. In 1845 he was received into the Erie Conference, and continued to labor in the ministry of the word till 1863, when broken health compelled his superannuation. From this time down to the day of his death, though he preached but little, yet his life was a living illustration of the principles and power of the Gospel. His zeal knew no languor. His benevolent activity was only circumscribed by his power of endurance. The generosity of his nature showed itself in acts of kindness, in words of love, and tender sympathies.

It was while actively engaged in aiding a deeply afflicted family in his neighborhood that Brother King contracted a cold, which, resulting in pneumonia, carried him to his grave. His death was gloriously triumphant. Not a cloud vailed his setting sun! Not a doubt shook his faith! He had gained the summit! He saw the mighty sweep of the celestial plains, and glad "Halleluiahs" burst from heart and lips as he viewed the promised inheritance.

3. T. G. M'CREARY was born in Erie Co., Pa., June 9, 1809. In his twentieth year he was converted, and at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Having filled with great acceptability and usefulness the offices of class-leader, steward, and exhorter, he was, in 1837, licensed to preach, and in 1848 was admitted into the Erie Conference, in connection with which he served successively the following charges: Hendersonville, Pleasantville, Washington, New Bethlehem, Hendersonville again, Harrisville, Mount Jackson, Hartford, Clarkesville, Canfield, Hubbard, Lowell, East Brook, supernumerary one year, Northfield, West Dayton, Hamblin. In all these places he was useful and highly esteemed.

Brother M'Creary gained a pretty thorough knowledge of the doctrines and economy of the Church—had an active, vigorous mind, and being thoroughly consecrated to his great work, he was soon confessed to be "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." As a preacher he was above mediocrity, while for exhortation and public prayer he had a power that few possess or can attain. He was every inch a man, and for twenty-seven years did among us a man's work in a true man's way, with singleness of purpose, and a zeal that many waters could not quench. His brethren will cherish pleasant memories of him.

4. DARIUS SMITH died May 12, 1875, in Saybrook, Ohio, in his seventieth year. He was born in Pittsford, N. Y., July 19, 1805. In 1826 he, with his parents, moved to Chautauqua Co., N. Y., where, in April, 1827, he found redemption in the blood of the Lamb, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In June, 1829, he was appointed class leader, in which capacity he was so acceptable and beloved that his class refused to recommend him for license to preach, fearing they would lose him as a leader. However, in July, 1832, he received license to exhort, and in May, 1833, to preach, and was employed by the presiding elder on the Smithport Circuit till the next conference. The following year he traveled the Napoli Circuit, still under the elder.

In 1835 he was received on trial by the Pittsburgh Conference and sent to Columbus Circuit. His appointments after this were as follows: Forestville, Jamestown, Westfield, Forestville again, North East, Erie, Jamestown District, M'Kean and Girard, Ashtabula, Warren, Mercer, superannuated one year, Geneva, Bloomfield and Bristol, Willoughby, Ashtabula, Perry, East Cleveland, Tidioute, Grand River, Madison and Perry, Huntsburgh, East Ashtabula, Saybrook, East Ashtabula again, and in 1874 he again became superannuated and passed into glory. His life was a most beautiful, even, and consistent one. "He was sedate, cool, and deliberate; a man of much faith and prayer. He was modest and respectful to others, and careful and precise in his administration of discipline. He was also a good, sound, systematic preacher—more practical and experimental than doctrinal—a man that good people loved, and even bad men respected." He was mild, unassuming, and retiring, never pressing himself for recognition or public favor. He stood in his place ready to do the work assigned him. His work on his charges was always well and faithfully done. His pastoral work was always full and complete. He was pre-eminently a man of and for peace. He was very free from the elements of combativeness, and took very little, if any, part in the belligerent contests on the conference floor. His fields of labor lay principally along the lake shore, the most beautiful region of Erie Conference. Forty-one years did he sound the Gospel trump, and occupied fields that have opened into our best appointments. He was much loved and respected by the community in which he died, and it is unanimous in according to him a very high type of piety and goodness. He always desired to pass the confines of life without a lingering and suffering disease.

* Obituary not received.

Brother Smith's desire was fully realized. On the day of his death the Ladies' Aid Society had its gathering at his house. He was active in receiving and cheerful in entertaining its membership. At tea he ate heartily, and while serving the young people at second table he sank on a lounge and expired. He was thus surrounded by a band of loving and loved friends, and so passed from a company militant to a company angelic and triumphant. At his funeral one gave testimony to his worth as follows: "He was a true man; true to his God, true to the Church, true to man, and true to himself." His sun is at last set. The sprays of Jordan are shaken from his garments, and, robed in white, he enjoys peace and rest. His morning in glory is begun.

5. Josiah Flower was born in West Springfield, Mass., June 19, 1803, and died in Meadville, Pa., April 15, 1875, aged seventy-two years. He removed, with his parents, to Erie Co., Pa., in 1816, and was converted in M'Kean, Pa., in 1828, and at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Almost from the hour of his conversion it was apparent to all who knew him that his life work was to be that of the ministry. His probation had hardly expired before he was given license to exhort, which was followed soon after with a license to preach. In 1828 his presiding elder, seeing his fitness for the work, employed him to travel as a supply on Forestville Circuit.

In 1835 Brother Flower was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, and was appointed to Napoli. The next year the division of the Pittsburgh Conference occurred, and he fell within the bounds of Erie Conference. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Gerry, Youngsville, Fredonia, Sheridan, Westfield and Mayville, Jamestown, Springfield, M'Kean, Morgan, Geneva, Clarksville, Sargertown, Wattsburgh, Clarion District, Erie District, chaplaincy in the army, Espyville, Hartford and Orangeville, Windsor and Hartsgrove, Thompson, Troy, O., Sargertown again, Coopertown, and Harmonsburgh. During this year his iron constitution broke down, and at our last session he was superannuated. Those familiar with these appointments will see that Brother Flower aided in laying the foundations of some of the best charges in our conference. He labored and other men have entered into his labors. No man ever performed pioneer work more cheerfully and faithfully than he. In 1866 he was elected a delegate to the General Conference which met at Indianapolis.

Brother Flower was a man of most positive character. His angles were sharp and apparent to all. Christianity has never had a follower more ready to contend for the faith than was he. The divinity of Christ, the universality of the atonement, the resurrection of the body, and the justice of God as visited upon sinners in another world, were his favorite themes, and the blows he dealt against his adversaries were the blows of a giant. One of the marked features of his character was a perfect abhorrence of anything like sham. He was morally incapable of acting a false part. He was one's very ideal of frankness. He preached as if under oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, as he should answer to God in the great day. No diluted Gospel for him.

To such as did not know him Brother Flower may have passed as a hard, stern man: but a greater mistake could hardly have been made. He had a heart as gentle as a woman's. In the sacredness of home he was to his children more like an elder brother than a father. A man more loyal to generous sympathies never answered at roll-call of Erie Conference.

It was impossible that a man so true to God should not have met his dying hour with unruffled spirit. He saw death approaching slowly but surely, yet he witnessed that approach as calmly as though it brought him the destinies of a mere hour instead of an eternity. When asked what message he had to send to his brethren of the conference, he replied, "Tell them that I love them tenderly; that I always have loved them, and shall love them to the last. Tell them, too, that of the great doctrines that I have been preaching for forty years there is not one of them that I wish to alter. I stand by all of them now, and they stand by me. Tell them that." God grant that the mantle of Elijah may fall upon the prophets left behind!

QUEST. 15. Have any died?

David L. Winslow, Michael Decker—2.

1. DAVID L. WINSLOW was a native of Coleraine, Mass. He there began life on the 7th of October, 1813. His father designed him for the medical profession, and shaped his education to that end. After his conversion, at the age of seventeen, he experienced a growing desire for the work of the ministry, which made the study and prospective practice of medicine distasteful. At the age of twenty-two, after a preparatory course of study, he entered the New England Conference. For seventeen years he labored in the several fields assigned him in that conference with untiring zeal, constant fidelity, and success. Family ties growing strong in the West, he removed to Illinois and connected himself with the Rock River Conference in 1853. In all the charges committed to his care in this conference for seventeen years—from Sycamore, the first, to Lee Center, the last—he proved himself an energetic and faithful pastor, an acceptable and a successful preacher of the "glorious Gospel of the Son of God," and the influence of his thirty-four years of self-sacrificing devotion to the work of the itinerant ministry lives in a multitude of hearts, and in the precious memories that spread their fragrance over his numerous fields of Christian toil. As a public laborer in the kingdom of Christ his heart was all aglow with interest in the work to which his life had been given.

Brother Winslow died April 28, 1875, at his residence near Hinckley, Illinois. So quietly did he sink to rest that his wife and family scarcely thought they were looking upon death. His friends do not know that he was conscious of the approach of the messenger who "bade him suddenly remove" to his eternal home. But though Death came thus suddenly, his coming was not entirely unexpected, and Brother Winslow was living in full and constant preparation for the great event. A few evenings before his death he joined in conversation with his family upon the Bible doctrine of special providence in all the minute affairs of life; and in his remarks upon the subject he mentioned with deep emotion some of his own experiences, in which he had felt assured that God had ordered his steps with a father's wisdom and love. He felt, too, that the loving Father who watches over us in life wisely chooses for his children the time and circumstances of their death. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints."

2. MICHAEL DECKER was born in Stanton, Va., April 18, 1814. He was educated at Augusta College, Kentucky. He studied for the medical profession, and practiced it for several years. While thus engaged he felt himself called of God to the work of the Christian ministry. A desire to provide comfortably for his parents in their old age held him back for a time, but, after struggling with his convictions for several years, he finally yielded, and was admitted into full connection in the Rock River Conference in 1844. His first field of ministerial work was at Geneva, Wis. Since then he has been appointed to Waukegan, Elizabeth, Savanna, Crystal Lake, Belvidere, Sycamore, Lighthouse, Mount Carroll, Cedarville, Buffalo Grove, Franklin Grove, and Genoa. He filled these appointments with acceptability and usefulness. He then located, but continued to labor as opportunity offered. Meanwhile the war of the rebellion broke out and he entered the army, serving for three years as the faithful and popular chaplain of the Thirty-fourth Regiment of Illinois volunteers. At the close of the war he was re-admitted to the Rock River Conference. His fields of labor since that time were Kingston, Creston, Lyndon, Capron, Cherry Valley, and Crete. To this last mentioned place he was appointed at the last session of our conference.

In the last prayer-meeting Brother Decker attended he spoke with marked emphasis of his personal communion with God. On the following Sabbath, the fourth of his ministration to the people of Crete, while preaching at the morning service he was smitten by paralysis, and taken from the pulpit to his dying bed. He lingered a few days speechless, but conscious and calm; then passed quietly away to the fullness of joy found in the presence of God.

In May, 1864, Brother Decker was married to Miss R. C. Fuller, of Belvidere, who survives him. His former wife had died some years previously. Brother Decker was a true, generous, frank, and honest man. He was a loving husband, a kind father, a faithful and useful Christian minister. His sudden death gives emphasis to our Lord's injunction, "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

W. T. Snow, H. H. Ferris, L. F. Drake—3.

1. WILLIAM T. SNOW died in Worthington, October 16, 1875, after an illness of eight weeks, at the age of seventy-two years. He was born in Providence, R. I., and came to Worthington with his father in 1818. He was liberally educated, and trained to mercantile business. In 1826, having embraced religion, he was licensed to preach, and soon after joined the Ohio Conference, which then embraced a large portion of Virginia, Ohio, and Michigan. For a number of years he performed the arduous duties of an itinerant preacher in the mountains of Western Virginia, Southern Ohio, and the wilds of Michigan. While preaching in Michigan he married the daughter of Captain Gad Chamberlain, a leading pioneer citizen of Macomb Co., Mich. In 1836–7, his naturally delicate constitution having given way under his labors, he was forced to retire from the active work of an itinerant preacher, residing in Oakland Co., Mich., where he faithfully labored, as his strength would permit, in preaching to the Indians.

Mr. Snow was in many respects a remarkable man. He was possessed of a strong, active mind; his business habits and qualifications were of the first order; his religious principles deep-seated and well defined, rendering his life useful and his acts highly meritorious. His benevolence and public and religious enterprise will cause him long to be remembered by his neighbors and the Church of his choice.

2. H. H. FERRIS died March 13, 1875, in Columbus. He was born April 28, 1823, and in his fifteenth year was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1852 he was received on trial into the Ohio Conference, and filled the following appointments: Darbyville Circuit, Nelsonville Circuit, West Jefferson, Johnstown, Royalton, Marysville, Groveport Circuit, Elizabethtown, Worthington, M'Arthur, Baltimore, Middleport, West Rushville, Etna, Plain City.

Brother Ferris was a good preacher, a faithful worker, and has many seals to his ministry. He suffered from a complication of diseases for about four weeks, yet missed but one Sabbath appointment. He passed from his work on earth without a pang to his rest in heaven. He felt that his preparation for the better world was made. No doubts, no fears, but with holy resignation to the Divine will, he committed his family to God and the Church, and himself to his Saviour.

3. LEMUEL F. DRAKE was born July 17, 1822, near Mount Vernon, Ohio. He was a lawyer by profession, and resigned the probate judgeship of Pike County in 1853 to enter the ministry in the Ohio Conference, in connection with which he traveled Deer Creek, New Holland, Kingston, Frankfort, Bloomingburgh, Rehoboth, Bourneville, West Lancaster, Bloomingburgh again. He was chaplain of the one hundred and twenty-first regiment of Ohio volunteers for four years. He then became presiding elder of Jonesborough District, Holston Conference, for four years, and for a time presiding elder of Athens District in the same conference. Sabbath, April 4, found Brother Drake in his usual health, working with his accustomed vigor. He preached in Bloomingburgh on that morning from Proverbs xxii, 6, with unusual unction and force. At the close he was stricken with apoplexy, and in forty minutes was dead.

Brother Drake was a man of symmetrical physical, mental, and moral character. He was sympathetic and social in his nature, firm and courageous in spirit. In his hands no enterprises of the Church were suffered to languish. He diligently attended to all the duties of a pastor in things great and small. He faithfully searched out all the obscure, the weak, and distressed in his parish, and not only visited them, but loved and cared for them with all the tenderness of a father. His voice was strong but tender. He was sound in his views of theology and of Church law. His preaching was characterized by clearness and strength. Hundreds will bless God in the day of eternity for benefits received from his instrumentality. For twenty-one years he bore the burden and heat of the day as a minister of the Gospel. In labors he was abundant, always cheerful and hopeful. He was beloved in life and lamented in death.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

F. W. Dighton, R. Langley, W. H. Palmer—3.

1. F. W. DIGHTON was born in New York, September 24, 1832. He was converted in early life, was reclaimed in 1853, and in the same year was united in marriage to Miss Dolly Ann Gillett. God soon said to him "Go work in my vineyard," and he "was not disobedient to the call." He was received on trial in the Niagara Conference in 1857, and traveled successively in Canada, the Palermo, Barton, Florence, London, Brook, and Sandwich Circuits; and in Wisconsin the Augusta, Pepin, Mondovi, Luna, and Louisville Circuits, on the last of which he was seized with epilepsy. At the following session of his conference he was superannuated. In the fall of 1874 he was employed by the presiding elder on the Durant Charge, and at the close of a successful revival meeting was taken with inflammation of the lungs. As the moment of his dissolution was approaching he called his family and friends as near as his already difficult breathing would admit without immediate suffocation, and then called them all to their knees; and while in solemn prayer his soul took its flight to the realms above, February 24, 1875.

Brother Dighton was a fair specimen of an old fashioned Methodist preacher. Though naturally timid, his unconquerable zeal and mighty faith made him a man of more than ordinary power, and won for him many friends. Hundreds in Canada, and especially in Wisconsin, rise to call him blessed. Our Wisconsin hills and prairies are made vocal with the praises of the many brought to Christ through his instrumentality.

2. ROBERT LANGLEY was born in Portsmouth, Va., January 4, 1805, and died, happy in the Lord, October 16, 1874, at Reedsburgh, Wis. He was converted early in life, but, like many emigrants to the West, fell a victim to improper social habits, and was led into sin. From such a life he was reclaimed during special revival services held in Snake Hollow, now Potosi, Wisconsin, January 16, 1840, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. His sturdy honesty and strong native energy were now turned to good account, and he became a very active and useful member of the infant society resulting from the meeting in which he was reclaimed. Passing through the offices of leader, steward, exhorter and local preacher, he was admitted to the itinerant ranks in the Wisconsin Conference in 1852, and subsequently, by division, fell into this conference. Twice he has been superannuated, during part of which time he filled appointments as supply. His regular appointments were: Patch Grove, Beetown, Fayette, Sparta, Burns, Portage City, Manstun, Necedah and New Lisbon, New Lisbon, Reedsburgh. During his second year at Portage City he went to the field as chaplain of the fifth regiment of Wisconsin volunteers, but health failing, he returned in the spring following.

Not less than fourteen churches were partly or wholly built under Brother Langley's pastorates. He was thrice married. Two children of his first wife, and his third wife, survive him. He was a man of strong impulses, a good preacher, a firm believer in the standard doctrines of Methodism, a stanch advocate of temperance, and every way a noble Christian. May we forget his failings and emulate his excellences!

3. WILLIAM H. PALMER was born August 16, 1821, and died in Platteville, September 23, 1874. In early life he chose the profession of law, and in this for years excelled. In 1847 he was married to Mrs. M. R. Randal, who for years shared with him the joys and sorrows of an itinerant life in West Wisconsin.

In March, 1858, Brother Palmer was soundly converted, which event wrought an entire change in his plans and life-work. Three months after his conversion he was granted license as an exhorter, and within almost one year he was knocking at the door of the West Wisconsin Conference. At its session in the spring of 1859 he was received on probation and appointed to Point Bluff, where for two years he labored. His next field was Lancaster. At the close of his first year he entered the army as captain, in which position he served for more than two years, performing at the same time, as he had opportunity, the duties of chaplain. On leaving the army he was readmitted to conference, and stationed at Dodgeville. Here he remained two years, at Darlington two, Monroe two, Providence two, and Platteville two, where, like the faithful soldier, he fell at his post. For months his health had been gradually failing, but he was ever cheerful, happy, and hopeful. At his last quarterly conference he was granted leave of absence, in the hope that rest would recruit his health, but he gradually grew worse. Within a few days of his return there came the lifeless form of a devoted son—a son whom he had left in Chicago but a few days before strong and well, and who in a few short hours was smitten down by death. This proved too much for the already weakened constitution, and from this time he rapidly sank. His last conscious conversation was on matters pertaining to his much-loved Church, to which he gave the best years of his life. During the last few days of his illness he was for the most part unconscious, hence he left no dying testimony; but in the absence of this, we rejoice in the record of a pure and holy life. This conference has lost one of its most noble and generous men, the Church a faithful worker, and the family a most devoted husband and father.

Memoir of Rev. John Wright Roberts.

John Wright Roberts was born in Petersburgh, Virginia. He was converted in the United States, and here joined the M. E. Church. At an early age he emigrated to the colony of Liberia, and in 1838 was admitted into the Liberia body of missionaries. He was elected to elders' orders at the Liberia Conference in January, 1841, and came to America and was ordained the same year. He was elected to the office of bishop at their Conference in 1866, pursuant to provisions incorporated into the Discipline for the election and ordination of missionary bishops. He arrived in New York, and was consecrated to the office in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, in New York, on the evening of June 20, 1866, and left the port of New York for Liberia June 25. Since that date he has labored faithfully for the upbuilding of our Church in the Republic of Liberia and the adjacent territory, receiving his discharge only at his death, which took place on Saturday night, the 30th of January, 1875. He had been in feeble health for months, and, in great weakness, had come to Monrovia to make arrangements for obtaining a vessel to go down the coast to conference, which was this year appointed to be held at Greenville. It was, however, found impossible to obtain a vessel, and the place of meeting was necessarily changed to Monrovia When the time of the session had arrived the bishop was very sick, and another filled the chair. He grew rapidly worse. The Friday session was interrupted by the announcement that the bishop was dying, and the conference immediately adjourned, to meet around his bedside for prayer and supplication. His dying hours were crowned with glorious experiences, and this last interview with the members of his conference was most affecting, and marked by fullness of faith and love and hope.

Bishop Roberts was endowed with excellent mental gifts, which, under the circumstances of his early condition, were exceedingly well trained. His grace of manner and of spirit was superior. A gentleman by nature and culture, a Christian in faith and life, he impressed most favorably all with whom he associated. He was a diligent and judicious administrator within the bounds of that portion of the Church committed to his charge. May his life and labors bring forth fruit to the spiritual and temporal prosperity of the young Republic, and of the vast continent on which it is located !

OBITUARIES

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

Arkansas Conference.

ALEXANDER J. SMITH was born in the State of South Carolina in 1831. He was a son of devout Christian parents, and professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church when only nine years of age. He began to exhort when seventeen, and was licensed to preach and admitted on trial in the Mississippi Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1855. After being ordained an elder he was located, at his own request. He was admitted into the Missouri and Arkansas Conference, as a traveling elder, in 1869, and labored faithfully and successfully within the bounds of that conference till February 2, 1875, when "he passed away as calmly as if falling into a common sleep."

Brother Smith was modest to a fault. He was a good preacher, thoroughly Methodistic, a kind husband, an affectionate father, courteous to every one, and most loved by those who knew him best. He was never idle. Though his health for many years steadily declined, he labored till the last hour came, and died at his post. Though he was called by the Master but ten or fifteen days before the session of conference, more than a hundred miles away, so well and carefully had he done his work that his beloved companion was able to prepare and transmit a quite satisfactory report of his circuit, (Yellville.)

Brother Smith was a fair English, not to say classical, scholar. He was an untiring student, and no man ever tried more than he to educate his children, notwithstanding his poverty and privation. But he is gone, and his works do follow him. May we meet him in the better land!

Western N. Y. Conference.

1. GLEZEN FILLMORE, D. D., was born in Bennington, Vt., December 22, 1789, and died in Clarence, January 26, 1875. He was the oldest of five children, and outlived the whole, excepting one, Rev. A. N. Fillmore, a member of Western New York Conference. His name and history are more intimately connected with the rise and spread of Methodism in Western New York than those of any other man, living or dead. He was licensed to exhort March 18, 1809, and on the 28th he started, with a knapsack on his back, for the West. He was married to Lavina Atwell, September 20, 1809. On the 10th of October, 1809, he was licensed to preach. The nine years following, spent as a local preacher, were years of earnest and efficient labor. In 1818 he was admitted into the Genesee Conference, and appointed to Buffalo and Black Rock. At this time there was no church building in Buffalo. There were probably 1,500 inhabitants. His first duty was to look for a place to preach. A lot was leased on what is now Franklin-street, and a church, twenty-five by thirty-five feet, was commenced on the 8th of December, and dedicated on the 24th of January following, a period of forty-eight days. During his labors here a quarterly meeting was to be held in Clarence. The entire Church, consisting of seven persons, rode in a lumber wagon to the meeting. At the end of his second year he reported eighty-two members. His salary during the first year was $70; the second year, $150. In 1821 the old Holland Purchase Circuit was constituted a district by the name of Erie, and he appointed to the charge of it. But what a district! It stretched from Lake Ontario to Meadville, Pa., and was nearly as wide as the old Genesee Conference. The labors of such a district were severe in the extreme, and the support exceedingly meager. The records show that at one quarterly meeting in this city he received 79 cents; at Lewiston, 75 cents. In 1830–31 he was pastor of the first and only Methodist Episcopal Church then in Rochester. These years were the most remarkable of his entire ministry. In August there was a camp-meeting held in Henrietta, which was attended with wonderful displays of divine power. The influence of the revival was carried back to Rochester. During its progress some nine hundred professed conversion. The Minutes of 1833 show a membership of seven hundred and thirty-two. This was the commencement of prosperity for Methodism in the then "village" of Rochester. If Buffalo may claim Dr. Fillmore as the real founder of Methodism there, Rochester is also indebted to him for laying broad and deep the foundations of her success. He closed his public ministry where he commenced it forty-nine years before, counting in his time as a local preacher. The last four years of his active life were spent as presiding elder of Buffalo District. Four times he was appointed as pastor in the city, and there, as pastor and presiding elder, he labored twenty-one years. Twenty-seven years was he a presiding elder, and fourteen years a pastor. He belonged to the Genesee Conference (reckoning two years since its name was changed to Western New York) fifty-six years, and never missed a session; and it is doubtful if he was ever absent from his seat an hour, excepting at one session, when he was prevented by an accident received while in attendance. He showed his strong love for his life-work in the remark which he made to his associate, Rev. R. L. Waite, as he left the cabinet without an appointment to ask for a superannuated relation, "This is the hardest appointment I ever received."

When the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary was established at Lima he took an active part in its conduct, and during a large part of his public life was a trustee. He was four times chosen by his brethren to represent them in General Conference.

Glezen Fillmore needs no marble to keep alive his name in the history of Methodism of Western New York. The Churches which were planted in this city, in Rochester, and other fields, by his loving toil, shall be his enduring monument after brass and marble have crumbled into dust.

For some time previous to his death his family observed that he spent more time than usual in secret devotion and Bible reading. He looked forward to death as the weary traveler looks to the night for rest, and he lay down at last as peacefully as to pleasant dreams. Even the king of terrors seemed obsequious in his presence, and tenderly and sweetly closed his mortal career. His race is run. He has exchanged the long, weary road of the itinerant for the golden streets and sunlit hills of glory. An old warrior, covered with the dust of many a long-contested field, has been crowned a victor by the Saviour's own hand.

2. SCHUYLER SEAGER, D. D., was born July 26, 1807, in Simsbury, Conn., and died in Lockport, N. Y., October 22, 1874. His history forms an important part of the history of ten different Churches and two seminaries, and extends over a period of more than forty years of active life. In his boyhood he was distinguished as a thorough scholar. He graduated with honor in the Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., in the year 1836, and at the institution he received in course in 1839 the degree of Master of Arts. Two institutions at the same time conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, one of which was his own Alma Mater. As an illustration of his scholarship, he daily read several chapters of the New Testament in the original Greek, and in this way he read the entire book through thirty-four times.

Dr. Seager's first pastorate was in Lockport in 1833. In 1834–5 he prosecuted his studies in the Wesleyan University, and supplied Durham and Middlefield charge in the State of Connecticut. After graduating, in 1836, he took charge of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, and occupied the position seven years. These, as some of the brethren know, were the palmy days of the seminary; with Dr. Seager as principal, and his wife, almost his compeer in scholarship, as preceptress. In 1844 and 1845 he was pastor of the First Church, Rochester; in 1846 and 1847, St. John's (now Asbury) Church, in the same city; in 1848 and 1849 he was stationed at Pearl-street, in Buffalo. From there he went to Swan-street, (now Grace Church,) in the same city. In 1852 and 1853 he was sent again to Lockport. The next six years were spent as principal of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary and Dansville Academy. From thence he went to Albion. In 1863 he was returned to Grace Church, Buffalo. The next three years he was stationed at Batavia, and from there went, at the clamorous demand of the Church, to Albion for another three years. From Albion he went for the third term to Lockport. The last year and a half he was pastor of the Church at Niagara Falls. He was twice elected a member of the General Conference—once in 1844, and again in 1848. He spent twenty-seven years in the regular pastoral work and thirteen in teaching. It is probable that his influence was felt even more extensively as a conductor of a seminary, in which from five hundred to eight hundred were taught each year, than in the pastorate. In fact, he could not travel in any portion of the country but that he would be saluted by men who had received instruction at his hands. Scores of men now in the ministry received their first religious impressions when under his care.

Dr. Seager was a good man. To few men could the scriptural description of Barnabas apply with more propriety: "He was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." His goodness shone all the brighter because it was not heralded by extraordinary professions. His modesty was as remarkable as his piety. Religion was to him a rule of life. As a minister he was successful, his labors being generally crowned with revivals of religion. Some of the most extensive ever known in our Church have taken place under his ministrations. He combined in himself the elements of a general popularity. In his pastoral work he was both dignified and affable. As a platform speaker, especially in his earlier years, he was popular and successful. He was frequently called to the dedication of churches, and at our annual conferences seldom a year passed when he was not demanded as the orator at one or more of the anniversaries.

But we shall see him on earth no more. He has fought life's great battle and conquered. As a victor, he has doubtless been crowned by heaven's King amid applauding angels and joyous saints. Faith looks through the thin vail to the grand and eternal reunions of heaven. There may we greet him, and realize the consummation of all our hopes in an eternity of bliss!

3. C. D. Burlingham was born February 8, 1810, in Greenfield, Saratoga Co., N. Y. Of a family of eleven children he was the fifth. In the year 1818 his father's family removed to Western New York and settled in Perry, Genesee County, now Castile, Wyoming County. This pioneer family suffered the common privations incident to the settlers of a new country. Their religious meetings were held in a private house, and were the means of much good in the early life of the settlers. Though the advantages of education were limited, yet young Burlingham acquired qualifications for teaching, which calling he followed. It was while employed as a teacher in Portageville, Wyoming County, in April, 1831, that he embraced religion and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the spring of 1833 he went to New Berlin, Chenango County, where he was married to Adeline Cornelia Miller, who with four sons and one daughter survive to mourn their loss. In the year 1840 he was received into the Genesee (now Western New York) Conference, of which he continued to be a useful member during life. His appointments were as follows: Gainesville, Hume and Centerville, Portageville, Springville, Rushford, Warsaw, Covington, Perry, Albion, Tonawanda, Olean District, Pekin, Newfane, Knowlesville, Royalton, Tonawanda, Gowanda and Indian Mission, Olean, Portville, to which he was appointed September 29 for the second year, and the day following, the 30th, was translated to his reward.

Brother Burlingham was a man of superior talents, a man of culture and sound piety, an able writer and preacher, an excellent pastor, greatly respected and beloved by all who knew him. His departure was unexpected and sudden, yet he was fully prepared, and died as he had lived, a true Christian, an honored and faithful minister of Christ. He now rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

4. Robert Parker was born at Fishing Creek, Luzerne County, Pa., March 30, 1792, and died in Sparta, Livingston County, December 3, 1874, in his eighty-third year. He was converted at the early age of eleven, and joined the Church. He was married, in 1818, to Susannah, daughter of Major Gardner Gilbert, of revolutionary fame. He joined the Genesee Conference in 1820, and continued a member thereof until his death, being forty-seven years in faithful, active work, and seven years superannuated. The Genesee Conference, at the time above mentioned, included Western and portions of Central and Northern New York, part of Pennsylvania, the whole of Upper Canada, and a part of Michigan. His first charge was Canisteo Circuit, and included Dansville and Painted Post. His last was Rogersville, which was included in his first circuit. His earlier circuits required three hundred miles' travel, which occupied six weeks' time. Riding from morning till evening twilight through thick forests marked only by Indian trails, swimming rivers, climbing hills and mountains, and preaching nightly in log hut or schoolhouse or barn, or out of doors, summer and winter, this veteran did an amount of labor for his Master that few modern preachers conceive of. His life was one of remarkable purity and earnestness, he being always willing to work wherever there was work to do.

For the last two years of his life he was almost entirely bereft of reason by a paralytic stroke. But he never lost his hold on the higher life, but prayed as intelligibly and eloquently, and sang the old familiar hymns as sweetly, as when in the vigor of manhood; and when he was summoned home, he died like a child going to sleep.
